PHENOMENA

Gatti Pty Ltd | Mashup Pictures

Run Time

approx. 5 minutes

Candidates

Josef Gatti
Rob Innes
Kim Moyes

Phenomena is an online series and immersive film that fuses art and science together to explore naturally occurring patterns, and the forces of nature that create them. Art and science collide with music and technology to take us on an ambitious, innovative and psychedelic journey through the fabric of the universe. In Phenomena, filmmaker Josef Gatti takes nine 'phenomena' of nature and recreates them by manipulating science and technology to produce mesmerizing art films that visualise the patterns formed by the fundamental laws of the universe. The art is captured by camera and produced in practical experiments, without the use of CGI. The art films are paired with an exciting and original electronic-cinematic music score by Kim Moyes from Australian dance music duo The Presets. The phenomena include energy, matter, soundwaves, light, electricity, magnetism, gravity, magnitudes and evolution. Each phenomenon is introduced by a narrator who guides the audience through the experience by providing context around the experiment, the science behind the visuals, and the natural force's role in the universe. The phenomena follow each other in a narrative, building on each other to tell the story of the universe unfolding from its elemental origins, to ultimately create the stars, earth and life. Requiring countless experiments and innovative thinking, these natural phenomena are manipulated in controlled environments with state of the art technology. Time is stretched with slow motion revealing moments that would otherwise be unseeable. Microscopic characteristics beyond the human eye made visible by Electron Microscopes. Days turned into seconds with time lapse photography. And light manipulated to make the invisible visible. Paired with the original soundtrack, these powerful visualizations create a unique experience that leads to new insights and perspectives on the universe and our place within it.

Bounce Patrol aim to get kids up and bouncing! We are a children's entertainment group who make catchy, fun and educational music videos for preschoolers. Bounce Patrol stars five live-action performers – Jacinta, Jackson, Alyssa, Will and Rachel. Written for the whole family to enjoy and co-watch, our songs are engaging for kids, while parents enjoy humming along too. Our bouncy beats inspire kids to get on their feet and dance along with us, engaging both their minds and bodies, and shaking out some energy! Our YouTube videos include songs on a variety of enriching topics, modern twists on classic nursery rhymes, and songs to build school readiness through early-years literacy and numeracy familiarity. Filmed entirely on green screen, we transport our performers to a new, hand-illustrated world in every episode.

WOVEN THREADS - STORIES FROM WITHIN

Woven Threads Production

Run Time

approx. 10 minutes

Candidates

Paul Sullivan
Michi Marosszky

Woven Threads is dedicated to telling stories about our shared humanity. Our stories focus on people and their courage, resilience, gratitude, compassion and hope. People and not their experiences are central to our stories. We believe empathy is the key to understanding; and understanding is the key to accelerating change. We are pioneering a new form of communication, a form of storytelling that blurs the divide between entertainment/art and education. Woven Threads is pioneering this new form of communication, through a unique methodology of sharing lived experiences. Woven Threads' approach offers an innovative solution to mental health challenges, through impactful storytelling, leading to behaviour change and improved health outcomes for Australians. The hardest part of mental health is the stigma surrounding mental health challenges, this generates shame for those people, and in the worst situations leads to Australians take their own lives through suicide. Woven Threads offers a solution to this stigma, by connection with others which leads to impactful and meaningful change. Our strength is the connection through the sharing of lived experience which creates understanding and recognition. This attracts the attention of people who need help or are trying to help someone they love, by instigating awareness and subsequently compassion. This is complementary to what other organisations are doing like Lifeline and Black Dog Institute who are partnering with Woven Threads on our journey, and is also vitally important to stemming the tide of Australians who are struggling with their mental health. We share stories of people with a variety of backgrounds that range from 16 - 58 years of age. We tell the stories of: 16 year old Olive who suffers from Depression and anxiety; Pete the Farmer a 58 year regional man struggling with anxiety due to the drought; Jett is an LGBT young man who suffered bullying and as a result experienced an eating disorder and suicidal ideation; Emma is a peer worker who experienced trauma throughout her life and this resulted in a variety of mental health issues, and now she gives back to others; Keenan Mundine a proud Biripi man who experienced abandonment and struggled in the Youth Justice system until he realised he could break the cycle and help others; Hannah suffered a major eating disorder for most of her life, as a result of challenging childhood circumstances, and now helps others through the endED Organisation. All our storytellers share one thing in common and that is the hope they found in small moments of their lives that kept them going. That hope is what Woven Threads ignites in the viewer, and what makes our series relatable to all people, even those with limited experience of Mental Ill Health issues. If the viewer of any of these episodes, is able to recognise themselves or someone else in what they see, then hopefully that creates conversation which can lead to positive outcomes.

STICKY INTERACTIVE

Sticky (In house)

Run Time
approx. N/A minutes

Candidates
David King

Sticky is an artisanal manufacturer of hand-made confectionery located in The Rocks, Sydney. When COVID hit in March 2020, business disappeared entirely. In desperation, we turned to Social Media, leveraging the unique, theatrical nature of what we do into both Live Streams and short form video content. The "show" is driven by the artisanal candy making process, which is colourful, mesmerising and informative, a craft from a bygone era updated for a modern audience. Around that process, we have created a genuine narrative and entertainment concept, doing "Lives" from, for example, the International Space Station, Mordor, Goulburn and others, often in full costume. Interacting with our audience is key, running trivia days, competitions, with a dedicated comment reader and an engaged and devoted fan base. We have devoted significant parts of our time, and raised over $65,000 for important causes, including Indigenous equity and recognition, Starlight Children's Foundation, RUOK?, Dry July, Movember, Feed Bali, Pride, Climate Change, Autism Awareness, Freidrich's Ataxia and others. We Live Stream on average 9 hours per week, each stream lasting around 1 hour, split across the four platforms. Around that we create short 30s-10min video content showcasing both the process and the personalities within the business. Linking the entire thing together is a really wonderful narrative thread, a small lolly shop in Sydney, devastated by a pandemic, discovering a new world of technology and tools to reach an audience that has never been available in history. From The Rocks in Sydney, a tourist precinct almost entirely shut down by the virus, we broadcast to, and now export lollies to, every country on Earth, from Brazil to Newfoundland, from Pakistan to The Netherlands, from The USA to Israel. The key is the personalities, of the business as a whole, and the staff as individuals. We may be the little Aussie lolly store on the other side of the world, but our audience knows us and we are their local shop. The community is extraordinary. Although not strictly relevant I don't think, we have a private FB group, Sticky Friends, with 27,000 friends, from all over the world, from all walks of life and all political persuasions, reaching out to each other with love and support and generosity, discussing lollies and politics and issues of the day in an environment of inclusion.

Strong Women online documentary series follows some of Australia's top women vying to be crowned Australia's Strongest Woman in the sport of Strongman. Mariko Whyte, Kerryn Siems, Alira Verity, and Leigh Holland-Keen, share their intimate journey, and together, these powerful and resilient women empower each other while competing to become Australia's strongest women. These elite athletes have to overcome their personal limitation, sacrifice relationships, and struggle with injuries. Then, an unforeseeable pandemic force them to re-evaluate their lives without Strongman. These daughters, mothers, and wives share their thoughts, inspirations and motivations on the sport and how it is helping them rebuild themselves inside and out after challenging experiences with addiction, eating disorders, domestic violence, and bullying. The series also shatters stereotypes and tackles women's health issues through personal accounts, together with the latest in sports science. Strongman is a niche strength-based sport with limited mainstream media attention that has until recently only featured alpha males. However, since 2015 the number of women competing has increased by 500% in Australia. Female competitors come in all shapes, sizes and backgrounds in a sport that celebrates their achievements rather than what their bodies look like or a number on a scale. Strong Women is an uplifting series that celebrates diversity and the power of inclusion through sport. Addition to the series the 'Strong BODY / Strong MIND' social impact campaign engages with our wider audience to empower women through healing power of sport for women's mental and physical health.

Every country town in Australia has a Chinese restaurant. It's an intrinsic part of Australian identity: a place for celebration, relationships, and community. But who are the people who run these restaurants? Where are they from? Why do they choose to work behind the wok, and what's their favourite dish on the menu? Part travelogue, part human interest story and part food show, Chopsticks or Fork? is an online series that delves into an aspect of Australiana that everyone's experienced and has fond memories of. Hosted by comedian and food enthusiast Jennifer Wong, each of the six episodes looks at one unique Chinese restaurant in regional Australia. Jen chats with the owners, their family, and members of the community, and explores the inner workings of the restaurant and its role in the town. Each episode explores a delicious dish that's significant to the restaurant, offers up recipes for Australian-Chinese staples such as sweet and sour pork, and asks that important question: chopsticks or fork?
