INTRODUCTION

The AACTA Awards are a continuum of the proud tradition of celebrating Australia's screen excellence and heritage established by the Australian Film Institute's (AFI) Awards. The AFI Awards became known as the AACTA Awards when the AFI launched AACTA – Australian Academy of Cinema and Television Arts – on 18th August 2011. More information on AACTA can be found at www.aacta.org.

In addition to awarding screen excellence, AACTA also functions as the industry engagement arm of the AFI, and operates as the peak industry body for Australia's screen professionals.

A not-for-profit, membership based organisation, AACTA comprises practitioners from a cross-section of the screen industry including production, distribution, exhibition and television networks, as well as from each of the crafts. AACTA aims to attract a diverse range of members, spanning various age groups, levels of experience and cultural backgrounds.

The AFI also continues its important remit of connecting the screen loving public with Australian content, and membership is open to anyone with an interest in Australian film and television.
