

Getting to the Heart of What Matters: The Role of a Support Worker

Wednesday 18 October 2017, Kingaroy

www.cru.org.au

About the workshop

The role of a support worker is complex and multi-faceted. Paid staff can make a significant contribution to a person's life – enabling the person to live a rich life and pursue their own unique goals and dreams.

What lies at the heart of the role is, however, frequently invisible. When we fall into the habit of talking about “hours”, and tasks, routines and schedules, it's easy to be distracted from what really matters about supporting people well.

This full day workshop will be an opportunity for support workers to critically reflect upon the essential purpose of their role, the values that drive “support”, and the sorts of relationships which are core to supporting someone well, particularly in relation to valued roles and community belonging.

“[Support] requires a certain humility on the part of staff, letting go of control, a willingness to follow rather than lead.”

Susan Stanfield

About the Presenter

Suellen Welch works at CRU as a consultant. Her work focuses on promoting, strengthening and defending person centred and directed responses.

Suellen has previously worked for several small community based organisations in Brisbane in team leader and key worker roles.

She has experience working as a support worker, supervising support workers, as well as engaging support workers to work with her son.

To view CRU's cancellation policy please visit this link - <http://cru.org.au/about/policies/#cancellation>

Topics covered will include:

- A good life for a person with disability
- Your role in a person's life
- Getting to know the person in order to assist them well
- Supporting belonging, contribution and relationships
- What gets in the way of good support?

Who should attend?

This training is for support workers who are directly assisting an individual with disability to live a good life in community. People self-directing and employing their own workers may want to recommend this training to their support workers.

Time: 9am – 4.30pm
Register from 8.30am

Venue: South Burnett
Enterprise Centre
6 Cornish Street,
Kingaroy

Cost: $100

RSVP: Friday 29th September

Register via:

<http://cru.org.au/events/>

Expanding Ideas; Creating Change

Community Resource Unit Ltd.
Level 2, 43 Peel Street
P.O. Box 3722
South Brisbane QLD 4101
Phone(07) 3844 2211
Email cru@cru.org.au
ABN: 16143460250 ACN: 617860009

Need some assistance with fees?

CRU has some capacity to reduce registration fees and assist with other costs, particularly for people with disability and family members not sponsored by an organisation. Contact CRU for more info