Introduction & Explanation

Morning Prayers

The 10 morning prayer services that have been prepared for our use during the Buttimer Institute of Lasallian Studies in 2014 are intentionally of a similar format, one that closely parallels the triple movement of the method of Lasallian interior prayer. For those who are interested, a brief explanation of this method has been included with these prayer services.

Each prayer service begins with a moment – the first movement – in which we spend some time “recalling the presence of God.” We do this either in song, the words of which recall God’s presence, or with a briefly sung Lasallian invocation.

Each prayer service then invites us to spend some time “reflecting on our Lasallian identity” – the second movement. Normally, two related readings are provided to assist in this reflection; and we recite together an antiphonal response between the two readings. An art image often accompanies one or other of the readings, and a brief pause for quiet reflection is proposed after the second reading.

Each prayer service concludes with some time – the third movement – spent “recommitting to Lasallian mission.” This movement begins with intercessory prayer; and here we are invited to share aloud our prayers of praise, thanksgiving, pardon, or petition after the reader invites: “For whom or for what else shall we pray?” Finally, we have the common recitation of a closing prayer; and each of these prayers, which we say together and by association with fellow Lasallians, asks for divine assistance and is an expression of our re-commitment to the Lasallian educational mission. A very slight pause at the end of each line of the prayer would keep the closing prayer from being rushed and add to a more prayerful and reflective conclusion of our time together as a community gathered in the presence of God.

Evening Prayers

The 10 evening prayer services that have been prepared for our use during the Buttimer Institute of Lasallian Studies in 2014 are also intentionally of a similar format.

Each begins with a call to worship; and one of three different Lasallian beginnings or “calls to prayer” has been used for each evening. One focuses on God, who is shepherd and guide; one focuses on Jesus, who is present in our midst; and one focuses on the Spirit of prophetic justice, who enlivens us for mission.

Each invites us to consider one or other aspect of discipleship by centering on a recent deceased personage – a reflection on a modern icon – who embodies some aspect of gospel living. An image of the person accompanies the prayer service, as is a reading from the writings of that person. The reading is focused and not too long.

The prayers, which come at the end of a long day and after an evening spent in study and discussion together, are intentionally kind of reflective and meditative rather than wordy or interactive. Some recorded instrumental music will be played after the reading, and this quiet music will last for about three to five minutes. A question is provided as a possible stimulus to personal reflection during the quiet that follows the reading.

Each concludes with the common recitation of a closing prayer; and each of these prayers, which we say together and by association with fellow Lasallians, asks for divine assistance and is an expression of our re-commitment to the Lasallian educational mission. A very slight pause at the end of each line of the prayer would keep the closing prayer from being rushed and add to a more prayerful and reflective conclusion of our time together as a community gathered in the presence of God.

Acknowledgements

These prayer services, which were prepared by Tina Bonacci and Brother William Mann, will hopefully provide you with some usable or adaptable prayer resources when you return to your communities and ministries. Brother Timothy Coldwell, Brother Charles Kitson, Brother Frederick Mueller, Susannah Nelson, and Brother Larry Schatz provided invaluable feedback and suggested corrections as the prayers were put together. Brother John Cantwell kindly adapted the Lasallian antiphon of Brother Antonio Botana for our use.

Some of the prayer services are adaptations of prayers that were prepared by others. For example, “Ambassadors and Ministers of Jesus Christ,” “Deeply Human and Deeply Christian,” “Let the Children Come to Me,” and “Seeing and Blessing Young People” are, with minor adaptations, materials prepared by Brother Nicholas Hutchinson and Brother Damian Lundy for Walk in My Presence: A Book of Prayer Services and Resources, Vol. 2 (Great Britain, 1996).

Please note that the prayer services are a work-in-progress, and some consideration is being given to revise them and to prepare similar prayer services at some time in the future.

A Life for Others

Recalling the Presence of God

Opening Prayer

Leader: Let us remember...
All: that we are in the holy presence of God.

Song

“The Servant Song”

Will you let me be your servant.
Let me be as Christ to you.
Pray that I might have the grace
To let you be my servant, too.

We pilgrims on a journey.
We are trav'lers on the road.
We are here to help each other
Walk the mile and bear the load.

I will hold the Christ-light for you
In the night time of your fear.
I will hold my hand out to you;
Speak the peace you long to hear.

I will weep when you are weeping.
When you laugh, I'll laugh with you.
I will share your joy and sorrow
Till we've seen this journey through.

When we sing to God in heaven,
We shall find such harmony
Born of all we've known together
Of Christ's love and agony.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

A Reading from the Writings of Archbishop Oscar Romero

“We have continuously to repeat, although it is a voice that cries in the desert,
'no to violence, yes to peace.'”

“My life has been threatened many times. My death will be for the liberation of my people and a testimony of hope for the future. A bishop will die; but the Church of God, which is the people, will never perish. I don’t believe in death without resurrection. They can kill me, but they cannot kill the voice of justice. If they kill me, I will rise again in the Salvadorian people.

“Christ invites us not to fear persecution because, believe me, brothers and sisters, whoever decides for the poor must endure the same fate as the poor; and in El Salvador we know what the fate of the poor really means – to disappear, to be tortured, to be imprisoned, and to be found dead.”

[about 20 seconds]

Our Response

from the Writings of Archbishop Oscar Romero

All: If they kill me,
I will rise again.

Side One: This is what we are about:
we plant seeds
that will one day grow.
We water seeds already planted,
knowing that they hold future promise.

Side Two: We lay foundations that will need further development.
We provide yeast
that produces effects beyond our capabilities.

Side One: We cannot do everything, and there is a sense of liberation in realizing that.

Side Two: This enables us to do something,
and to do it very well.
It may be incomplete,
but it is a beginning.

Side One: It is a step along the way,
an opportunity for God’s grace to enter and do the rest.

All: If they kill me,
I will rise again.

A Reading of “Ten Hard Years in Vietnam” by Brother Michael Pham, FSC

“The situation in my country turned tragic after the events of 1975. As soon as the communists took over our government, all the private schools were closed ... I was given 13 years detention, though, in fact, I did only 10. In the first six months, everything went quite well. I was put in a dungeon without light, with handcuffs and shackles around my feet; and as I had nothing else to do, I divided my time between sleep and prayer. After that, I was transferred to several different prison camps; and during the first seven years, I lived in the biggest camp in the south of Vietnam ... There were more than 2,000 prisoners there on hard labor. They included young illiterate criminals. This got me really thinking: could I honestly do nothing to help them? However, study and teaching were strictly forbidden; and a reign of terror ensured that the regulation was not usually broken. But I had to do something; so very much on the quiet, I began to live my Lasallian vocation as a teacher.

“Walls have ears, though; and several times I was found out and put into solitary confinement – first for a month and then for longer periods. My friends ... would say, ‘Don’t forget that charity begins at home. Stop getting yourself into trouble.’ But my Lasallian zeal to teach these young illiterate criminals simply grew under pressure, and I extended my lessons ... It was this Lasallian spirit which gave me the courage to make the effort to live in joy under the most wretched of conditions.”

Recommitting to Lasallian Mission

Intercessory Prayer

Reader: That we might have the graces necessary to suffer with patience the difficulties we have to endure, we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: That we might have the courage to live with Lasallian zeal our holy ministry of education, we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: For whom or for what else shall we pray?
[Response: Lord, hear our prayer.]

Closing Prayer

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer:

All: O good and loving creator God,
we offer you the whole of this day.
Let all our prayer, work, joy, and suffering join with the lives offered to you by the whole People of God and especially with Jesus, your son and our brother.

Let your Spirit be with us today,
in all that we do on behalf of the gospel.
And we entrust to your loving concern
our families, our loved ones,
and all those with whom we live and work. Amen.

Leader: St. John Baptist de La Salle,

All: pray for us.

Leader: Live Jesus in our hearts,

All: forever.

Brother John Johnston

Call to Worship

Leader: Almighty and ever-loving God, our Shepherd and Guide, we are exhorted by St. John Baptist de La Salle, to be shepherds to those “entrusted to our care.” As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), may it remind us of our call to be loving and caring older brothers and sisters to those with whom we work. And so, let us remember...

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Brother John Johnston, former Superior General, died of cancer in Memphis in October 2007. The following words from a letter he wrote were used in the homily delivered at his funeral.

“Three years ago, I had the privilege of spending four weeks with young Brothers of the Lwanga District ... The novices’ retreat took place in a beautiful center several hours from Nairobi. The feature that most impressed me about the center was the outdoor, life-sized Way of the Cross. This Way of the Cross ... includes not only the traditional stations, but also an additional 11 or 12 ... representing scenes in the life of Jesus.

“One of the stations in particular moved me profoundly, so much so that I returned to it every afternoon of the retreat. The station commemorates Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane the night before he died. Jesus is on his knees, holding an oversized cup, the cup that represents for him the will of God in his regard, the cup the Father is asking him to drink ... ‘Abba, Father, for you everything is possible. Take this cup away from me. But let it be as you, not I, would have it...’

“Drinking the cup leads Jesus to the cross. His terror and anguish does not leave him. He shouts, ‘My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?’ We know, however, that Jesus moves beyond that feeling of abandonment and cries out ‘yes’ to what his Father is permitting to happen to him ...

“To be a disciple of Jesus is to live with arms outstretched, in an attitude of ‘yes’ to whatever God wills. It is to stand before the Father as Jesus did and to cry out, ‘My Father, if this cup cannot pass by, but I must drink it, your will be done.’”

- How am I to live my life intentionally with arms outstretched, in an attitude of “yes” to whatever God wills?

Pause for Quiet Reflection

[for 3 to 5 minutes]

Closing Song: Now We Remain

Refrain:

We hold the death of the Lord deep in our hearts.
Living; now we remain with Jesus the Christ.

Once we were people afraid, lost in the night.
Then by your cross we were saved;
dead became living, life from your giving.

Something which we have known, something we’ve touched.
What we have seen with our eyes;
this we have heard: life giving word.

Closing Prayer

from Brothers Nicholas Hutchinson and Damian Lundy in Walk in My Presence

Leader: As our time of prayer draws to a close, let us be of one mind and one heart as we pray:

All: Loving God,
we ask you to bless us and to bless all to whom you send us.
Inspire us with your Spirit and enable us to live the gospel more authentically that we may be credible witnesses of your love and ambassadors of Jesus, your Son.
May your power shine through our weakness,
since we are earthen vessels.
In our affliction, let us never be crushed;
in our doubts, never despair;
in temptation, never be destroyed.
May our weaknesses become your opportunities,
and inspire us always to praise you. Amen.

Leader: St. John Baptist de La Salle,

All: pray for us.

Leader: Brother John Johnston, model of gospel living,

All: inspire us.

Leader: Live Jesus in our hearts,

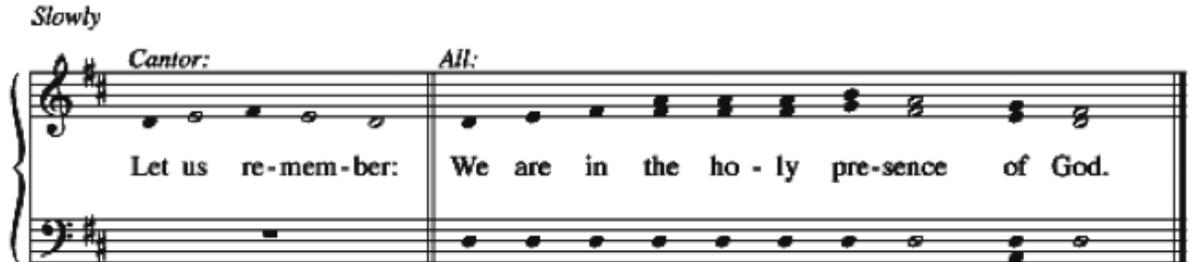

All: forever.

Reflecting on our Lasallian Identity

A Reading from the Gospel of Luke 1:26-38

“In the sixth month, the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a town of Galilee called Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man named Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin’s name was Mary. And coming to her, he said, ‘Hail, favored one! The Lord is with you.’ But she was greatly troubled at what was said and pondered what sort of greeting this might be. Then the angel said to her, ‘Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. Behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall name him Jesus. He will be great and will be called Son of the Most High, and the Lord God will give him the throne of David his father, and he will rule over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there will be no end.’ But Mary said to the angel, ‘How can this be, since I have no relations with a man?’ And the angel said to her in reply, ‘The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. Therefore, the child to be born will be called holy, the Son of God. And behold, Elizabeth, your relative, has also conceived a son in her old age; and this is the sixth month for her who was called barren; for nothing will be impossible for God.’ Mary said, ‘Behold, I am the handmaid of the Lord. May it be done to me according to your word.’ Then the angel departed from her.”

Brief Reflective Pause [about 20 seconds]

Our Response from the Gospel of Luke 1:46-55

All: Blessed is the Virgin Mary
who bore the Son of the Eternal Father.

Reader: My soul glorifies the Lord.
My spirit rejoices in God, my savior.

All: Blessed is the Virgin Mary
who bore the Son of the Eternal Father.

Reader: He looks on his servant in her nothingness;
henceforth, all ages will call me blessed.
The Almighty works marvels for me.
Holy is his name!

All: Blessed is the Virgin Mary
who bore the Son of the Eternal Father.

Reader: His mercy is from age to age
on those who fear him.
He put forth his arm in strength and scatters the proud-hearted.

All: Blessed is the Virgin Mary
who bore the Son of the Eternal Father.

Reader: He casts the mighty from their thrones and raises the lowly.
He fills the starving with good things,
and sends the rich away empty.

All: Blessed is the Virgin Mary
who bore the Son of the Eternal Father.

Reader: He protects Israel, his servant,
remembering his mercy,
the mercy promised to our ancestors,
to Abraham, Sarah, and their children forever.

All: Blessed is the Virgin Mary
who bore the Son of the Eternal Father.

An Adapted Reading from Feminine Spirituality by Rosemary Haughton

“The coming of God into our lives can happen to any of us; one doesn’t have to be a saint. The attempt to say ‘yes’ to God changes people. God comes into our lives, even if we find this hard to understand. He works there; he becomes available in us to others who are wanting him. This even happens, sometimes, to people who do not believe.

“Think for a moment of Mary, the Mother of God. Her story began with a simple ‘yes.’ This woman said ‘yes’ to something that was going to change her whole life and the lives of others. She didn’t know exactly how or even precisely why. But she said ‘yes,’ and with this ‘yes’ Mary conceived the child whom we recognize as Jesus, our Savior and Lord. We know that something of revolutionary importance and on a cosmic scale happened when Mary said ‘yes’ to God’s messenger. But we can never understand how she felt.

The Annunciation (or Ecce Ancilla Domini) by Dante Gabriel Rossetti

“This same thing happens to us in many little moments, when God sends messengers into our lives, and their invitation is accepted or rejected. It happens to a person needing comfort or help, perhaps an irritating person, at a busy moment. Or something beautiful – a flower struggling to grow among city concrete, or a sunset, the turn of a child’s head, a snatch of music, or laughter – something which demands a response to the glory of the Spirit in the world, only we often prefer not to see it for it disturbs our comfortableness. Or perhaps some humiliation comes, we feel neglected, tied to a dull, thankless job, or we lose a friend, or an opportunity, and again the invitation is to let the experience in, let it work and grow. Whatever it is, it asks that we let the experience take us over, changing us, making us living and helping us grow.

“And so, as you surrender to this experience, as you struggle to know what God is doing in you, remember the woman Mary who knew God’s action in a most profound manner. And so, with a sense of extraordinary release, discovery, companionship find yourself saying: Hail Mary – full of grace, the Lord is with you – and with me, in my way, and so, blessed are we. Pray for me now, because now I’m beginning to know what you knew. Help me to know it more fully, to bring it to birth.”

Recommitting to Lasallian Mission

Intercessory Prayer

Reader: In thanksgiving for those persons and events that have fostered positive change and growth in our lives and for the encouragement and support to keep saying “yes” to God and to life, we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: In thanksgiving for the many ways, both small and great, in which we have been instruments and agents of positive change and growth in the lives of others, especially in the lives of our students and our Lasallian colleagues, we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: For whom or for what else shall we pray?
[Response: Lord, hear our prayer.]

Closing Prayer

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer:

All: Hail Mary, full of grace,
the Lord is with you.
Blessed are you among women,
and blessed is the fruit of your womb, Jesus;
holy Mary, mother of God,
pray for us sinners
now and at the hour of our death. Amen.

Song: "Let the River Flow"

Let the poor man say, "I am rich in Him."
Let the lost man say, "I am found in Him."
Let the river flow.
Let the blind man say, "I can see again."
Let the dead man say, "I am born again."
Oh let the river flow; oh let the river flow.

Let the river flow; let the river flow;
Holy Spirit come; move in power.
Let the river flow; let the river flow.
Holy Spirit come; move in power.
Let the river flow; let the river flow;
Let the river flow.

Call to Worship

Gathering Song: Bring Forth The Kingdom (Marty Haugen)

Cantor: You are the salt for the earth, O people:

All: Salt for the Kingdom of God!

Cantor: Share the flavor of life, O people:

All: Life in the Kingdom of God!

Refrain:

Bring forth the Kingdom of mercy;
Bring forth the Kingdom of peace;
Bring forth the Kingdom of justice,
Bring forth the Kingdom of God!

Cantor: You are a light on the hill, O people:

All: Light for the City of God!

Cantor: Shine so holy and bright, O people:

All: Shine for the Kingdom of God!

Cantor: You are a seed of the Word, O people:

All: Bring forth the Kingdom of God!

Cantor: Seeds of mercy and seeds of justice,

All: Grow in the Kingdom of God!

Cantor: We are a blest and a pilgrim people:

All: Bound for the Kingdom of God!

Cantor: Love our journey and our homeland:

All: Love is the Kingdom of God!

Opening Prayer:

Wise and gentle God, we come to You with a great desire to unite our desire with Yours for us.

You have entrusted our District to us as homeland and vineyard to work for the salvation of young people, especially the poor and those on the margins.

In assembling in gratitude of our past,
and as we envision a new future,
guide our discernment to best respond to the needs

You have entrusted to our care.

Send Your Spirit upon our expanded homeland.

“Recreate the face” of our District in keeping with the desires of Your heart, such that our lives will continue to be Your “Yes” to the world.

We are Yours, and this work is Yours. Amen.

Reading I: Acts 2:42-47

They devoted themselves to the teaching of the apostles and to the communal life, to the breaking of the bread and to the prayers. Awe came upon everyone, and many wonders and signs were done through the apostles. All who believed were together and had all things in common; they would sell their property and possessions and divide them among all according to each one's need. Every day they devoted themselves to meeting together in the temple area and to breaking bread in their homes. They ate their meals with exultation and sincerity of heart, praising God and enjoying favor with all the people. And every day the Lord added to their number those who were being saved.

Reader: The Word of the Lord

All: Thanks be to God.

Reading II: The Legacy of Two Districts

The Story of a new District is the story of our many foundations, the story of Lasallians addressing the need for the salvation of the young through education. Where we find ourselves today as the new District of San Francisco New Orleans has it's heart not in geography, but in pioneering: risk-taking, determination, encounter the other, collaboration.

Reading III: Walking Together

To walk together toward the future, even when the way is still uneven. To go together toward the future, accompanied by light and shadow. To go together toward the future even if it is only revealed to us gradually. To go together toward the future because the time is mature to take that step. To go together toward the future guided by past experiences and confident that new experiences await us. To go together toward the future because together we will be more successful than alone. To go together toward the future as those who are sent in our time ready to put our gifts and talents, our strengths and visions, our faith and hope, in God's hands so that they may become a blessing.

—Sister M. Aldabertha, SCC

Intercessions

Response: O God, Hear Us (Bob Hurd)

O God, hear us;
Hear our prayer.

O God, hear us;
Hear our prayer.

In thanksgiving for the pioneering Brothers and Partners who have gone before us, establishing schools and laying the foundations of our communities in the Districts of San Francisco and New Orleans – Santa Fe, we pray to the Lord...

That the relationships built in the collaborations between the two Districts in the last 15 years may blossom into a sense of belonging for all throughout the District of San Francisco New Orleans, we pray to the Lord...

That through our new District family, we may be led by God's desire to meet the needs of young people, especially the poor and vulnerable, we pray to the Lord...

That the members of the District of San Francisco New Orleans remain authentic spiritual descendants of Saint John Baptist de La Salle, discovering in his life an opening to the Gospel and a model of holiness, we pray to the Lord...

For the newly chosen leadership of the Institute, especially for our Superior General, Brother Bob Schieler, and our General Councilor, Brother Tim Coldwell...that the Spirit might infuse them with the gifts needed to inspire the Lasallian family and meet the challenges of our times, we pray to the Lord...

Closing Prayer

Above all, trust in the slow work of God. We are quite naturally impatient in everything to reach the end without delay. We should like to skip the intermediate stages. We are impatient of being on the way to something unknown, something new. And yet it is the law of all progress that it is made by passing through some stages of instability— and that it may take a very long time. And so I think it is with you; your ideas mature gradually—let them grow, let them shape themselves, without undue haste. Don't try to force them on, as though you could be today what time (that is to say, grace and circumstances acting on your own good will) will make of you tomorrow. Only God could say what this new spirit gradually forming within you will be. Give Our Lord the benefit of believing that his hand is leading you, and accept the anxiety of feeling yourself in suspense and incomplete.

—Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, SJ excerpted from Hearts on Fire

Closing Song: Joyful Joyful We Adore You

Joyful, joyful, we adore you, God of glory, Lord of love;
Hearts unfold like flowers before you, opening to the sun above.
Melt the clouds of sin and sadness; drive the dark of doubt away;
Giver of immortal gladness, fill us with the light of day.

All your works with joy surround you, earth and heav'n reflect your rays,
Stars and angels sing around you, center of unbroken praise;
Field and forest, vale and mountain, flowery meadow, flashing sea,
Chanting bird and flowing fountain, praising you eternally!

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

A Reading From the Writings of Cardinal Hume

“In Auschwitz I was particularly moved by pictures of old men, women, and children huddled together in fear, and naked. The sight of people stripped of their clothes, and thus too of their dignity, haunts me still. There was a kind of blasphemy in what had been done, for the human body is an icon of that beauty which pre-exists in God, and is the prototype of all that we value and admire. As I wandered round those terrible huts, horrified and ashamed at the crimes which had been perpetrated in our time, I was suddenly struck by a picture of young people, boys and girls, healthy, strong, and cheerful. Beneath the picture it read:

‘I freed Germany from the stupid and degrading fallacies of conscience, morality ... We will train young people before whom the world will tremble. I want young people capable of violence – imperious, relentless, cruel.’

“It bears the name of Adolf Hitler. It is a quotation which expresses all that is opposed to a religious and caring attitude to life and to our fellow human beings. It calls for violence (the opposite of gentleness and self-restraint), for imperiousness (the opposite of humility and service), for cruelty (the opposite of kindness and human solidarity) ...

“Auschwitz represents the horror of a society from which God and the values of the gospel have been consciously excluded.”

Our Response From Walk in My Presence, #2 (page 460)

Side One: Grant me, O God, the heart of a child, pure and transparent as a spring;
a simple heart which never harbors sorrows;
a heart glorious in self-serving and tender in compassion.

Side Two: Grant me a heart that is faithful and generous,
which will never forget any good or bear a grudge for any evil.

Side One: Make me a heart gentle and humble,
loving without asking any return,
large-hearted and undaunted, which no ingratitude can sour
and no indifference can weary;

Side Two: A heart penetrated by the love of Jesus;
a heart whose desire will only be satisfied in heaven.
Grant me, O God,
the mind and heart of your dear Son.

Reading From The Diary of Anne Frank

“It’s really a wonder that I haven’t dropped all my ideals because they seem so absurd and impossible to carry out. Yet I keep them, because in spite of everything I still believe that people are really good at heart. I simply can’t build up my hopes on a foundation consisting of confusion, misery, and death. I see the world gradually being turned into a wilderness. I hear the ever-approaching thunder, which will destroy us, too. I can feel the suffering of millions and yet, if I look up into the heavens, I think that it will all come right, that this cruelty, too, will end, and that peace and tranquility will return again. In the meantime, I must uphold my ideals, for perhaps the time will come when I shall be able to carry them out.”

Intercessory Prayer

Reader: Lord Jesus, you have entrusted young people to us; and you yourself stand in our midst. Let us honor that trust and lead these young people to experience your love and care through our ministry with them; we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: Help us, Lord, to be good leaders and witnesses for the people and the youngsters in our care; we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: For whom or for what else shall we pray?

[Response: Lord, hear our prayer.]

Closing Prayer

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer.

All: God, Our Father,
Lead us to find delight in our lives each day,
in all the circumstances in which you place us,
and with the people whom you entrust to us.
Inspire us to seek first your kingdom,
to live joyfully in your presence,
and to grow in your image and likeness.
Empower us with your Spirit that we may transform ordinary lives and be credible witnesses of your love. Amen.

Leader: St. John Baptist de La Salle,

All: pray for us.

Leader: Live Jesus in our hearts,

All: forever.

Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr.

Call to Worship

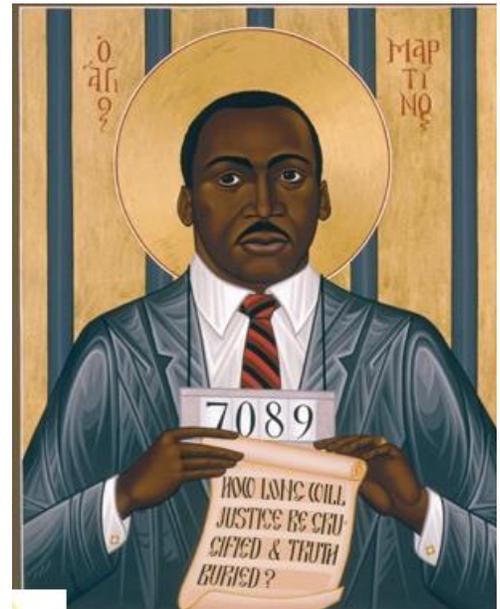

Leader: Holy Spirit, source of all wisdom and understanding, our world needs the kind of educators who, in the words of St. John Baptist de La Salle, might “shine like stars for all eternity” (Dn 12:3). As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), we ask you to light up our world and our hearts with the fire of your prophetic justice; and we take a moment to remember...

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr., was put behind bars in Alabama as a result of his continuous crusade for civil rights. While in jail, he was the subject of criticism by some who thought his protests “unwise and untimely.” In response, King wrote his Letter from Birmingham Jail.

“... When you have seen vicious mobs lynch your mothers and fathers at will and drown your sisters and brothers at whim; when you have seen hate filled policemen curse, kick and even kill your black brothers and sisters; when you see the vast majority of your 20 million Negro brothers smothering in an airtight cage of poverty in the midst of an affluent society; when you suddenly find your tongue twisted and your speech stammering as you seek to explain to your six-year-old daughter why she can’t go to the public amusement park that has just been advertised on television, and see tears welling up in her eyes when she is told that Funtown is closed to colored children, and see ominous clouds of inferiority beginning to form in her little mental sky, and see her beginning to distort her personality by developing an unconscious bitterness toward white people; when you have to concoct an answer for a five-year-old son who is asking: ‘Daddy, why do white people treat colored people so mean?’; when you take a cross county drive and find it necessary to sleep night after night in the uncomfortable corners of your automobile because no motel will accept you; when you are humiliated day in and day out by nagging signs reading ‘white’ and ‘colored;’ when your first name becomes ‘nigger,’ your middle name becomes ‘boy’ (however old you are) and your last name becomes ‘John,’ and your wife and mother are never given the respected title ‘Mrs.;

when you are harried by day and haunted by night by the fact that you are a Negro, living constantly at tiptoe stance, never quite knowing what to expect next, and are plagued with inner fears and outer resentments; when you are forever fighting a degenerating sense of ‘nobodiness’ – then you will understand why we find it difficult to wait.”

- What is the voice inside of me that says, “Wait! Be wise! Now is not the right time!” Whose voice is that; and why do I listen?

Lead Me, Guide Me

Refrain:

Lead me, guide me, along the way.
For if you lead me, I cannot stray.
Lord, let me walk each day with thee.
Lead me, oh Lord, lead me.

I am weak and I need thy strength and power to help me over my weakest hour.
Help me through the darkness thy face to see,
Lead me, oh Lord, lead me.

Help me tread in the paths of righteousness,
be my aid when Satan and sin oppress.
I am putting all my trust in thee.
Lead me, oh Lord, lead me.

Closing Prayer

Grail Prayer

Leader: As our time of prayer draws to a close, let us be of one mind and one heart as we pray:

All: Lord Jesus,
we give you our hands – to do your work.
We give you our feet – to go your way.
We give you our eyes – to see as you do.
We give you our tongues – to speak your words.
We give you our minds – that you may think in us.
We give you our spirits – that you may pray in us.
Above all, we give you our hearts – that you may love, in us,
your Father and all humankind.
We give you our whole selves – that you may grow in us
so that it is you, Lord Jesus, who live and work and pray in us. Amen.

The Holy Presence of God

Recalling the Presence of God

Sung: "Lasallian Invocation" [arranged by Bro. George Van Grieken, FSC]

Slowly

Cantor: All:

Let us re-mem-ber: We are in the ho - ly pre-sence of God.

The image shows a musical score for a song. It is written in G major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. The tempo is marked 'Slowly'. The score is divided into two parts: 'Cantor' and 'All:'. The lyrics are: 'Let us re-mem-ber: We are in the ho - ly pre-sence of God.' The music is written on a grand staff with a treble and bass clef.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

Reading of a Reflection by Brother William Mann on the painting of Jean-François Millet entitled L'Angélu du Soir (1859)

“Jean-François Millet, a French artist of the nineteenth-century, painted peasant scenes and little else. This was life as Millet knew it, for he was himself peasant-born; and his paintings reflect a gentle quality in his depiction of simple, somewhat worn-by-toil fieldworkers.

“For example, look at this couple in the painting. They are simple farmers. How humble and respectful they appear in this scene, as they pause in evening prayer to thank God and the earth for their daily food. If you look carefully, you can see the far-off spire of the church, from which a bell sounds. The day’s work is drawing to a close. The peasant man and woman have been digging potatoes ... the man uncovering them, while his wife has been putting them in the basket. As the tolling of the evening Angelus floats across the fields, they pause and bow their heads in prayer. The man has dropped his pitchfork and uncovered his head, and his wife has clasped her hands devoutly before her. All the air seems still and full of tender sound and color; and we, like Millet, seem ‘to hear the bell.’

“Viewers often identify with the reverence of these two people, and perhaps even feel some of the same elevation and reflection ... a quiet recollection of God’s holy presence. In the here and now of everyday life ... in the midst of daily labor ... with one’s companion ... at the end of a day ... the couple pauses in grateful remembrance and hopeful expectation.

“This practice of pausing and of remembering is not so different from that proposed by De La Salle to the first Brother-teachers. In his Letters, he urged them to ‘often remind yourself ... that you are in the presence of God ... that God is with you;’ and the Common Rules and The Conduct of Schools exhorted them to pause and to remember ... as they knelt to adore God present in all the parts of the community house ... and ... as they entered the classroom for the first time each morning ... or ... as they accustomed the youngsters to the practice of recalling the presence of God each half hour of the school day.

“Wherever we are ... in each place and in each relationship ... in the midst of our employment and the daily events of life ... here and now ... let us also pause, then, in remembrance and expectation.”

Song

“I Will Walk in the Presence of God”

Verse 1:

For the love of the one who has heard my cry:
I will walk in the presence of God.
God has heard my distress and I shall not die:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Refrain: I will walk in the presence of God,
in the land, in the land of the living,
for the love of the one who has heard my cry:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Verse 2: In the cords of my death I was tangled 'round:
I will walk in the presence of God.
Those who seek you in anguish shall not be bound:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Refrain: I will walk in the presence of God,
in the land, in the land of the living,
for the love of the one who has heard my cry:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Verse 3: God has raised up my soul from the gates of death:
I will walk in the presence of God.
God has dried all my tears and renewed my breath:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Refrain: I will walk in the presence of God,
in the land, in the land of the living,
for the love of the one who has heard my cry:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Verse 4: What return can I give for the gifts I claim?
I will walk in the presence of God.
Lift the cup of salvation and praise your name:
I will walk in the presence of God.

Refrain: I will walk in the presence of God,
in the land, in the land of the living,
for the love of the one who has heard my cry:
I will walk in the presence of God.

A Reading from the Fourth Letter by Brother Lawrence of the Resurrection in The Practice of the Presence of God (1685)

“It is not necessary to be always in church to be with God; we can make a private chapel of our heart where we can retire from time to time to commune with Him, peacefully, humbly, lovingly. Everyone is capable of these intimate conversations with God, some more, others less. He knows what we can do. Let us begin. Perhaps he is only waiting for a single generous resolution from us.”

Closing Prayer From Brother Nicholas Hutchinson's Walk in My Presence #2, p. vi

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer:

All: Brother Jesus,
your presence is interwoven
throughout each day of our lives.
As we journey with our fellow pilgrims, touch our hearts and open our eyes that we may recognize you walking beside us.
Lead us to live in such a way that we discover you in the quietness and in the spaces,
as well as in the busyness
of our lives each day.
Continue to call us your friends and accompany us to that place where we shall see our Father, face to face. Amen.

Pope John Paul II

Call to Worship

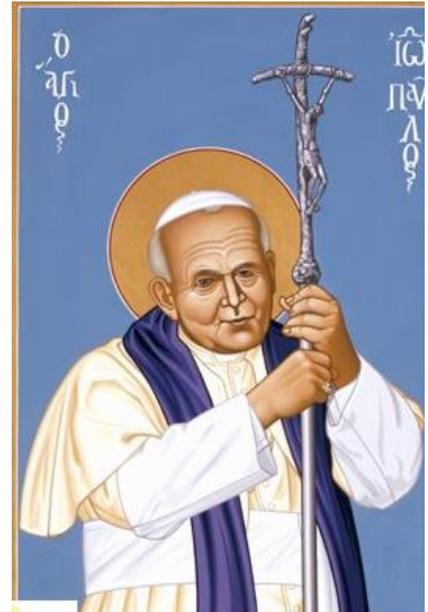

Leader: Almighty and ever-loving God, our Shepherd and Guide, we are exhorted by St. John Baptist de La Salle, to be shepherds to those “entrusted to our care.” As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), may it remind us of our call to be loving and caring older brothers and sisters to those with whom we work. And so, let us remember...

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: During World Youth Day 2002, Pope John Paul II addressed the hundreds of thousands of young people gathered with him in Toronto in the following words.

“Dear young people ... the new millennium opened with two contrasting scenarios: one, the sight of multitudes of pilgrims coming to Rome during the Great Jubilee to pass through the Holy Door which is Christ, our Savior and Redeemer; and the other, the terrible terrorist attack on New York City, an image that is a sort of icon of a world in which hostility and hatred seem to prevail.

“The question that arises is dramatic: on what foundations must we build the new historical era that is emerging from the great transformations of the twentieth century? Is it enough to rely on the technological revolution now taking place, which seems to respond only to criteria of productivity and efficiency, without reference to the individual’s spiritual dimension or to any universally shared ethical values? Is it right to be content with provisional answers to the ultimate questions, and to abandon life to the impulses of instinct, to short-lived sensations or passing fads? The question will not go away: on what foundations, on what certainties should we build our lives and the life of the community to which we belong?”

“ ... The aspiration that humanity nurtures, amid countless injustices and sufferings, is the hope of a new civilization marked by freedom and peace. But for such an undertaking, a new generation of builders is needed. Moved not by fear or violence but by the urgency of genuine love, they must learn to build, brick by brick, the city of God within the [human] city.

“Allow me, dear young people, to consign this hope of mine to you: you must be those ‘builders’! You are the men and women of tomorrow. The future is in your hearts and in your hands. God is entrusting to you the task, at once difficult and uplifting, of working with him in the building of the civilization of love.”

- How ready and willing am I to work with God and with my Lasallian sisters and brothers in building the civilization of love?

City of God (versus 1 & 2)

Awake from your slumber! Arise from your sleep!
A new day is dawning for all those who weep.
The people in darkness have seen a great light.
The Lord of our longing has conquered the night.

Refrain
Let us build the city of God.
May our tears be turned into dancing!
For the Lord, our light and our love,
has turned the night into day!

We are sons of the morning; we are daughters of day.
The One who has loved us has brightened our way.
The Lord of all kindness has called us to be a light for his people to set their hearts free.

Ambassadors and Ministers of Jesus Christ

Recalling the Presence of God

Opening Prayer

Leader: Let us remember...
All: that we are in the holy presence of God.

Opening Song: "Here I Am, Lord"

I, the Lord of sea and sky,
I have heard my people cry.
All who dwell in dark and sin,
My hand will save.

Chorus:
Here am I, Lord. Is it I, Lord?
I have heard you calling in the night.
I will go, Lord, if you lead me.
I will hold your people in my heart.

I, who made the stars of night,
I will make their darkness bright.
Who will bear my light to them?
Whom shall I send?

Chorus:
Here am I, Lord. Is it I, Lord?
I have heard you calling in the night.
I will go, Lord, if you lead me.
I will hold your people in my heart.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

A Reading from Brother John Johnston's "Living Authentically in Christ Jesus" (p. 30)

"God has chosen and called us ... to take the place of Jesus the Good Shepherd, and to do his work. It is our vocation to represent Jesus Christ himself. It is no distortion of the Founder's thought to say that it is our vocation to re-present Jesus Christ, to make him present again: 'He wants your disciples to see him in you, and receive your teaching as if he were teaching them.'

“Our charism in the Church is to make the loving and saving presence of Jesus Christ a visible and effective reality in the world of education, in the world of the young.”

Brief Reflective Pause [about 20 seconds]

Our Response From St. John Baptist de La Salle’s Meditation #195.2

Side One: Since you are ambassadors and ministers of Jesus Christ in the work that you do,
you must act as representing Jesus Christ himself.

Side Two: He wants your disciples to see him in you and to receive your teaching as if he were teaching them.

Side One: They must be convinced that the truth of Jesus Christ comes from your mouth, that it is only in his name that you teach,
and that he has given you authority over them.

Side Two: They are a letter which Christ dictates to you,
which you write each day in their hearts,
not with ink, but by the Spirit of the living God.

Side One: For the Spirit acts in you and by you through the power of Jesus Christ.

Side Two: He helps you overcome
all the obstacles to their salvation, enlightening them in the person of Jesus and helping them to avoid all that could be displeasing to him.

Side One: In order to fulfill your responsibility with as much perfection and care
as God requires of you, frequently give yourself to the Spirit of our Lord to act only under his influence and not through any self-seeking.

Side Two: This Holy Spirit, then,
will fill your students with himself,
and they will be able to possess fully the Christian spirit.

A Reading From Pope Paul VI's Evangelii Nuntiandi

“Let us, therefore, preserve our fervor of spirit. Let us preserve the delightful and comforting joy of evangelizing, even when it is in tears that we must sow. May it mean for us – as it did for John the Baptist, for Peter and Paul, for the other Apostles, and for a multitude of splendid evangelizers all through the Church’s history – an interior enthusiasm that nobody and nothing can quench. May it be the great joy of our ... lives. And may the world of our time, which is searching – sometimes with anguish, sometimes with hope – be enabled to receive the Good News, not from ministers of the Gospel whose lives are dejected, discouraged, impatient, or anxious, but from ministers of the Gospel whose lives glow with fervor, who have first received the joy of Christ, and who are willing to risk their lives so that the Kingdom may be proclaimed and the Church established in the midst of the world.”

Intercessory Prayer Based on the Writings of De La Salle from Walk in My Presence #2

Reader: Lord, in your providential care you have called us to this ministry. Help us to put to good use the gifts and talents you have given us; we pray...

All: Lord, we turn to you in confidence and pray that your Spirit may come alive in us and transform us since you have chosen us to do your work.

Reader: Lord, enable us to grow in the spirit of love and prayer, often calling to mind your abiding presence. Inspire us to join prayer to our efforts for, failing this, our actions will have little effect; we pray...

All: Lord, we turn to you in confidence and pray that your Spirit may come alive in us and transform us since you have chosen us to do your work.

Reader: Lord, enable us to look upon those whom you have entrusted to us as your children. May we take much more care over their education than if they were the children of royalty. May it be evident, by the care we take of them, that we have a real love for them, a great tenderness toward them. May we show them much kindness and may love guide us in all our actions; we pray...

All: Lord, we turn to you in confidence and pray that your Spirit may come alive in us and transform us since you have chosen us to do your work.

Reader: Father, inspire us to build on the affection the young people have for us to lead them to you; we pray...

All: Lord, we turn to you in confidence and pray that your Spirit may come alive in us and transform us since you have chosen us to do your work.

Immolate my selfishness.
Shape my life according to your ideals.
Impress yourself upon my soul.

Work in me; shine though me.
Make me a light and savior
In union with all the saints

We ask for your loving concern

Dorothy Day

Call to Worship

Leader: Lord Jesus, St. John Baptist de La Salle, reminded us that we could “consider God present in the place where we are” because you promised that “where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them” (Mt 18:20). As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), may it remind us of your abiding presence in our midst each time that we gather in prayer. And so, let us remember...

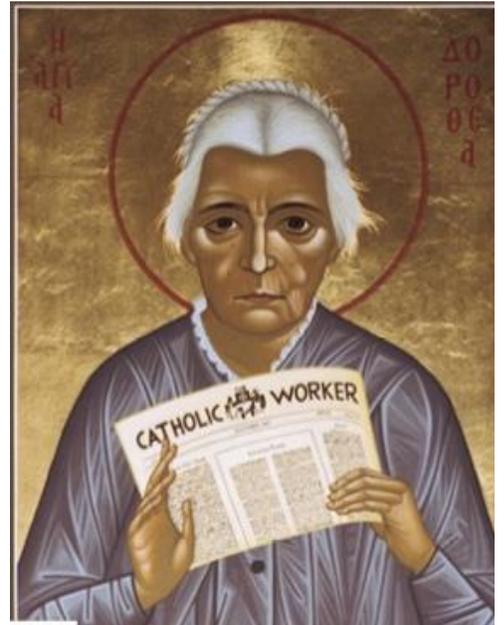

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Dorothy Day is well known for her social justice work and for having helped start the Catholic Worker Movement. She believed that love has the power to change the world.

“We were just sitting there talking when Peter Maurin came in. We were just sitting there talking when lines of people began to form, saying, ‘We need bread.’ We could not say, ‘Go, be thou filled.’ If there were six small loaves and a few fishes, we had to divide them. There was always bread.

“We were just sitting there talking and people moved in on us. Let those who can take it, take it. Some moved out and that made room for more. And somehow the walls expanded ...

“The most significant thing about The Catholic Worker is poverty, some say.

“The most significant thing is community, others say. We are not alone any more. But the final word is love. At times it has been, in the words of Father Zossima, a harsh and dreadful thing, and our very faith in love has been tried through fire.

“We cannot love God unless we love each other, and to love we must know each other. We know Him in the breaking of bread, and we know each other in the breaking of bread, and we are not alone any more. Heaven is a banquet and life is a banquet, too, even with a crust, where there is companionship.

“We have all known the long loneliness and we have learned that the only solution is love and that love comes in community.”

- How am I called to do more to love those in my ministry and to help build a community that will best serve those entrusted to my care?

You Are the Ones God Has Chosen

Recalling the Presence of God

Sung: “Lasallian Invocation” [arranged by Bro. George Van Grieken, FSC]

Slowly

The musical score is written for two voices: Cantor and All. It is in the key of D major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. The tempo is marked 'Slowly'. The Cantor part consists of a single line of music with the lyrics 'Let us re-mem-ber:'. The All part consists of a single line of music with the lyrics 'We are in the ho - ly pre-sence of God.' The music is simple and homophonic, with a steady rhythm.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

Reading From “C’est vous qu’il a choisi... C’est vous qu’il a choisi”:
A Reflection Offered by Brother John Johnston (2003)

“John Baptist de La Salle wanted the Brothers to consider these words on the first day of their annual retreat. We find the passage in the first of his Meditations for the Time of Retreat, meditations he composed in the last years of his life.

“The words mean literally, ‘It’s you that he (God) has chosen.’ Our contemporary translations render the phrase, ‘You are the ones he has chosen.’

“Chosen for what? Our Founder answers that question with extraordinary clarity and with impeccable logic – a logic grounded, however, in faith. He says that God wants every person to know the truth and to be saved. But it’s clear that De La Salle is not thinking abstractly of all human persons. He’s talking to the Brothers about the young people they have in their classes, kids he describes as ‘poor, abandoned, and far from salvation.’

“ ... We can imagine John Baptist de La Salle looking directly into the eyes of the Brothers and saying to them, ‘Brothers, God has given you such a ministry ... you are the ones he has chosen.’ God is confiding to your care, God is entrusting to you, the children and youth that you have in your schools. ‘Look upon yourselves’ as God’s ministers, ambassadors, co-workers. God wants you to represent Jesus Christ – to re-present – to make Jesus’ loving and saving presence a visible and effective reality in their lives. He wants you, in Jesus’ name and in his place, to touch their hearts and their minds.

“Lasallians, De La Salle addressed these words first and foremost to the Brothers ... Today, however, Lasallians, without the slightest hesitation, I say that John Baptist de La Salle is addressing these words to each of you, whether you are married, single, member of another Religious Institute, priest, or Brother of the Christian Schools.

“In total accord with your primary life commitment, look upon yourselves as God’s ministers, ambassadors, co-workers. Look upon yourselves as Jesus’ presence in the lives of the youth God is confiding to your care.”

Song

“God Has Chosen Me”

Verse 1: God has chosen me, God has chosen me
to bring good news to the poor.
God has chosen me, God has chosen me
to bring new sight to those searching for light:
God has chosen me, chosen me:

Refrain: And to tell the world that God’s kingdom is near,
to remove oppression and breakdown fear,
yes, God’s time is near, God’s time is near,
God’s time is near, God’s time is near.

Verse 2: God has chosen me, God has chosen me
to set alight a new fire.
God has chosen me, God has chosen me
to bring to birth a new kingdom on earth:
God has chosen me, chosen me:

Refrain: And to tell the world that God’s kingdom is near,
to remove oppression and breakdown fear,
yes, God’s time is near, God’s time is near,
God’s time is near, God’s time is near.

Verse 3: God is calling me, God is calling me in all whose cry is unheard.
God is calling me, God is calling me to raise up the voice with no power or choice:
God is calling me, calling me:

Refrain: And to tell the world that God’s kingdom is near,
to remove oppression and breakdown fear,
yes, God’s time is near, God’s time is near,
God’s time is near, God’s time is near.

Reading From the “Message of the 44th General Chapter to the Lasallian Family” (Circular 455, Rome 2007, p. 59)

“The field of our shared mission is vast. In addition to the rights of children and respect for life, we have noted in a special way the problems posed by migratory movements, which affect many families, the need for a true solidarity among nations, people yearning for true hope in our world ... We count on you to take up the challenge, each according to your age, state in life, and personal convictions. Do you hear the calls, loud or silent, of those for whom you are directly responsible, with their intellectual, moral, affective, and spiritual needs? We ask you to continue to respond to these calls with us.”

Brother James Miller

Call to Worship

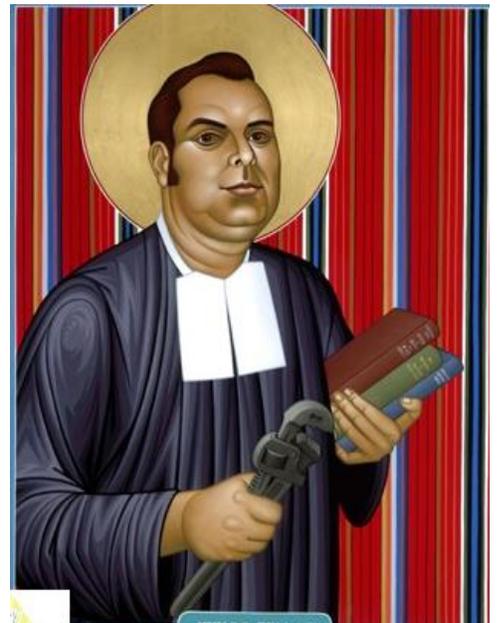

Leader: Holy Spirit, source of all wisdom and understanding, our world needs the kind of educators who, in the words of St. John Baptist de La Salle, might “shine like stars for all eternity” (Dn 12:3). As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), we ask you to light up our world and our hearts with the fire of your prophetic justice; and we take a moment to remember...

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Brother James Miller was assassinated in 1982 for his commitment to poor and indigenous students. Let us reflect on our own commitment to the world’s oppressed as we listen to these words from a letter he wrote shortly before his death.

“The level of violence here is reaching appalling proportions (murders, tortures, kidnappings, threats), and the Church is being persecuted because of its option for the poor ... Aware of the many difficulties and risks, we continue to work with faith and hope and trust in God’s providence ... I am personally weary of violence, but I continue to feel a strong commitment to the suffering poor of Central America ... God knows why He continued to call me to Guatemala when some friends and relatives encouraged me to pull out for my own comfort and safety. I have been a Christian Brother for nearly twenty years now, and commitment to my vocation grows steadily stronger in my work in Central America. I pray God for the grace and strength to serve Him faithfully among the poor and oppressed of Guatemala. I place my life in His providence; I place my trust in Him.”

- How ought I strengthen my level of commitment to the poor and oppressed people of my school, my city, and my world?

We Are Called

Come! Live in the light! Shine with the joy and the love of the Lord!
We are called to be light for the kingdom,
to live in the freedom of the city of God!

Refrain:

We are called to act with justice,
we are called to love tenderly,
we are called to serve one another,
to walk humbly with God!

Come! Open your heart! Show your mercy to all those in fear!
We are called to be hope for the hopeless
so all hatred and blindness will be no more!

Closing Prayer

from Thomas Merton in Thoughts in Solitude

Leader: As our time of prayer draws to a close, let us be of one mind and one heart as we pray:

All: My Lord, God, I have no idea where I am going.
I do not see the road ahead of me.
I cannot know for certain where it will end.
Nor do I really know myself;
and the fact that I think I am following your will does not mean that I am actually doing so.

But I believe that the desire to please you does, in fact, please you.
And I hope I have that desire in all that I am doing.
I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire.
And, I know that if I do this,
you will lead me by the right road
though I may know nothing about it.

Therefore, will I trust you always though I may seem to be lost and in the shadow of death.
I will not fear, for you are ever with me;
and, you will never leave me to face my perils alone. Amen.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

First Reading

John 4:6-14

“Tired from his journey, Jesus sat down by the well; it was about noon. Now a Samaritan woman came to draw water; and Jesus said to her, ‘Give me a drink.’ His disciples had just gone into town to buy some food. The Samaritan woman said to him, ‘How is it that you, a Jew, ask me, a Samaritan and a woman, for a drink?’ (For Jews, in fact, have no dealings with Samaritans.) Jesus replied, ‘If only you recognized the God’s gift, and who it is that is asking you for a drink, you would have asked me; and I would have given you living water.’ The woman answered, ‘Sir, you have no bucket, and this well is deep; where is your living water? Are you greater than our ancestor Jacob, who gave us this well after he drank from it himself, together with his sons and his cattle?’

“Jesus said to her, ‘Those who drink of this water will be thirsty again; but those who drink of the water that I shall give will never be thirsty; for the water that I shall give will become in them a fountain welling up to provide eternal life.’”

Our Response

Psalm 63:1-9

- Side One: O God, you are my God, it is you I seek;
for you my body longs and my soul thirsts,
as a dry and weary land without water.
- Side Two: Thus have I gazed upon you in the sanctuary, to see your power and your glory.
- Side One: Your love is better than life,
my lips will glorify you.
I will bless you as long as I live,
lift up my hands and call on your name.
- Side Two: As with the richest food my soul will feast;
my mouth will praise you with joyful lips.
- Side One: When I remember you on my bed
I think of you all through the night,
for you have been my help;
- Side Two: I sing in the shadow of your wings.
My soul clings to you,
your right hand upholds me.
- Side One: Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit;
- Side Two: As it was in the beginning,
is now, and ever shall be world without end. Amen.

Reading

From "Seekers of Wells and Roads: Two Icons" by Sister Dolores Aleixandra, RSCJ

"Don't be afraid to acknowledge the thirst that dwells within in you. And don't deceive yourselves into believing that your life as [Lasallian leaders] exempts you from the uncertainties and vulnerability that throb in the heart of every human being. Change your attitude of being never-ending 'donors,' and see yourselves as travelers with those who travel and seekers with those who are seeking. Because only then will you experience the joyful surprise of being evangelized by the very people you want to evangelize. Learn how to listen better, and instead of preaching and directing so much, become experts in asking questions, conversing, and sharing with others that poverty that puts us all in the same boat. Because only if you experience your thirst will you be able to fathom what I learned by the well. The thirsty man who asked me for water turned out to be the one who quenched my thirst, and later made me decide to tell everyone in my town about Him.

“And precisely because I knew I needed salvation, I was able to get across to others that I had met someone who welcomed me without judging or condemning me. Come celebrate that poverty with me, by the ledge of the well. It is a poverty that when recognized and related to Jesus is not an obstacle to receiving the gift of living water, but the best chance we have to welcome it and let it burst into eternal Life.

“But I caution you, be ready. He may be waiting for you anywhere, anytime of the day, just when you’re engrossed in trivial concerns, petty quarrels, or stale traditions bound up with status or rules. If you stop to listen to Him, you’ll be under His spell forever. At first, He will ask you for something simple (‘Please give me some water,’ ‘Call your husband’...); but in the end, you’ll return home without water, without a jug, and with a thirst you’ve never known before, to attract your whole town to Him.”

Intercessory Prayer

Reader: For the graces necessary to become experts in asking questions, conversing, and sharing with others as nothing more than fellow-travelers and brothers and sisters on the journey, we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: For the graces necessary to remain ready to meet God anywhere, but especially in the ordinary events of daily living and in the everyday relationships of our lives, we pray...

All: Lord, hear our prayer.

Reader: For whom or for what else shall we pray?
[Response: Lord, hear our prayer.]

Closing Prayer

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer:

All: Compassionate and merciful God, conscious as we are of your goodness we are not afraid to acknowledge the thirst that dwells within us.

Refresh and renew us, we pray,
with the gift of living water.
May you be that spring of life welling up within us, empowering and strengthening us to embrace the poverty we experienced with you by the ledge of the well and to live out our vocation in the world, with a greater simplicity and openness.

May we never tire of sharing with our fellow travelers
the marvelous wonders of your goodness to us. Amen.

Archbishop Oscar Romero

Call to Worship

Leader: Almighty and ever-loving God, our Shepherd and Guide, we are exhorted by St. John Baptist de La Salle, to be shepherds to those “entrusted to our care.” As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), may it remind us of our call to be loving and caring older brothers and sisters to those with whom we work. And so, let us remember...

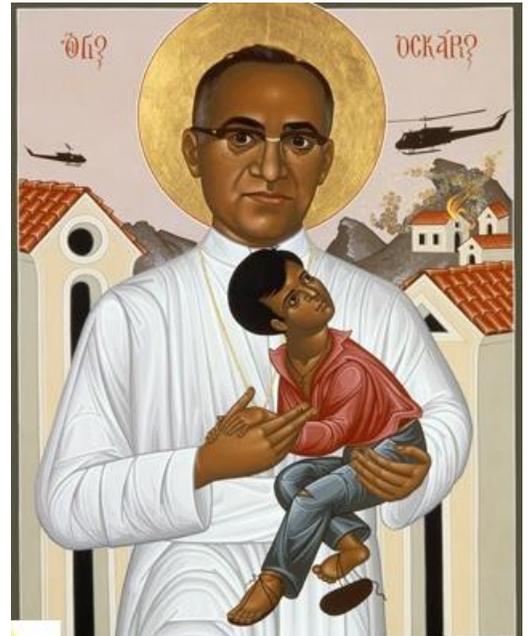

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Oscar Romero, the Archbishop of El Salvador, served the people through preaching the Gospel by his words and action. He was assassinated in 1980, while he was saying Mass in San Salvador, but his words and his story continue to speak the Gospel to us today.

“A Christian community is evangelized in order to evangelize. A light is lit in order to give light. A candle is not lit to be put under a bushel, said Christ. It is lit and put up high in order to give light. That is what a true community is like. A community is a group of men and women who have found the truth in Christ and in his gospel, and who follow the truth and join together to follow it more strongly. It is not just an individual conversion, but a community conversion. It is a family that believes, a group that accepts God. In the group, each one finds that the brother or sister is a source of strength and that in moments of weakness they help one another and, by loving one another and believing, they give light and example.

“The preacher no longer needs to preach, for there are Christians who preach by their own lives. I said once and I repeat today that if, unhappily, some day they silence our radio and don’t let us write our newspaper, each of you who believe must become a microphone, a radio station, a loudspeaker, not to talk, but to call for faith. I am not afraid that our faith may depend only on the archbishop's preaching; I don't think I'm that important. I believe that this message, which is only a humble echo of God's word, enters your hearts, not because it is mine, but because it comes from God."

- How am I called to preach the Gospel through my actions?

Refrain:

We are many parts, we are all one body,
and the gifts we have we are given to share.
May the Spirit of love make us one indeed;
one, the love that we share,
one, our hope in despair,

God of all, we look to you,
we should be your servants true,
let us be your love to all the world.

All you seekers, great and small,
seek the greatest gift of all;
if you love, then you will know the Lord.

Deeply Christian and Deeply Human

“In order to be deeply Christian, one has, first of all, to be deeply human,” Pierre Teilhard de Chardin

Recalling the Presence of God

Sung: “Lasallian Invocation” [arranged by Bro. George Van Grieken, FSC]

Slowly

The musical score is written for a single melodic line on a treble clef staff with a key signature of one sharp (F#). It is divided into two parts: 'Cantor:' and 'All:'. The lyrics are: 'Let us re-mem-ber: We are in the ho-ly pre-sence of God.' The tempo marking 'Slowly' is placed above the first measure.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

Reading From Richard Pring in The Tablet (10 October 1992)

“Some years ago, I visited a high school in Boston in the United States. The headmistress was reading poems she had written when, at the age of 11 (in Nazi Germany), she had been forcibly separated from her mother and her twin sister. The students listened attentively to her description of what it felt like to be parted, in the most terrible circumstances, from those she loved.

“With many new teachers each year, this headmistress undertook to inform the new teachers of what the main driving force behind the school should be. She wrote to each this letter:

‘Dear Teacher, I am the victim of a concentration camp. My eyes saw what no one should witness: gas chambers built by learned engineers; children poisoned by educated physicians; infants killed by trained nurses; women and babies shot and burned by high school and college graduates. So I am suspicious of education. My request is: help your students become human. Your efforts must never produce learned monsters, skilled psychopaths, educated Eichmanns. Reading, writing, and arithmetic are important only if they serve to make our children more human.’

“There is something odd about proclaiming the virtues of education which simply makes those who succeed within it more efficient at that which is evil, or more able to exploit their fellow citizens, or more adept at pursuing their own interest at the expense of others.

“The most important argument for the preservation of church schools is that they have a distinctive and defensible answer to the question: ‘What makes children more human?’”

Our Response

“Beatitudes for Teachers” in Lasalliana (28-16-C-127)

- Side One: Blessed are you who are called to teach,
for you walk in the footsteps of the Master.
- Side Two: Blessed are you who sow peace and harmony in the staffroom:
yours will be the joy of the Lord.
- Side One: Blessed are you who plant seeds of hope in youthful hearts, for you will inherit the dawn.
- Side Two: Blessed are you who are sensitive to the cries of youth today,
for they yearn for the coming of my Kingdom.
- Side One: Blessed are you when you share your faith with others,
for your name is written in my heart.
- Side Two: Blessed are you who anguish now because your students are difficult, for one day they will thank you for your loving concern.
- Side One: Blessed are you when efficiency is moderated by compassion and empathy,
for the deeper secret of education is yours.
- Side Two: Blessed are you when you reach out to me in your students, for you will surely find me and rejoice.
- Side One: Blessed are you who lead young people in paths of justice and peace,
for you will shine like stars for all eternity.

Reading Abridged from a Passage by Claire Elliott in The Month (1991)

“It was my first visit to the marvelous art treasures of Florence in Italy. I was one of a crowd of tourists; but my attention was caught by the sight of a tall, elegant figure, making her way down a narrow, shadowy street. I wondered if she might be going for a dinner appointment, or if she had a very important job in the city.

“My thoughts were disturbed by the noise of a heavy dustcart. And I realized that this beautiful lady – who impressed me with her dignity, in the way she looked and the way she walked – was, in fact, a ‘dustbin lady,’ a street-sweeper, a cleaner. Her care for her appearance revealed a great pride in herself. Her self-esteem and happiness came from within, from her own view of her value.

“And I knew that Jesus would have noticed and approved of my cleaning lady. He had a way of building up each individual. Amidst the splendors of the Temple of Jerusalem, Jesus looked at the generosity and goodness of one poor widow and gave her his full attention; she had offered to others the very best that she had.

“Schools are to help young people develop a true awareness and knowledge of themselves, and a proper appreciation of their own talents and abilities, in whatever field. I did not need to know of the examination results or university successes of the school of this dustbin lady. One glance at her told me that her parents and her teachers had performed their duties well.”

Closing Prayer

By Julia Esquivel of Guatemala

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer:

All: Give us, Lord, a vision of our world
as your love would make it:
a world where the weak are protected,
and none go hungry or poor;
a world where the benefits of civilized life are shared,

and everyone can enjoy them;
a world where different races, nations, and cultures
live in tolerance and mutual respect;
a world where peace is built with justice,
and justice is guided by love.

Let your kingdom come

your kingdom which eradicates within people
all that makes them live less than humanly.

Let your kingdom come,

which is sisterhood and brotherhood,
which is righteousness and life,
which is truth and justice.

Give us, Lord, the inspiration and the courage to build this kingdom,
with you and for you,
through Jesus Christ, Our Lord. Amen.

Call to Worship

Leader: Lord Jesus, St. John Baptist de La Salle reminded us that we could “consider God present in the place where we are” because you promised that “where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them” (Mt 18:20). As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), may it remind us of your abiding presence in our midst each time that we gather in prayer. And so, let us remember...

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Having broken through the isolation imposed by a near complete lack of language with the help of a quite remarkable teacher, Helen Keller, the first deaf-blind person to graduate from college, invites the rest of us to open our eyes and minds and hearts to see – to really see – the world around us.

“We differ, blind and seeing, from one another – not in our senses, but in the use we make of them, in the imagination and courage with which we seek wisdom beyond our senses ... I have walked with people whose eyes are full of light, but see nothing in wood, sea or sky, nothing in the city streets, nothing in books. What a witless masquerade is this seeing! It were far better to sail forever in the night of blindness, with a sense and feeling and mind, than to be thus content with the mere act of seeing. They have the sunset, the morning skies, the purple of distant hills – yet their soul’s voyage through this enchanted world with a barren stare.”

Song The Summons

Will you come and follow me if I but call your name?
Will you go where you don't know and never be the same?
Will you let my love be shown? Will you let my name be known?
Will you let my life be grown in you and you in me?

Will you leave yourself behind if I but call your name?
Will you care for cruel and kind and never be the same?
Will you risk the hostile stare? Should your life attract or scare?
Will you let me answer prayer in you and you in me?

Lord, your summons echoes true when you but call my name.
Let me turn and follow you and never be the same.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

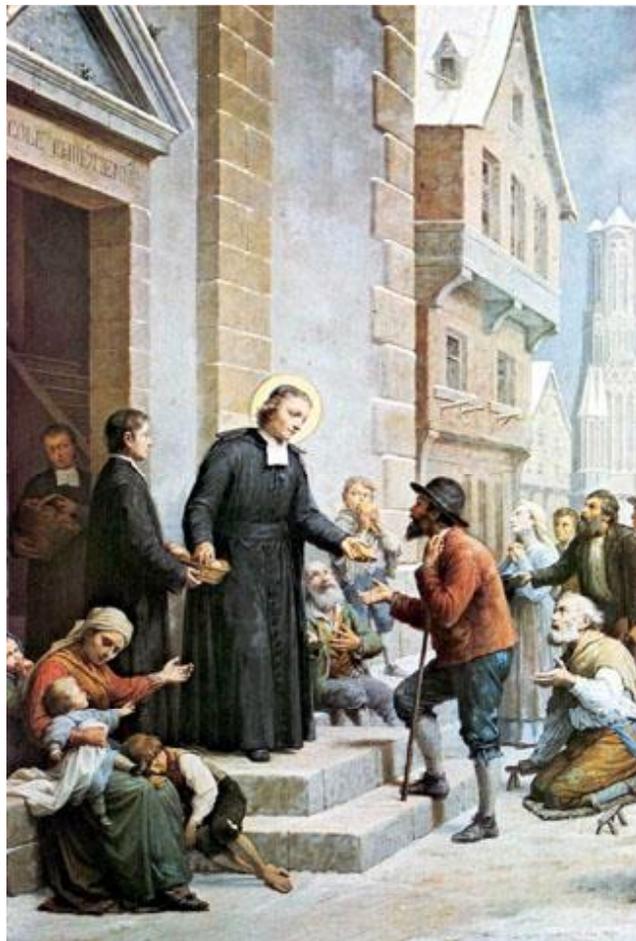

Reading of a Reflection by Brother William Mann on the Painting of Giovanni Gagliardi entitled De La Salle Distributing Bread to the Poor

“In the ‘John Paul II Chapel’ in the Generalate of the Brothers of the Christian Schools in Rome is found a painting by Giovanni Gagliardi entitled De La Salle Distributing Bread to the Poor. Over the years, it has come to be a favorite of mine.

“De La Salle is here represented in the midst of what Brother Michael Sauvage has called the moment in which De La Salle ‘let himself be grasped and overcome by the offer of grace to become a Founder ... He was willing from then on to make the gospel not only the starting point of his preaching, but also the rule of his life ... He became capable of radical decisions. He renounced his Canonry ... He used the occasion of a famine to distribute to the needy all of his personal wealth ... It was now their poverty with which he associated himself, their insecurity in which he intended to become a partner.’

“In the considerable time spent in meditation before Gagliardi’s painting, it has drawn me inexorably into a contemplation of what I see as the heart of De La Salle’s teaching on the vocation of a Lasallian educator: ‘Your actions must ... be a lively expression of what is written in the gospel’ (M 84.3). The too often hidden wisdom of the Good News is, in the deeds that accompany the words of the teacher, represented and made accessible to students.

“Take a few minutes to look at this image. Notice the boy to the right of De La Salle. He watches attentively. At the same time that his hunger is satisfied, a lively curiosity is being awakened. Do you see the young girl? She watches from behind a mother who is drawing the attention of the child in her lap to the selflessness of this man. I wonder if the openhanded gentleman at the steps is the father of this family or if the second Brother, the one at the far left of the painting, is concerned about this evening’s meal.

“‘When I was hungry, you gave me food ...’ (Mt 25:35). ‘Where teaching is offered free of charge and entirely for the glory of God’ the misfortune and abandonment of the children of the poor is remedied’ (M 194.3).”

Our Response

from St. John Baptist de La Salle’s Meditation #201.1

All: It is God who has called you,
who has destined you for this work,
and who has sent you to work in this vineyard.

Side One: You must not doubt that it is a great gift of God, this grace you have been given to be entrusted with the instruction of children, to announce the gospel to them,
and to bring them up in the spirit of religion.

Side Two: But in calling you to this holy ministry,
God demands that you fulfill it with an ardent zeal for their salvation, because this is the work of God
and one is cursed who does this work carelessly.

Side One: Let it be clear, then,
in all your conduct toward those who are entrusted to you that you look upon yourselves
as ministers of God,
carrying out your ministry with love

Side Two: And with a sincere and true zeal, accepting with much patience
the difficulties you will have to suffer, willing to be despised by others
and to be persecuted,
even to give your life for Jesus
in the fulfillment of your ministry.

All: It is God who has called you,
who has destined you for this work,
and who has sent you to work in this vineyard.

An Adaptation of the Rule of the Brothers, #40

“[Lasallians] have always in view the promotion of justice in the light of the gospel and either the direct or indirect service of the poor as the preferred aspect of their ministry of education. They work directly for the poor by providing an education for the economically deprived, victims of social injustice, delinquents, and those neglected by the rest of society. When [Lasallians] work with students from families that are more or less well off, they teach them their duties and responsibilities with regard to social justice and charity toward everyone. [Lasallians] give special attention to their students who have difficulties at school, at home, or problems adjusting to society.”

Make me a light and savior
in union with all the saints
for the glory of the Father.

From your generosity,
Let me learn to keep giving –
the world to God,
God to the world,
and myself to both. Amen.

Call to Worship

Leader: Lord Jesus, St. John Baptist de La Salle reminded us that we could “consider God present in the place where we are” because you promised that “where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them” (Mt 18:20). As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), may it remind us of your abiding presence in our midst each time that we gather in prayer. And so, let us remember...

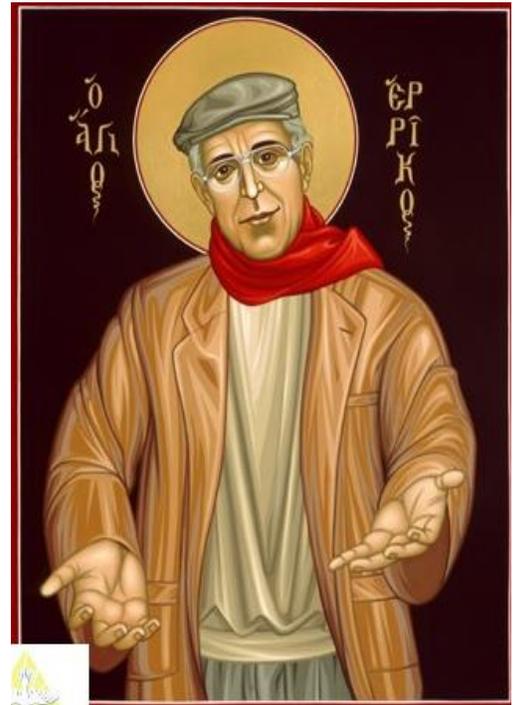

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Henri Nouwen, a Catholic priest, lived a life dedicated to the spiritual values of communion and community as a member of L’Arche, a community that assists developmentally disabled adults. Let us reflect on own commitment to community as we listen to these words from his book entitled Can You Drink This Cup?

“Nothing is sweet or easy about community. Community is a fellowship of people who do not hide their joys and sorrows but make them visible to each other in a gesture of hope. In community we say: ‘Life is full of gains and losses, joys and sorrows, ups and downs’ – but we do not have to live it alone. We want to drink our cup together and thus celebrate the truth that the wounds of our individual lives, which seem intolerable when lived alone, become sources of healing when we live them as part of a fellowship of mutual care.

“Community is like a large mosaic. Each piece seems so insignificant. One piece is bright red, another cold blue or dull green, another warm purple, another sharp yellow, another shining gold. Some look precious, others ordinary. Some look valuable, others worthless. Some look gaudy, others delicate. As individual stones, we can do little with them except compare them and judge their beauty and value. When, however, all these stones are brought together in one big mosaic portraying the face of Christ, who would ever question the importance of any one of them? If one of them, even the least spectacular one, is missing, the face is incomplete. Together in the one mosaic, each stone is indispensable and makes a unique contribution to the glory of God. That's community, a fellowship of people who together make God visible in the world."

As a fire is meant for burning with a bright and warming flame, so the church is meant for mission, giving glory to God's name.
Not to preach our creeds and customs, but to build a bridge of care,
we join hands across the nations, finding neighbors everywhere.

We are learners; we are teachers; we are pilgrims on the way.
We are seekers; we are givers; we are vessels made of clay.
By our gentle, loving actions, we would show that Christ is light.
In a humble, listening Spirit, we would live to God's delight.

Leader: As our time of prayer draws to a close, let us be of one mind and one heart as we pray:

All: Lord, we thank you for your presence, love,
and guiding hand in our lives.
Help us to grow deeper in our relationship with you and with one another as a community of faith.
Help us to learn what it means to follow you and serve you.
May we represent you in our workplaces and in our communities and families.
May we call on you to continue to give us sight,
so we may be witnesses of your gospel message.
We pray this in your name. Amen.

Reflecting on Our Lasallian Identity

Reading

From “An Anthology of the Love of God”
by Evelyn Underhill

“Christ never criticized any but the ‘respectable’ and ‘pious’: with everyone else his thought went like a shaft of delight straight to something he could admire – the love of the prostitute, the meekness of the publican, the faith of the centurion, the confidence of the penitent thief – all things which irradiate and save humanity. Love looks for those first; and one reason why Christ ‘gives us rest’ is that, in his presence, we are bound to love – not to criticize.”

Our Response

From De La Salle's Meditations #101 & #134 and from the Gospel of Luke

All: Show much kindness and love
for the young people entrusted to you,
and build on their affection for you
to lead them to God.

Side One: People brought little children to him,
for him to touch them;
but when the disciples saw this they turned them away.

Side Two: But Jesus called the children to him and said:
"Let the children come to me,
and do not hinder them;
for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs."

Side One: "I tell you solemnly:
anyone who does not welcome the kingdom of God
like a little child will never enter it."

Side Two: "Anyone who welcomes this little child
in my name welcomes me;
and anyone who welcomes me,
welcomes the One who sent me.
For the least among you all is the one who is the greatest."

All: Show much kindness and love
for the young people entrusted to you,
and build on their affection for you,
to lead them to God.

Reading

From the Writings of Ronald Rolheiser, OMI

"To 'really see' someone, especially someone who looks up to you, is to give that person an important blessing. In a gaze of recognition, of understanding, in an appreciative look, there is deep blessing. Often, it is not so important that we say much to those for whom we are significant, but it is very important that we see them.

“ ... Good kings and queens see their people; good parents see their kids; good teachers see their students; good priests see their parishioners; good coaches see their players; good executives see their employees; and, in really good restaurants, the owner comes around to the tables and sees his or her customers and the customers are, without being able to explain why, grateful that the owner took the time and pain to see them. We are blessed by being seen.

“ ... Today the young are not being seen enough in this way. Our youth are acting out in all kinds of ways as a means of getting our attention. They want to, and they need to, be seen by us – parents, adults, teachers, priests, coaches, leaders. They need our blessing. They need to see, right in our eyes, the radical acceptance of their reality, and they need to read in our eyes the words: ‘You are my beloved child; in you I am well-pleased.’ Young people need our appreciative gaze; mostly they simply need our gaze – period.

“One of the deepest hungers inside young people is the hunger for adult connection, the desire to be recognized, seen, by a significant adult. They desperately need, and badly want, the blessing that comes from our gaze and presence. They need for us to see them. In the end, more than they want our words, they want our gaze....”

Closing Prayer

Leader: And in conclusion, let us join together in saying this prayer:

All: Lord our God,
enlighten us so that we may “really see.”
Inspire us to bless others with understanding, appreciation and love.
Lead us to confirm for your people
the dignity that arises
from being made in your image and likeness, and from being called to follow Jesus, your Son.

Call to Worship

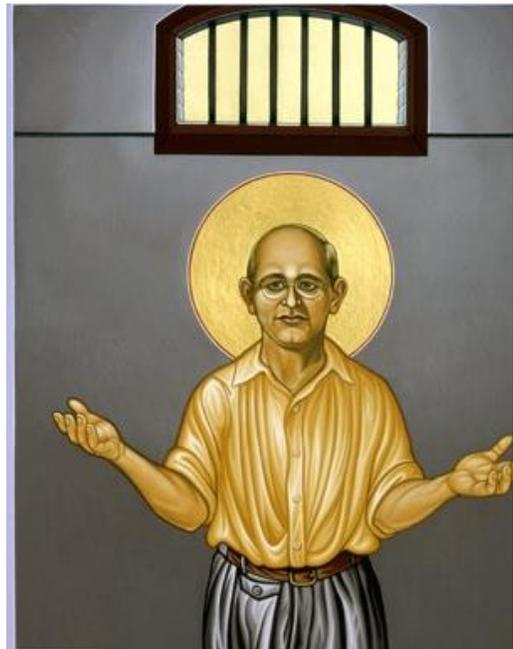

Leader: Holy Spirit, source of all wisdom and understanding, our world needs the kind of educators who, in the words of St. John Baptist de La Salle, might “shine like stars for all eternity” (Dn 12:3). As we light this candle (someone steps forward to light the candle), we ask you to light up our world and our hearts with the fire of your prophetic justice; and we take a moment to remember...

All: That we are in the holy presence of God.

A Reflection on a Modern Icon

Reader: Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a Lutheran Pastor, was a participant in the resistance movement against the Nazis. He was arrested, imprisoned, and eventually hanged. The following prayer was written by him while he was awaiting death.

“O God, early in the morning I cry to you. Help me to pray and gather my thoughts to you. I cannot do it alone. In me it is dark, but with you there is light; I am lonely, but you do not desert me; my courage fails me, but with you there is help; I am restless, but with you there is peace; in me there is bitterness, but with you there is patience; I do not understand your ways, but you know the way for me. Father in Heaven, praise and thanks be to you for the night’s rest; praise and thanks be to you for the new day. Praise and thanks be to you for all your loving-kindness and faithfulness in my past life. You have shown me so much goodness; let me also accept what is hard to bear from your hand. You will not lay a heavier burden on me than I can carry. You make all things serve for the best for your children. Lord, whatever this day brings, your name be praised.”

- Do I have faith enough to know that “God will give the rest”?

Closing Prayer

from Charles de Foucauld

Leader: As our time of prayer draws to a close, let us be of one mind and one heart as we pray:

All: I abandon myself into your hands; do with me what you will.
 Whatever you may do, I thank you:
 I am ready for all, I accept all.
 Let only your will be done in me, and in all your creatures.
 I wish no more than this, O Lord.

Into your hands I commend my soul;
 I offer it to you with all the love of my heart,
 for I love you, Lord,
 and so need to give myself,
 to surrender myself into your hands,
 without reserve, and with boundless confidence,
 for you are my Father. Amen.

A Method of Prayer for Teachers

*Brother William Mann*¹

Introduction

In the *Collection*² and also in The Explanation of the Method of Interior Prayer,³ John Baptist de La Salle proposes a method for personal and interior prayer. The method, however, should not be mistaken for the prayer itself. Neither should one mistake personal and interior prayer for the whole of one's relationship with God. De La Salle's method was proposed as a way of entering into conversation with God, the kind of conversation which is capable of illuminating and transforming the whole of one's life. It was for this end that De La Salle developed three series of *Meditations*⁴ to help his teacher disciples enter more easily into the daily practice of this conversation.

For De La Salle, there is ultimately no distinction to be made between the quest for closer intimacy with God in prayer, on the one hand, and the duties of one's employment as a Christian educator, on the other. The two are clearly and indissolubly linked in the ministry of Christian education. "Since you are entrusted with the instruction of others, you should endeavor to become competent in the art of speaking to God, about God, and for God; but rest assured that you will never be able to speak to your students in such a way as to win them to God, until you yourself have learned to speak to God and about God."⁵

The kind of personal and interior prayer recommended by De La Salle really requires that one be immersed in the scriptures. "This process involves the kind of dynamic that happens in making friends with anyone. You have to spend time together, talk together, listen to each other, and get to know each other."⁶ And the scriptures present us with a privileged opportunity to spend this kind of time with God.

Over and over again in the Meditations for Sundays and Meditations for Feasts, De La Salle begins with explicit references to gospel texts. The Meditations for the Time of Retreat reflect a profound assimilation of the Mystery of God's Love at Work in the World as it can be discovered in the writings of St. Paul. "It is God that we strive to know by spiritual reading and by interior prayer so that we might be better able to make Him known and to make Him loved by all those to whom we have made Him known.”⁷

As De La Salle became aware, by God’s grace, of the human and spiritual needs of the artisans and the poor, he devoted himself to forming educators totally dedicated to teaching and to Christian education. God’s Spirit breathes life into the world. The Holy Spirit, in every generation, continues to confide to teachers a special role in the Christian and human formation of the young and, through them, continues to enable students to welcome Jesus into the deepest aspirations of the human heart as Good News.

Personal and interior prayer is not the privatized activity of an isolated Christian. Prayer is “a time when we can still ourselves enough to begin to feel our natural connectedness to each other and the world.”⁸ The acquisition of the habit of personal and interior prayer will be out of the question for anyone who does not try to cultivate compassion for others.⁹ In prayer, the Spirit unites the one who prays with the whole of the Church gathered around Jesus in need and prayer. It is, therefore, really prayer with the Church; furthermore, it is, for De La Salle, prayer normally made in a Church.¹⁰

The method proposed requires about thirty minutes a day. It also requires that you put aside your busy-ness and external clutter for a little while, and that you try to free yourself from some of your inward noise and internal static. It requires some solitude, some silence. For, after all, personal and interior prayer is “a way of entering into silence so deeply that we can hear the whole world’s speech, a way of entering into solitude so deeply that we can feel the whole world’s connections. In prayer we touch that transcendent Spirit from whom all things arise and to whom all things return, who makes all things kindred as they go.”¹¹

First Movement: In the Presence of the Living God

You are invited to begin by entering into a more conscious awareness of the presence of God. We walk in God’s world.

- The Trinity is immanently present. Our God is neither distant nor indifferent. Rather, God, present in the world, desires that all of us come to “the knowledge of God Himself and of all that He has willed to reveal to us through Jesus Christ, through His apostles, and through His Church.”¹² However, there are many other realities in each of our lives that compete for our attention and distract us from awareness of this presence.
- Where is God most present to you? Is it in the quiet of your heart? Is it in your relationships? Is it in ministry? Perhaps God is particularly present to you in the beauty of nature or under the rags of the poor who wander in the streets. For some, it is the presence of God in the Eucharist which attracts. Take the time to recall God's presence, and then spend some minutes in its conscious awareness. Spend as much quiet time, as possible, in this way.

- Who am I to be in God's presence? Who is this in whose presence I find myself? "Implore Him: Lord, do not pass me by, do not leave until I am aware that you have come. Lord, keep knocking at my door; knock again and again until I open to you. This is the attitude of an open person. One's whole being is a "yes" to God in silence."¹³
- God wills a union of our mind and heart with that of Jesus who came to do the Father's will. "I have come that they may have life, and have it abundantly."¹⁴ The wonderful news is that God invites "me to share, as His son [or daughter], in His own care for my brothers [and sisters]."¹⁵
- Ask God present to you to help you to be more aware of this will, to be more open to it, to be one in mind and heart with what God wants most to do in the world through you. "Doing your will, O God, is delightful!"¹⁶

And so, in the first movement of the method of personal and interior prayer proposed here, you are invited to spend some time considering the divine will. Remember that "God's will is certainly found in anything that is required of us in order that we may be united with one another in love."¹⁷ Ask God to help you to understand where God is leading you through and in the midst of the concrete experiences of your everyday ministry.

Second Movement: Living the Mystery of Christ

The second movement of our method of personal and interior prayer is the invitation to contemplate the Mystery of God's Love at Work in the World, and particularly in your own life. This will normally be the main body of your time in prayer, and the Jesus of the gospels will be at the heart of this movement. De La Salle suggests that we contemplate Jesus Christ in the gospels so that, by the example of His life and teachings, we might be gradually transformed to be more like Him.

- How are you participating in the Mystery of the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus in your daily efforts to reach and touch the lives of the people with whom you minister? This is, above all, really a matter of identity and re-birth in Christ. "And the life I live now is not my own; Christ is living in me. Of course, I still live my human life, but it is a life of faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me."¹⁸

¹³ Quoted from Ladislaus Boros, On Christian Prayer, in Brother Alvaro Rodriguez, Metodo de Oracion, para concersar con Dios, segun San Juan Bautista de La Salle (Guatemala, 1982), p. 11.

¹⁴ Jn 10:10.

¹⁵ Merton, p. 18.

¹⁶ Ps 40:8.

¹⁷ Merton, p. 76.

¹⁸ Gal 2:20.

- Jesus gives “us an example of how human beings can live transcendently by a love of self-emptying sacrifice on behalf of others. He lives for others. His focus is to bring fullness especially to the poor, the sick, the outcasts of society, the oppressed and the discriminated against, the criminals and the sinners. This is the way we should love. This is how we see the glory of God shining through us. God looks like Jesus! We will be like God if we live like Jesus.”¹⁹

Do not rush this stage. Spend time with the suggested passages. Read them over a few times. Pay special attention to the words or phrases that catch your attention. Listen to what is being said and to the one who is saying it. Be quiet. Go slowly. Look at your life. See how your life compares with the life of Jesus. Allow God to speak to your heart. Enter into the Mystery of God’s merciful goodness. Contemplate this God of Love at Work in Your Own Life. Be attentive to all that stirs within you.

Third Movement: Empowered by the Spirit

Finally, we arrive at the third movement, or the conclusion, of the prayer period. This will normally take just a few minutes.

- Quickly remember what has happened during the prayer period. What feelings animated you? What were your principal reflections?
- As you come to the end of your prayer time, you are asked to make a resolution to be more open to the work of the Spirit who is in you and trying to work through you for others. Embrace the graced texture of your own life story. Reflect on where God’s Spirit seems to be breaking into your life and drawing you to sacrifice yourself that others might have a fuller life. What is it that is helping you to live each day with authenticity and holiness? “Follow the Spirit’s lead.”²⁰ Accept the new life that God is trying to give you today.
- Take the time to express the love and admiration you have for God. Thank the Father, Jesus, and the Spirit for the graces received during the prayer period, as well as for the sentiments and feelings that have been experienced. Offer yourself again to God with Christ, with all the activities and efforts that the day will bring.²¹

Conclusion

It is hoped that this method will assist you to converse with God about your ministry as a Lasallian educator. Look around our world with the eyes of faith. Listen in hope to the cries of all of those who wait. Respond in love and zeal, humbled by this opportunity which is ours to share in the renewal and re-creation of the face of the earth “as the ambassadors and ministers of Jesus Christ.”²²
