

The Australian Jewish News, Melbourne (1935+)

The paper remains an English language weekly with topical Australian Jewish and overseas Jewish news. Yiddish supplements included: Di Oistralisher Yiddishe Naes, and Der Literarisher Journal.

From the 1980s until 1996 there was a further supplement, Merkos L'Inyonei Chinuch. In 1987 the paper merged with the Sydney based The Australian Jewish Times.

Di Oistralisher Yiddishe Naes. Melbourne May 1935+

Supersedes Di Yiddishe Voch

42cm; 4 p Frequency: weekly

Yiddish supplement to the Australian Jewish News.

Social news, congregational announcements, communal news and comment, and world Jewish news.

Der Literarisher Journal: supplement to Australian Jewish News. Melbourne.

DOS 1-4 (1938) .

21 cm; 64-80 p was a monthly.

Editor: Leslie Rubinstein, owner of the Australian Jewish News

Printed by York Press.

The Jewish Weekly News. Melbourne Oct 27 1933 - May1935.

Editor : Chaim Rubinstein.

This in turn had been formed by the amalgamation of The Australian Jewish Herald and Oistralier Leben. Its Yiddish supplement was Di Yiddishe Voch, which had superseded Oistralier Leben.

VSL Oct 27 1933 - May1935

Di Yiddishe Voch. Melbourne. 1934-1935

Superseded by Di Oistralisher Yiddishe Naes

Frequency: weekly

Title transliterated from Yiddish

The Yiddish supplement of The Jewish Weekly News

See: AustralierLeben

No copies located.

Oistralier Leben. Sydney Jan 1931 - 1933

34 cm ; 8 p approx

This Yiddish journal was begun by the printer Altshul in January 1931 was edited by Pinchas Goldhar, but ceased after two years. It was subsequently bought by Leslie Rubinstein, and edited by his father Joachim Chaim Rubinstein. On 27 October 1933 Leslie Rubinstein incorporated The Australian Jewish Herald and Oistralier Leben, and established The Jewish Weekly News which had a Yiddish section called Di Yiddishe Voch. The partnership was dissolved in 1935, and The Australian Jewish Herald resumed as a separate publication, while The Jewish Weekly News became The Australian Jewish News with a Yiddish supplement, Di Oistralisher Yiddishe Naes.

Incorporated in The Jewish Weekly News

b) The Jewish Herald: devoted to the interests of Judaism in the Australian colonies. Sydney and Melbourne

v 1 no 1 - v 40(1879-1919). 38 cm approx Frequency:fortnightly

Editors : Rev Elias Blaubaum (1879-1904) and Moses Moses (1904-1919)

Established in Melbourne in December 1879 by Rev. Elias Blaubaum. Initially a monthly, then fortnightly, with a Yiddish supplement, Di Post, being added. A Sydney edition was published after 1883.

The Australian Jewish Herald. Melbourne v.1 (1920-1933); ns v.1-90 (1935 - Aug 2 1968)

Supersedes The Jewish Herald. Frequency: from 1920-1933 fortnightly and from 1935 weekly.

New series editorial committee: Rabbi Israel Brodie, Jacob Danglow, Sir Archie Michaelis, M.L.A., M. Zeltner and the brothers Abrahams. Newman Hirsch Rosenthal (editor).

Between 1933 and 1935 amalgamated with Di Oistralier Leben to become The Jewish News. In 1935 The Australian Jewish Herald resumed as a separate publication with Newman Hirsch Rosenthal as editor. Another distinguished editor was Nahum Barnet. A Yiddish supplement was issued in 1936, and edited by Gedaliah Shaiak, which ran for 7 issues. In 1949 a new Yiddish supplement, The Australian Jewish Post, was added, and continued to be issued until the paper's closure in 1968. The new series, a pro-Zionist publication, became the official organ of the Victorian Jewish community.