3. ROAD ACCIDENTS.

(a) During a period of three and a half years, reports on road accidents indicate that the number of accidents (fatal and otherwise) in which Army vehicles have been involved, is on the increase and in some areas has reached such an alarming degree that public bodies have directed the Minister's attention to the number of accidents involving Army vehicles.

(b) An examination of the cause of accidents indicates, in every case, the personal factor predominates, and a realisation on the part of those using the roads of the necessity to allow for all possible hazards and, when in charge of vehicles, to limit their speed to suit prevailing conditions, would do much to eliminate all accidents.

(c) The chief causes of accidents are:—

(i) Excessive speed.
(ii) Inattentive driving.
(iii) Not giving right-of-way.
(iv) Not keeping to the left.
(v) Inexperience.
(vi) Intoxicated driver.

(d) It is the responsibility of all concerned to ensure that drivers are aware of their responsibilities and duties when operating vehicles on public highways.
