Medical Officer – General Registration Scope of Practice

(under the Health Practitioners Competence Assurance Act 2003)

General Registration

- Advertising, holding out to the public, or representing in any manner that one is authorised to practise medicine in New Zealand
- Signing any medical certificate required for statutory purposes, such as death and cremation certificates
- Prescribing medicines, the sale or supply of which is restricted by law to prescription by medical practitioners
- Assessing, diagnosing, treating, reporting or giving advice in a medical capacity, using the knowledge, skills, attitudes and competence initially attained for the MB ChB degree (or equivalent) and built upon in postgraduate and continuing medical education, wherever there could be an issue of public safety

Notes

1. “Practice” in this context goes wider than clinical medicine to include teaching, research, medical or health management, in hospitals, clinics, general practices and community and institutional contexts, whether paid or voluntary.
2. If doctors consider that their practice does not impinge on public health and safety they should declare this to Council and seek exemption from the requirement to have an Annual Practising Certificate.
3. This definition will be used to define the scope of medicine under the Health Practitioners Competence Assurance Bill.
4. Emergency care is so much a part of a doctor's professional ethic that, in the opinion of the Medical Council of New Zealand a qualified doctor who is not registered may render medical or surgical aid to any person in an emergency when a registered medical practitioner is unavailable.
