12. CONTROL OF DENGUE FEVER.

1. Unless the progress of Dengue fever is effectively checked, there is danger of a widespread epidemic under the more favourable conditions of the spring and summer seasons which would most seriously affect the efficiency of the fighting forces. The measures indicated must therefore be actively prosecuted during the winter months, not only to reduce sick wastage at present occuring but to prevent or minimise subsequent spread of this disease.
2. Dengue fever, which occurs annually in epidemic form in the DARWIN area, has this year spread to Northern Queensland, affecting also Western Queensland towns, and is now spreading north and south from TOWNSVILLE. Incidence in all the Forces, as well as in the civil population, has been high and the epidemic continues to extend and is causing serious sick wastage.
3. Control measures consist mainly in:-

(a) Preventing the breeding of the mosquito host (Aedes aegypt$)
(b) The destruction of the adult mosquito which once infected, carries infection throughout its life.
(c) The placing of all infected cases under nets or in a mosquito proofed ward to prevent mosquitoes becoming infected through biting. These precautions are necessary in the daytime as well as at night.

It is essential that every practicable measure be taken to secure these results in the Northern Territory Force.
4. Aedes aegypti is a domestic mosquito breeding in and around human habitations or camps in water tanks, roof guttering, blocked drains, tins, bottles and other receptacles containing still waters. It is to such breeding places that attention must be directed.
5. Unit Commanders will be responsible for their own areas and will ensure that:-
(a) Adequate anti-mosquito measures are carried out CONTINUOUSLY in each unit and that sufficient personnel are allocated from the unit for this purpose. These measures will include not only prevention of breeding of mosquitoes, but the destruction of adult mosquitoes by flysol spraying when stocks are available, by "swatting", and by organised hand-killing in tents.

(b) Every case or suspected case of Dengue will be evacuated to a medical unit for treatment.
