(b) Sleeping

Transport drivers & unduly others slept & travelled in their vehicles throughout this stage, the remainder sleeping in carriages. The swaying of the vehicles lashed to flat top trucks prevented most transport personnel from obtaining adequate sleep. Personnel slept in tents at Alice Springs Staging Camp during night 25/26 Feb.

from front to rear during the midday halt.

(b) Sleeping

Personnel slept by vehicles in dispersion areas at each of the staging camps. Duration of sleeping time was greatly shortened by inefficient methods of refuelling vehicles & general conduct of the convoy, both of which resulted in personnel arriving late at dispersion areas & being kept waiting when they had arrived.

(c) Sanitation

Because of the necessity for troops to bivouac in dispersion areas for the first time of any convoy, & because no preparation had been made of these areas as bivouac sites, no washing or latrine facilities were available at any of the three nightly halts. Few troops were able to wash with the limited supply from the water cart, & about 3 feet of muddy water at Banka Banka was utilised to the fullest extent. Showers were available at Larrimah on arriving of C Law 1, prior to the entrainment there

The drinking waters at Barrow Creek & Birdum gave a number of the men a slight attack of diarrhoea. The dispersion area at Birdum was so sited that the men had to sleep in long mosquito infested grass.

(d) General

The convoy consisted of 110 vehicles, the largest convoy to pass through to date. The system of supplies & refuelling was such that all vehicles were forced to halt for periods up to three hours during the hottest part of the day while all vehicles & men were supplied. This unnecessarily long halt added greatly to the fatigue of the men. Other halts during the mornings & afternoons of up to one & one half hours were caused by mismanagement of the convoy in not keeping vehicles moving at the correct speed & density continuously. The mobile cooker at Birdum was located at a point unnecessarily distant from the entrance to the area, resulting in tired men having to walk nearly 3/4 mile for evening meal & breakfast. ctd

TROOP TRAINS O.C.

6 JANUARY, 1941

28 Feb 42

To all O.C's Trains,

1. ECONOMY IN USE OF WATER - QUORN/ALICE SPRINGS LINE:

The Chief Traffic Manager, Commonwealth Railways, Port Augusta, reports:-

Eleventh Release in / out

(a) An acute water shortage along the line.

(b) Pollution of drinking water because of troops bathing under water hydrants and/or in reservoirs and the washing of eating utensils, clothing etc., in same.

(c) No natural supply in large number of places and water for domestic use must be drawn from reservoirs and carted by train. If water polluted, residents must wait one week until next train brings supplies forward.

(d) Water in hydrants is for use in locomotives. Mis-use as in (b) above means extreme wastage. Shortage of water for locomotives reduces the number of trains and restricts troop movement.

(e) Water tank containing supplies for troops is attached to each train to augment supply on passenger cars.

(f) Every economy must be exercised in the use of water - disciplinary action will be taken for mis-use.

(g) O.C's Trains are instructed that no water other than that provided for the troops is to be used for any purpose whatsoever. O.C's will be responsible for any mis-use and will bring under notice of their troops the serious consequences of such mis-use.

2. PREVENTION OF HEAT EFFECTS ON TROOPS:

(a) Attached is:-

(1) Memo "Serious Effects of Heat"
(2) 2 Copies Lectures and Notes "How to Keep Healthy in Hot Climates".

(b) These have been compiled by medical authorities and are issued by advice of D D M S, 4 M D.

(c) O.C's Troops and parties proceeding to tropical stations ~~should be supplied with~~ are hereby supplies with copies of "Memo on Serious Effects of Heat" for their own information. The Lecture Notes on "How to Keep Healthy in Hot Climates" is for general promulgation to the troops by O.C. Units.

(d) Water Bottles will be checked before moving out of this Camp. This will be insisted upon without exception.

(e) It is recommended that before leaving each hot water point en route, water bottles be filled with cool (if practicable) sweetened balck tea, to which salt has been added in the proportion of 1/4 teaspoon to the pint.

(f) All troops must be in possession of a water bottle prior to marching out of Camp

178

3. TROOPS TRAVELLING IN M.T.

Personnel travelling in M.T. must be warned that it is dangerous to stand in the trays of the vehicles or on the roof of the cabin while the train is in motion.

Low slung telephone wires and bridges which are located at several points en route allow so little clearance that serious accidents may result from disobedience of this order.

4. TOWN PICQUET - ALICE SPRINGS:

O's C. Train proceeding to Alice Springs are notified that they will be required to furnish a Town Picquet on arrival. This will consist of 1 Officer, 2 Sgts., and 15 O/R's. Picquet will parade at C.H.Q., Alice Springs, at 1700 hrs.

REFERENCE REMOVAL OF TEA CONTAINERS FROM WATER POINTS QUORN - ALICE SPRINGS

Several instances have come under notice where tea buckets etc., used for the purpose of boiling water at various meal points between Quorn and Alice Springs, have been taken aboard trains by troops and subsequently carried away. This practice must cease forthwith as it is difficult to replace these utensils, resulting in following trains being without proper gear for the preparation of tea.

Buckets must not be removed from the sites and placed on trains and each O.C. Train is instructed that, on completion of meals the utensils must be returned to the Commonwealth Railways Employee at the water point concerned.

SERIOUS EFFECTS OF HEAT.

MEMORANDUM ISSUED BY D D M S, 4 M D.

(This information is compiled to assist officers to safeguard their troops against the dangerous effects of excessive heat. It is not desired to give the facts in this form to other ranks, lest they develop unnecessary alarm regarding heat effects).

The human body tries to keep itself at equable temperature. In cold conditions it behaves like a stove, developing warmth in itself; in hot conditions it acts in a similar way to a refrigerator, and certain cooling devices then come into play.

Our natural body cooling devices are as follow -

(1) Radiation of heat from the skin.
(2) Evaporation of sweat (this is the main factor)

(Note: The rate of progress of radiation and evaporation depends on thickness of clothing, the relative humidity of air surroundings, and air velocity).

(3) Excretion from bladder, bowels and lungs.
(4) Intake of cold fluids (the second most important factor)
(5) The integrity of a complex body mechanism which automatically controls body temperature.

Our natural cooling devices may be overwhelmed under certain conditions of high air temperature, high humidity and low wind velocity. Such conditions cause not only retention of heat, but a further overproduction of heat. This has a serious effect on the brain tissues and heart muscle. It is more likely to occur in some individuals than in others. It is more likely to occur in a person who is below par or who has recently been feverish, or who has been taking oversupplies of alcohol.

There are three main types of heat effects :-

(1) Heat stroke or heat retention.

This is generally sudden. It is a very dangerous condition. The skin is dry and will not sweat. The body temperature becomes very high. The patient becomes unconscious or very confused mentally. He may take a fit. For this condition obtain medical aid at once. The mortality is very high. While waiting for the medical officer put patient in a refrigerator with open door, or cover with cold wet sheet and fan vigorously.

(2) Heat exhaustion.

This is exemplified in the man who faints on parade on a hot day. He is not really feverish but gets flabby and weak. This condition is not so serious. Recovery is the rule. Give rest and drinks of salt and water - quarter of a teaspoon of salt to the pint.

(3) Heat Cramps.

Exemplified in the muscle cramps of wharf labourers and stokers in ships. Drinks of salt water prevent and cure these.

All strenuous exercise should be reduced to a minimum during the heat of the day. This does not mean just idling about; they should be employed in light duties in the open and in the shade, if possible.

Prevention of heat effects is much superior to any known cure. Take preventive measures but do not let the troops know that you are doing so. Mental anxiety pre-disposes to heat complex. The best scheme would be to lecture the men in a jocular way, embodying some of the facts contained in 'How to Keep Healthy in Hot Climates.' A single lecture on these lines will help greatly.

HOW TO KEEP HEALTHY IN HOT CLIMATES.

1. You are going into a hotter climate than that to which you are used.

2. You will stand this all right if you are under 60 years, and if you acclimatize yourselves to it gradually. Even delicate racehorses or polar bears can be acclimatized to withstand great heat.

3. Keep shirts and hats on during daytime for the first three weeks, then sun-tan by slow degrees.

4. Get all the cooling down you can at night-time as by good ventilation of tents. This is important. When available cool air is free of charge to all.

5. DRINK.

   (a) How to drink and what to drink are the primary considerations.

   (b) It is best to take no alcohol before sundown. Try to be moderate, anyhow. Minimize day smoking.

   (c) Use water bottles only at halts and then use sufficient weak salty water (or salty tea) to make up sweat loss.

   (d) Large quantities of plain water are not nearly so useful or quenching to thirst as smaller quantities of water containing salt (one quarter teaspoon of salt to pint of sweetened black tea).

   (e) Drink a pint of water before going to bed. Also have a good drink on rising in the morning.

   (f) On convoy or trek, keep the fluid intake as low as possible and remember the value of salty tea.

6. BOWELS.

   There is a marked tendency to constipation in sweating climates. Be regular. It will help a lot in regulating your body temperature.

7. BATHS.

   Use whenever available. These too are free of charge, so hop in on all occasions.

8. Don't take risks until you are acclimatized and you will become acclimatized successfully.

9. These instructions seem too easy to be of use, but they are the outcome of practical experience with men and of many experiments on other animals, for instance, rabbits, dogs and monkeys.

10. Live as evenly and regularly as conditions will allow, and avoid excesses of eating and drinking, and you will be able to keep fit and well.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ASSIST IN AVOIDANCE OF

COLITIS OR DIARRHOEA

These instructions are for the guidance of troops in transit.

(a) Drink very sparingly cold or iced liquid of any desription when you are hot, or in the sun in the tropics.

(b) Do not drink large quantities of water when in a new district, until your system has become used to water from different bores.

(c) Avoid drinking quantities of water when travelling.

(d) When thirsty, drink only in sips and infrequently.

(e) Boiled sweets, chewing-gum sucked when travelling will relieve thirst.

(f) Unless absolutely necessary, keep your shirt on when in the sun, particularly from 1000 to 1830 hrs. Troops in transit should not travel with shirts off.

(g) Do not mix well or bore waters when travelling. If water-bottles have to be replenished empty water-bottle and refill from new supply. Most wells and bores along the line supply good water, but have a bad effect if mixed.

(h) Avoid alcohol until after sun-down.

(i) Practice water-bottle discipline rigidly throughout all convoy travelling.

1. O.C. Troops in transit will take all necessary steps to see that the above advices are promulgated to all ranks.

2. O.C. Troops in transit is held primarily responsible that discipline of his troops is such that these instructions are carried out - evidence to the contrary becomes prominent through unnecessary excessive sickness if instructions are not adhered to.
