TIPS AND TRICKS FOR BIGGER GROUPS

Tim Kemp, Kemp Aquatics

Soak up Tim's extensive local and Asian teaching experience in this pool session. He will assist you plan and deliver for the larger groups and will have you creatively review your traditional approach. Hop in the pool to think, explore and do.

OUTSIDE IN - THE WHY AND HOW OF BRINGING THE OUTSIDE INTO YOUR POOL

Gail Dimitriadis, Belgravia Leisure
Leanne White, City of Ballarat

This comprehensive aquatic program brings the open water inside by simulating hazards using modified equipment, creative activity and group teaching strategies.

The 6 activity stations mimic potential aquatic hazards of open water environments. Students have the opportunity to assess their own personal competency and realise their vulnerability in a true open water scenario.

In this session you will gain a greater understanding of why, consider the competencies students need before participating in the simulated open water activities, determine how to incorporate it into your mainstream program and equally how to offer it to schools and community groups.

EFFECTIVE CORRECTIONS FOR SOUND STROKE PROGRESSIONS

Julia Wood, Peninsula Leisure

With an analysis tool in hand and students in the water your ability to observe, modify and adjust will be enhanced as Julia presents her stroke analysis session. Understanding cause and effect will give you great results for any water safety skill or swimming stroke you may teach. Come along to learn how to unleash your observational super powers.

UNDERSTANDING THE NEEDS AND REQUIREMENTS OF SCHOOLS

Life Saving Victoria

With increased state government support for school swimming and water safety, the industry and schools are faced with both challenges and great opportunities. The session will focus on providing key updates regarding the funding, information for swim schools about partnering with schools and an opportunity for Q&A and the sharing of learnings to date.

→ SESSION 3

12:30PM – 1:15PM

TODDLERS WINNING AT WATER SAFETY

Michelle Ford & Lucy van Hooydonk,
Ford Swim Centre

Michelle and Lucy have been teaching our littlest people for many years and remain ever so passionate about water safety as the key to a quality preschool class. Watch their lesson as they show how and explain why they do what they do. Following this you are encouraged to join them in the pool to experience first-hand the circuits they use enhance the knowledge and understanding of children their parents.

SCHOOLS – FUTURE PROOF YOUR PROGRAMS

Carol Crofts, Maribyrnong Aquatic Centre

From preparing schools to programming for all Carol will lead this interactive session that will leave you with ways to attract and retain schools while remaining flexible, adaptive to change and relevant. From a Swim Centre's perspective vital school swimming and water safety programs can continue to nurture and develop while making the most of the funding available for the children.

CULTURAL DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

Centre for Multicultural Youth, Morwell

Water safety access and inclusion is as important as ever with new arrivals increasing in Victoria annually. These new and emerging communities lack swimming ability, water safety knowledge and influential role models and remain one of our high risk populations. Seeking to understand barriers to participation before and after arriving in Australia will help AUSTSWIM teachers create practical solutions to embrace cultural diversity and welcome all to our programs and services.

ACCESS ALL ABILITIES: AQUATIC EDUCATION FOR CHILDREN WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

Victorian DHHS Community Sport & Recreation

What exactly is Autism Spectrum Disorder? And what are some of the common co-existing conditions? These questions and yours will be addressed and supported by practical strategies for teaching students with autism and their families.
