

LEADING 365

PRACTICUM PROGRAM FOR LEADERSHIP TEAMS

Thursday 19th - Friday 20th July 2018

Contemporary Learning Hub - Meridan State College

What if by leveraging tools you already have access to in your school you could improve productivity, provide easier ways for your teams to collaborate efficiently and provide access to essential information for your staff 24-7? What if you could move what's on your G drive to the cloud to enable your staff to contribute to or access key curriculum and planning documents seamlessly from home and school? What if you could make your staff induction package a dynamic digital resource that can be easily updated? What if you could easily see the contributions being made by different team members or the work and assessment tasks being completed by students in real time? What if you had the capacity to easily capture student work for assessment and provide students with powerful multimodal feedback?

All of these things are now possible and many schools are already making what was described above a reality with the use of OneDrive, Office 365 and Class and Staff Notebooks. These are all tools now available for use in every EQ school.

To support school leadership teams who are wanting to begin the transition to using these tools in their own context, the Contemporary Learning Hub is offering two day practicum programs designed to support school based leaders to develop their knowledge of what's possible and the skills they need to leverage them effectively in their own context.

Practicum participants will have opportunities to see the tools in action in a real school context and will be supported by our team as they begin creating and editing their own cloud based documents and class and staff notebooks.

Practicum Information

Dates: Thursday 19th and Friday 20th July 2018

Explore

Explore the possibilities of these powerful digital tools and technologies. Talk with school based leaders and hear and see how they are using these platforms to build collaborative teams and better outcomes for students.

Develop

Develop the understandings a leader needs to be able to lead the rollout of these technologies in a school context. Learn how these powerful tools work and develop your confidence in using them.

Get Started

During the practicum, you'll begin creating collaborative documents and class and staff notebooks that will become usable resources in your own school context. Bring along some of your key documents to work with to begin making the transition.
