Shared Decision Making in Urogynaecology
Welcome

The Urogynaecological Society of Australasia (UGSA) in conjunction with the South Australian branch of the Continence Foundation of Australia (CFA SA) is pleased to invite you to Adelaide at this busy, festival time of year for its ASM. This will present contemporary, scientific updates and new innovations in Urogynaecology.

We have a highly regarded list of invited speakers from the USA, Ireland and Britain, to provide their insight and expertise into current controversies and future pathways from a global perspective. The emphasis this year will be on clinical governance with joint decision making between clinicians and patients to provide optimal outcomes. How can the interface between different expectations be matched? How can new technology and treatments be tested and adopted by utilizing research networks? Workshops will provide a new learning option for surgical techniques incorporating video teaching, as well simulation and common clinical scenarios. This meeting will provide expertise for generalists and sub specialists to update and consolidate their practice. The 5-day program also incorporates a specialist training day for those wishing to better understand the principles underlying pelvic floor dysfunction. The organising committee look forward to clinicians attending and participating in this exciting meeting.

Key Note Speakers

VIVIAN SUNG (USA)
Dr. Sung, MD, MPH is past president of the Society of Gynecologic Surgeons, associate professor at Brown Medical School and the director of research for the Division of Urogynecology and Reconstructive Pelvic Surgery. A graduate of Tufts University School of Medicine, Dr. Sung completed residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Magee-Women’s Hospital in Pittsburgh, PA and then completed a dual fellowship in Female Pelvic Medicine and Reconstructive Pelvic Surgery and epidemiology and clinical trials at Brown University. Dr. Sung balances non-surgical, surgical and minimally-invasive options for pelvic floor disorders. She is an active researcher, funded by the National Institutes of Health with expertise in patient-centered outcomes research and clinical trials.

HALINA ZYCZYNISKI (USA)
Immediate Past President of the American Urogynecology Society, Professor, Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology & Reproductive Sciences Division Director, Urogynecology & Pelvic Reconstructive Surgery and Medical Director, Women’s Center for Bladder & Pelvic Health. Halina’s research interests are clinical with a focus on short and long-term anatomic and functional outcomes of surgical and non-surgical treatments for pelvic organ prolapse, urinary and faecal incontinence, as well as cost-effectiveness of related diagnostic testing.

BARRY O’REILLY (IRE)
Prof. O’Reilly is a Consultant in Obstetrics and Gynaecology, sub specialist in Urogynaecology at CUMH, Cork Ireland. He is currently Clinical Professor in Ob/Gyn at University College Dublin and Professor and Director of the ASSERT centre at University College Cork. On completion of speciality training, he moved to Melbourne, Australia to undertake subspecialty training in Urogynaecology and Pelvic Floor reconstructive Surgery.

PAUL MORAN (UK)
Mr Moran has a broad general training, but has undertaken specialist training in urogynaecology through a training/research fellowship in Melbourne, Australia. He was appointed to Worcestershire Royal Hospital in 2000 with a view to establishing a Urogynaecology Service. This service was one of the first to be nationally recognised for its quality and safety by external accreditation in 2011. He also continues also to run a general gynaecology clinic for other common gynaecology conditions through his NHS clinic in Evesham and at Spire Southbank.

ADAM STEINBERG (USA)
Dr Steinberg is the Associate Chief of Women’s Health and Female Pelvic Medicine and Reconstructive Surgery Fellowship Director at Hartford Hospital in Connecticut. He has academic appointments at both Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth and University of Connecticut School of Medicine. He has held multiple positions in medical societies most recently serving on the board of the American Urogynecologic Society (AUGS). Dr Steinberg actively participates in research focusing on quality, education and patient outcomes. Clinically, his practice focuses on the surgical and non-surgical management of pelvic floor disorders such as pelvic organ prolapse, urinary and fecal incontinence.
