Ambulance Train

To 20 Gen. Hosp. British Nurses and discipline after nursing care for Australian British. Matron & Officers very kind and considerate to Australian Sisters.
Special jaw ward.

The Ambulance Train - carries 800 patients during rushes.
Water scarce - hair - no way of getting personal attire washed.
(3 baths in 3 months)

Winter 1916

To 12th Stab. Hosp. St Pol - Infection was - a good deal of C.M. each patient was nursed in a separate section of tent, divided by much barbed wire but on the same side and 2 orderlies attended all the patients - the barbed wire was not of much use.

Very little linen - only an occasional pair of pyjamas.
Auntie deputy nurse on duty Blankets. Dig cases had to be made. Most had been unscathed & antiseptics seem so ones not to give their full dose of antiseptic. The infection being spread at 1/2 hourly intervals. Difficulty of keeping serum warm and sterilizing needles with everything freezing, and a shortage of coal, kerosene and kitchen spirit. Splendid orderlies - volunteers to R.A.M.C.

Spent 12 months in British and left them with sincere regret at 101 A.S.H. Bases, Dec 1917 - Cambria Street - had 14 amputations some double, as the time in his ward.

The Official War Historian of the Government (Dr. C. E. W. Bean), after the collection of private war records preserved in the War Memorial Library, wrote:-

"The private diaries in this collection are valuable historical records, but, like all private not compiled with any historical purpose, regarded as first-hand evidence except where are so. The diarist is almost always since accurately, but he is subject to no obligation indicate whether he is recording his own told him by friends or heard at third or fourth Thus, in some of the diaries in this collection vivid detail, and without any warning that or third hand, have been found to be important details. A certain number also or revised long after the events, though done made at the time. In most cases the experience and on internal evidence to guide and what is not likely to be historically accurate

Paris - 25th June 1915 to 25th June 1919.

(Lane work)

Leaving Fremantle on June 25th - Dept. M.I.S.A. 63. Karoola I proceeded to Egypt to join No. 1. A.G.H.

We carried, I think about 400 troops, - mixing deck spots. dances on the top deck & various studies & occupied our time till Aden was reached. There were 45 members of the A.H.N.S on board - there have a good many cases of measles, & some meningitis - so that those who were well were fairly busy - I did about 15 hours light duty for me got near the Equator in the Red Sea. - sleeping in the daytime was almost an impossibility - It always seemed that the piece of deck above my head was specially chosen for ailments or physical duress etc. - I see that was a very little trouble

Teaching Aden, we found ~~we found~~ that the Turks were attacking that town, & we stayed in Aden for 2 or 3 days. - we were told "to see how things were going

The scene was wonderful - the vivid sea - the distant coast-line yellow. & brown - & ships from every where. Great cheers ^{arose} when along came the "sign" of Asia - with Indian troops almsby transport carried right horsemen & their horses. Here the war has intense - & of course. She did not land - as the town was considered unsafe. As has he started again for them. ^{my teaching (read) part} I said "good bye" to the Karoola & the people on board who had indeed been kind to us - I felt that we had really left Australia behind us!

I was ~~to~~ assigned to the 3rd Troop train & we reached Cairo at night - I No. 1. A.G.H. at Heliopolis about 10.30 p.m. It had been a most

Living day. our Thick Serge Quits were NOT Comfortable here for that climate!

A great trade has done. by the fruit Sellers - Oranges, grapes, Thelons were bought in abundance. On arrival at the Hospital, refreshment, bath & had reviewed in - 8 next morn. we reported for duty - I was put on night duty in the "Eyehard" It was most unpleasant - as many were infected eyes - Some were wounded -

There were 73 beds in this ward. ~~One~~ orderly on duty all night. a relieving orderly after 4 a.m. they sleep. I did 3 weeks duty in that ward. I was then sent to No 3.

Aux. Hosp. "The Sporting Club" - This was then used as an Infirmary Hosp. I continued my night duty with some.

Diphtheria Cases later. helped get the Hosp. ready for No 3. Aux. This Hosp. when complete contained over 2000 beds. I our first cases were from the Aone Pine fighting, I think -

In one night over 700 cases were admitted -

I will never forget the seemingly endless line of men coming in - till every bed in my section was full. The men were bathed or sponged. dressings done - I by morning our Hosp. was in full going order.

This Hosp. was happily situated in the grounds of the Heliopolis Sporting Club. avenues of gums, shrubs, & flowering trees made it a very pretty spot.

It was a happy Hosp. too. I was almost completely Staffed by "Karoola" & "handilla" Eschiro - Mrs Conyers being the Matron.

I was a happy contented family we were at ~~the~~ "the Palace" having our meals at the Hosp. our Servants were natives

3 very picturesque in white frocks & red shawls & caps.
I continued on night duty till October.
& during time of duty many interesting excursions were made to the surrounding sights - ———— Xmas 1915: was indeed happy. The men were off Gallipoli - & one remembered those who would never return made, as happy as possible, Christmas for the others. Any amount of gum leaves were forthcoming & my hand was decorated with these & flowers - that the boys brought in - .

I again went on night duty on 15th Jan'y. till 10th February. & that was 'Goodbye' to ever home at the Sporting Club. - for I with nearly all of the then staff was sent to No 3. A. G. H. at Abbassia - The ~~Staff~~
The 3rd A. G. H. was mainly staffed by No 2.
A. G. H. Sisters, after we left.

While at No 3 A. G. H. I did relieving duty till I was granted 5 days leave & went to Luxor & Assuan, a wonderful place.
Cairo & its surroundings was ~~not~~ ^{but} indeed different to the Egypt one saw there.
The natives were a much more respectable less beggarly type - On my 5th day I was recalled to Cairo - & was put on duty on an Ambulance train - running from Cairo to ^{to} Assualia - . We loaded at Assualia ^{Tel el Helwan} at the New Zealand Camp.
The staff on this train consisted of one M.O. & 2 Sisters. ^{and} Staff under a Sergeant to attend to certain work - but the main staffing on the train as regards orderlies was done by Indians - & I have nothing but admiration for their excellent work.

This duty lasted for a few days. I saw much of interest in a short time - I was at Ismalia when the Prince of Wales landed there - A most pleasing incident occurred each morn. A handful of Sikhs, soldiers - splendidly mounted, saluted our train with its Star & Crescent & Red Cross. - I left Egypt with the mail - by the "Sacta" - 29 March & a most trying journey ensued. We were allotted to the patients' berths - 56 beds in all - no privacy was possible - The bathrooms were at the other end of the ship & Sisters & Staff nurses did not dine together on one occasion when there was no room for me at the 1st (Staff nurses) meal. I was sent to the 3rd meal. I was asked. "Is a Sister?" "No, I know I am a staff nurse & not a Sister!" She seemed to forget we were all trained nurses.

Reaching Marseilles - we were greeted with "Coops" & "Australia will be here" from 2003. transports with Australian troops on board. & their happy welcome cheered us much. Most of the time has spent on the "Sacta" & then we disembarked & went to an Hotel for 2 days, enquiring then for the War Office. France. We were told that "Someone" was ahead making arrangements for us. Well! if that was a fact. that train journey & our arrival at Rouen. did not speak much for his efforts. We left Marseilles 9 am. reaching it on Monday. Reaching Rouen at 4 pm on Wednesday. We sat up, 4 in a compartment during that time. in ordinary carriage - There was no corridors - no sanitary arrangements were provided for - we washed our hands & faces with ~~old~~ water obtained when the Train stopped. Meals were obtained - with difficulty - at the Stations en route.

It was bitterly cold & uncomfortable.
We were on a slow-luggage train which Crawled along - . On arrival at Rouen.
The lack of arrangements again met us.
We were very kindly treated by the Staff of No 12. Brit. Gen. Hosp. who did everything possible for our comfort. I gave up their rooms. Many of us slept in the wards.
For over 100 Sisters arrived that day.
If No 12 had withheld its hospitality, I wonder how we would have fared?
That day I left with 56 others for various British Hosps. I was sent to "20" Gen. Hosp. at Camiers - near Etaples - Again instead of going on a passenger train we were put on a luggage train - reaching Etaples on Friday even. apparently we were to do without food for that journey - . An Australian I knew on the troop train that came along side us, gave me a Thermos of tea & some bully beef & biscuits. We received much kindness from the British Postal Staff on the train, who gave us their ration & bought some eggs for us at a farm house at the place I reached the Hosp. I received every kindness - my luggage was not delivered till later, so she lent me a hot water bag, and then her oil stone. The following day was given me for resting. Then I went on duty in a medical battalion. The manners & discipline of the ^{hospital} ~~company~~ was remarkable after ^{my} care-free Australians I was at that hosp. about 3 weeks. I think I received much kindness from the Matrons & Sisters while there. At all small hospital festivities, they made sure that I should be there

There were a few Australians there, in the Hosp. & one boy seriously ill. I visited a frequently - at that Hosp. They had a Special ward for jaw Cases.
 & patients from everywhere were sent to that ward. He under the care of a ^{Tan.} specialist If I remember rightly - he has an American Specialist & a child had been rescued in Armenia by an American Mission - The Australian had his jaw fractured & his tongue severely lacerated & was unable to speak. He seemed pleased to see me. - On 25th April - "Nabon" told me three Australians - that we were to go to an Anzac Service. A large vehicle conveyed a number of Australian Soldiers to the Service - which was held on a grass field - surrounded by pine clad hills - Played in by a Highland Band.
 The Australians marched in & formed a hollow square. - The fourth side being formed by the Chaplains. Various Officers & about 50 Austr. Soldiers. Hundreds of patients in their bright blue suits, from the Hosp. by Hospital British Sisters & Sisters, sat on the little hills round this field - the Service was a beautiful one. - I do not say too. The tongue how many had gone. Since the preceding 25th April. & wondered how many of those who so beautifully sang "Jesus, Lover of my Soul" at the end of last Service - would attend the next celebration of Anzac Day.
 At the close of this Service the troops were addressed by General. Mason. (I think that was his name) who represented the British Army. & spoke splendidly - The Colours were saluted (to this the correct time) ~~by the~~ & then, all those who had been at the landing on that memorable day. - about 40 men - out of the 7000. troops who were at the Service, marched.

47 before the General. He specially addressed them later. These men ^{throughout the year} the march past. & how very proud we were of "our boys". That day, the 2nd Division people had arranged for our entertainment - with a Luncheon & Sports meeting but we were not permitted to partake of this officially - but went round to the Officers Mess & had light refreshment - unofficially. Returned to our respective Ho Quats That evening at our Hosp. we were ~~at a dinner~~ having a progressive evening party. & just as we were finishing up - our mess the lights - the Germans were overhead - & a few seconds later bombs were dropped. at No 26. Gen Hosp some distance from us - we were told they were trying to get the machine gun & Australian Camps. which were quite close to us. No one was injured - we went to bed that night - in the dark. - I won the Gentlemen Prize & it now is a souvenir of that night - my first & experience in bombing - After days talk on 7th May went on duty on No 10 Ambulance train - & that was indeed my most interesting time while on duty ~~at~~ ^{upto} date. The staff of an H.T. is M.O. 3 Sisters & about 45 orderlies - All the trains No 12. & onwards are specially made for that work. I have a corridor running the whole length of the train - Spring stretches & every convenience. From No. 1 to No. 10.
They are converted French passenger trains - The interiors of the coaches had been removed & ordinary stretchers on iron brackets placed in averaging about 40 stretchers to a coach. 2. orderlies to each coach. For sitting patients. The ~~brackets~~ ^{with} left in other coaches. with stretchers overhead. An average load would be about ~~to~~ 700 to 750 - but when pushes were on - we carried nearly 850 patients.

8
But then there were stretchers everywhere - on the floor, in corridors - one walked on the edges of stretchers. I joined the train on 8 left in on. - & almost every day of that line was crowded with interest.

Our duties took us to practically every Casualty Clearing on the Bentley front. & therefore was never monotonous. Sometimes we would only carry 2 loads per week. Other times we would be busy night & day for days. Our complete home was the train. We could not leave it for any length of time, for no one knew where we would be sent out - so that excursions to neighbouring towns, rarely lasted more than 2 hours. Our duties were divided up. The Sirai in Charge, a Territorial Sirai - looked after the Officers & our train accommodation was provided for.

36 - ²⁰⁰ stretchers were in the forward end of the train which was connected throughout by a Corridor - but on the other end of train (my end) the coaches were disconnected, & in no time I was an adept footboard walker. Such was necessary, for on a long run. The train might only stop once or twice, & to attend to serious cases one had to walk the train. "Short" full skirts & sensible shoes, were necessary for this performance. For the coaches were separated by a gap, 3 or 4 ft wide - but there was always an orderly with a guiding hand to help one over the chasm! On another train an orderly fell, & had both legs cut off. There were then told me must not do act the footboards, but, I for my part did not obey that instruction, - it was quite impossible to do so, & still carry out ones duties. One always chose a time when the train was going slowly for such adventures. A necessary supply of Stunants, drugs, etc.

has carried in a bag on my belt & a bag of cigarette & matches has also on my belt The duties in each coach would report on loading any severe cases & in due course each coach would be visited by the T.M.O. Also being in attendance - of course. Sometimes we had deaths on the train but if possible - when it was found a patient was not standing the journey - he would be sent to various Stationary Hosp. one at Abbeville, one at St. Omer, & one at Hazebrouck. being not convenient for such.
Dressings were not done, unless a haemorrhage occurring - the train would be stopped & such would be attended to, but ordinarily packing over with fresh dressing would be done.
Each coach carried a dressing case & Trays, special foods, Cigarettes, & magazines were provided - the extras in the food, like being for. Serious cases - Macaroniche stew pudding, bread & cheese. Milk, & ~~other~~ ^{the} diet for ordinary cases. On arrival at one destination - a box, Rouen - de Trepois - Etapes Etriat - Calais & Boulogne, our duties were over.
In bad cases, I would specially see off into the first Ambulance, & then the ordinary unloading began, & I still ^{were} ~~was~~ only in the way - when loading unloading was in progress. On ordinary journeys one could supervise every patient, but when probes were on - one could only do what one could - Two particular occasions stand out in my memory - when the Canadians were so fearfully cut up at Ypres in May or early June usually the men are talkative & willing to tell stories all about it - but on that occasion the train was packed with a silent & exhausted band of men - they had held Ypres, they had saved Calais but at what a cost! he had moued in that night, up to was Remy Siding

The nearest the trains could go in - & we didn't go to bed that night. We sat on the table under the window & watched the Cruisers. Shooting flares. listened to the incessant awful crossing of the fuses. till the train rocked & the windows rattled & knew that here were in that hell. - We knew we would have a full load next morning we did - Popping & has these messages & trains could not go further. I have many souvenirs of that time. - Cap. badges. from almost every Canadian Regiment, but I could not remember the history of each badge - each scrap of rag!
 For some time we ran regularly from Chapuquoy to Boulogne. & garaged each night on futures to Chapuquoy - along side an Ammunition dump.
 The C.C.S. was a few yards away. across the rails while there on Aug. 4th 1916. we watched.

Bethune being badly shelled. A review of troops had been planned to take place at 9 a.m. on Monday. - The British were wise & held the review at 9 a.m. on Sunday but the Germans had not been notified of the change of time. Started shelling on Monday a.m. causing fearful casualties among the civilians. getting the church. & C.C.S. & troops in the nearby wood. we were upon the hill ~~to~~ picking blackberries when the shelling started. but hurried home in case we were needed. next day we loaded the casualties from Bethune but later went up on the Calvary Hill & with glasses could watch the shells get their mark. It was indeed interesting. next day we loaded. The casualties from Bethune from this Hill at night time we would watch.
 The battle line La Basse. Pouchey. & Lens. a glittering line of light. Star shells. very light & & all the many illuminations of the line July & The 1st Somme posts was the second occasion when the work became terrible. for during that time, we carried hundreds & hundreds of wounded men - we were garaged at Solonville Ndr Rouen.

& that afternoon were having a cricket match with No 8. train & we received urgent orders to depart. Coats, crickets bats etc were hastily seized & the ~~respective~~ ^{respective} G.I.s went aboard their respective trains. We were told to go on the up journey in readiness for late work.
Arriving at Posh ^{the half past} ~~with~~ (near Albert) we loaded at once. wounded were lying on stretchers, showing grey in the early morning light to C.C.S. was full. & these men were placed in a field of beautiful orange poppies that are grown for medicinal purposes - & such.
wounded - The ordinary liquid cases were placed on T. A. Trains - ordinary passenger trains carrying one. No. & a few orderlies - & the severe cases were sent on to our train It was almost impossible to cope with the work.
I had ~~1400~~ ¹⁴⁰⁰ men in my end of the train (on one trip we carried 168 Officers) & I did the best I could for the very bad cases. - we carried fine loads in 3 days. Freshing on the return journey - the men were buoyed up with success - "we've had a great time" - "we just did a fearful thing" despite their awful casualties. They were jubilant - A friend Ruddy sent me the news about this time of the great doings of our boys at Poizien - but we did not carry any from their post. We only "northern guns" we loaded at the West. C.C.S. & carried our own troops. but mostly worked from British C.C.S. lines of course. I found the C.C.S. at La G. Station & had morning tea with our Sisters there, & getting some flowers from the garden. at the C.C.S. which ~~was~~ had been a boys school. & also when in that locality we travelled over.

Some of the old battlefields of 1914. Having wheat & scarlet poppies hid the ground of former strife from us. Then, but up on the hill in the ~~concealed~~ ^{marginally} ground we saw the crosses - of the British, French, & German forces.
In that ground the Crown Prince of Weid was buried to our C.O. to a mo. Passing over the B.E.F. line - we viewed the defences - barbed wire entanglements - machine gun emplacements.
& such like. The scenic interests of those A.I. days were intense too - Spring - Summer & the beginning of Autumn - in France -

Spring with its orchards in full bloom. Summer with daisies, poppies, corn flowers, blazing the fields with colour. The early understood why Francis colours were Red White & Blue.
Every field proclaimed it - every bank flamed the colours of the Republic -

Hedges of wild roses & honey suckle, gave charm & romance to the passing scene. I would sit on the steps of the train & watch this wonderful scene, when going up, to hear the line - we had very cramped living space.
Sisters in a small compartment - each seat was a bed. & when pulled out to be wide enough to lie on. There was no place to stand. So we took turns at undressing & going to bed. - The arm seats were still in place. & I needed to accommodate my length to fit in these projections! It was not comfortable.

Everything we possessed was in that compartment except ~~our~~ ^{our} luggage & that was in the stretchers bays. We utilized the racks for our clothes, bottle articles etc, & a bath was a luxury only indulged in when we were unloading at Staples & 4024 Gen. Hosp. Rapidly placed two bathrooms at the disposal of train ~~brothers~~ ^{staff}

13 I had 3 baths in 3 months. & the water supply on the train was scarce as we only carried a small quantity, & it had to be treated with care.
The bathmen did not like carrying it from the stand pipe which was our supply.
When our ~~water~~ tank was exhausted.

The laundry question was an acute one. We could not send our clothes out because we did not stay in any place long enough, so washing days had to be when we were up the line waiting - at some secluded spots. The work was wonderfully interesting, & its pleasure quite outweighed the discomforts. A.

My father's spirit's iron was indeed a treasure. & kept us going in caps etc., & the N.O.s in ironed collars! The Railhead men. P.T.O.s. Advance people. all hailed A.T.s with joy - & it was a great pleasure to Sister Jenkins' p. & I. have them in afternoon tea. These men would say they had not spoken to a British woman for weeks. One evening I was walking along the road at Lapuquoy, going to gather corn flowers, in the crop, for our train tables.

I passed two Tommies & spoke to them.
They seemed surprised. & later told me that Sister did not usually speak to them, & helped me pick my flowers. Reaching the road at which they turned off, one said, Sister, we haven't spoken to an English woman for ~~months~~ over 12 months - not since we said Goodbye, at home, & we're going into the front line tomorrow & we'll be thinking of you & the flowers. It will be something to thank of, & "Thank you" what a reward for a few words! To be a reminder of their own women folk, & their own peaceful homes & ~~land~~ country lanes. I feel that, at any rate, that day I had not lived in vain.

I have many Sweet remembrances of those days on the A. T.
The great ~~difficulty~~ & trouble & annoyance too. my letters. For a time I received no letters at all. & one day when our brains were at home.
I went up to No 1. A.G. H. to see about them.
Previously when Josi going on the 10.20 Gen. H.
I the A. T. I had written the Major. Miss Friday giving my address. but apparently the P.O. had not been instructed, for when I looked at the orderly's book. my add. has five or six lines he assured me he had forwarded. any amount of letters to that address - which was quite incorrect as I had never been there - & I never got those letters. & some letters were very valuable to me. apparently lost thru carelessness.
I did not mention earlier in my narrative that while at Berquatte. we were shelled.
They were shelling that town. trying to get a foundry there. & we came into range. Our brain backed out. & we sustained no hurt. but it was most interesting. After Bethune had shelled we were not permitted to go into the town without gas-beenets

I had some splendid sights of air fights too. we'd watch a fight. - So interested in the bursts of straphuel. H.E. etc. wondering each time. "would they get him" observation balloons. Came in for their share of trouble too. we were at. Lapugnoy. when Audriche was destroyed. I was told it was the largest ammunition dump in France & we ran past it a couple of days later. & what a scene of desolation. - what had once been a centre. was nothing but a heap of blackened ruins trees round for a great distance were charred & blackened. hills out of the town.
the houses were in ruins. & what had once.

them rails, bridges - & such like heavy railroad material was then a twisted - distorted mass.
It was a fearful disaster & a fearful ruin.
I was told that as the first bomb was dropped. it was found the wires were cut. & that only a day or two before the A.A. gun had been removed to another centre. - apparently, if this was true the Germans had been well informed.
The lines were shaken near Audricum for some time & our course was diverted for a time - Machine guns & an additional A.A. gun was brought at Napuquoy - to guard that dump. & I believe that much ammunition was distributed to smaller centres after that lesson. I often wondered if they'd get us some night.

One of my greatest treasures was an Australian flag given me ~~at~~ the camp early days in France. & when passing thro' the posts occupied by our troops. that flag came in for much cheering - The day - an American Column (Australian) had halted to let us pass.
I hastened to get my flag to wave.
But found the C.O. had raced me. He was furiously waving his flag out the windows.
So I joined the flag to be greeted too.
How they cheered that flag & waved their hats.
On August 7th we went to St. Pol. to load.
& there I received my movement orders to proceed to 12 Stai. Hosp. outside St. Pol.
It was with great regret I left the camp & my friends there - I reached the Hosp. at 5:30 pm. & at 8 pm. went on night duty in charge of the Infections Hosp. There a lent. Hosp. some little distance from the main buildings of 12 S. H. I continued on night duty 1/2c. at the Hosp. till 4th Feb. 1917.

There I ~~had~~ nursed. all Infection Cases including much St. meningitidis - At first I had only 2 orderlies. but later was granted an additional 2 orderlies & again later another Sister was sent across to help. but at first it was really fearfully busy. I was on duty there during the famous "1916. bout" - Officers & men were my patients. Each infection was nursed in a separate section of tents, divided by much barbed wire - but on the same Sister & 2 orderlies attended to all the patients. I'm afraid the barbed wire was hot of much use. Anyway, no one ever caught anything that any one else had. At first we were fairly near the main Hosp. but after a while we moved across on to a small rising - soft clayey ground. - which was our undoing in any way. for as soon as it rained & it did frequently, up came the tent pegs. & at least once a week on windy nights the orderlies would be up all night long & I'd have to be wakened to stay orderlies & then would ensue a frantic performance of getting the tent secure again. The tent ropes that were in place, only served to trip up some unwary person. My occupation was to "hold the lantern". I soon found the only garment possible was a black water proof coat & hood. leggings & gaiters. so all the tents were separated & some ^{quite} distance apart. & by the time I had completed a ground of about 40 tents, it was time to start the ground again - with intervals for 6 or 8 hours rest. We averaged up to 100 patients. The officers were in bell tents. separate ones. The men being nursed in large

14 - Sometimes there would be only one man in a tent. Still he had to be looked after & his fire kept up. In Nov. & December ^{the} ~~my~~ ^{the} bombs were many. It was bitterly cold - & later everything was frozen. Taps were frozen everywhere. - all the water for a large S. Hoop had to be drawn from a well by a rope & bucket: & every little while the rope had to be banged with a hammer to get the ice off. Coal was very scarce indeed & many nights I had no fire at all. ~~with~~ only warmth being a Beauce Stone in the duty tent. Bitterly cold winds blew from the north. but one's eyes smarted & one's face felt raw - Crawling out of the tent flaps under a blanket to keep out the snow & wind - one met the full blast of steel faden wind - after snow came & everything ^{was} frozen over. it was more endurable. Laundry ~~was~~ was most difficult to obtain - sheets & pyjamas were almost unheard of - I missed C. S. hemmings with a shortage of bed linen - an occasional pr of pyjamas was a "god send" & I only wonder all the C. S. M. patients did not get sore backs. Acute dysentery passing almost purely blood was mixed in brown army blankets. which hurdly were fumigated before being used again - Still we were hard to the line & very busy indeed & the laundry I suppose could not be done.
Amongst the dysentery cases. There were many German prisoners. - Most of the patients were Canadians for Vimy Ridge was the front for which we worked.
& they seem to be very fond of measles & humps. & mostly all the C. S. Meningitis cases were. Canadian diphtheria cases 58 were very trying - because most of them had been inoculated with Antitetanus Serum. So could not be given their full dose of Antitetin.

The injections being spaced at $\frac{1}{2}$ daily intervals & mm. doses given at those times - One can imagine the difficulty of keeping Serum warm & needles sterilised with everything frozen & a shortage of coal, Resene, & kettling water spirits.

Was fortunate in having splendid orderlies only volunteers to the R.A.M.C. but what splendid men. One man had been a Commercial Traveller - another a barman.
Yet what fine service they rendered their mates in that Isolation Hospital the barman - R.A.M.C orderly specialised the C. S. Meningitis cases. With heroic determination to duty he stuck to those highly infectious cases. Those two worked through all that infect. work. with only the thought for their comrades. My duty hours were from 8 pm to 8 am. - my midnight-supper & morning tea I had in the duty tent - cooked or warmed up over a Beatrice stove.
I was alone ^{most} there for 4 months. going across to the general. ~~top~~ part of the Hosp. to sleep & for breakfast & dinner. It was very lonely when on duty. & I was not very happy. & I have much gratitude to the two orderlies for many kindnesses. They were indeed "natures gentlemen!" Iain I had to assist me. a very heroic Irish Sister & it was much nicer than we were near enough to bring Ridge 10000 mines going up - to watch star shells. - to see the flashes & ~~illumination~~ Crimson illumination of the fumes Sometimes the wind on the roof. would rattle so much it wake one up. we ~~to~~ got our cases straight from the field ambulances. To stand the cold - kept - on all.

The warm clothing I could make. I was very healthy. I did not have a chiblain any time in France. The Matron of the Hosp. was very charming, indeed. I enjoyed my stay while at her Hosp. The social life was pleasant especially on Sundays.
& then the Hosp. kept open house for the officers. Many came from Arras to our tea parties. The Tank Officers came in
- they were camped near to us. I saw the first original tanks ever used. Certainly they were well covered but I saw them or parts of them. General Allenby has in charge of 3rd A. Army H. 2. Then St. Pol has then H. 2. So ^{that} much of interest occurred.
The King & the P. of Wales. Visited while I was there - the King of Montenegro. & Sir Douglas Haig also being among the distinguished visitors to our Hosp. when the snow was there & frozen.
I joined parties to go tobogganing - down the hills - but I preferred to watch the others.
I can indulge myself. One night we heard a great rumbling coming up the hill so the orderly went scouting & came in to advise to go out too. I saw a Smeaton along in the darkness - drawn by a traction engine & large haul frame - with four teams sitting on its long snout. I was told it was one of the frames that helped the Canadians take Timber Ridge. Another morning this orderly came hastening in. "Sir! Some of your boys are passing"! Out I hastened. it was the 25th Battery if I remember ^{rightly} passing from 5th to 6th. This was the advance party.
This I hung my flag from my window. & I found it was no use staying inside there. So went out to talk to them & I received many requests for that flag. but I did not part with it Tamp. 7" I was granted leave. - my first really leave. & went to London. - it was too cold to do anything else. But sit by a fire. returned to hosp. & a short time later. got movement orders to return to No 1. A.G. Hospo I had spent nearly 12 months with the British

The journey to Rouen. was indeed trying At that time bread. meat. eggs. everything was frozen solid - icicles hung from the roofs. to have a bath(?) I would take a bucket of icicles & put it on my stone overnight & by morning I had a fine bucket of boiling water for washing purposes & hot bags. & a warm room. It was under these climatic conditions I started for Rouen at St. Pol. Station the R.T.O. when ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~train~~ ^{train} ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~empty~~ ^{empty}.
on the train. gave me a small flask of rum & I wondered then at the gift. but later I rejoiced. I left 12 S.H. on Sunday 4 pm. I reached Staples at 2 a.m. on Monday. The R.T.O. would not permit me to proceed that night. - he told me some men had been found frozen to death on the leave train by which I travelled. I suppose they were exhausted & wet through & could not resist the further cold. So I was sent per bus - in a blinding snow storm to 24th General. to spend the rest of the night. I descended into the snow & rug & hot water bag. & wandered round for some time. till I saw a light & made for it - tho about a foot of snow - & found I had come to No 7. Canadian Hosp. The ~~doctor~~ ^{doctor} ~~duty~~ ^{duty} in the kitchen looked after me like a brother. filled my hot water bag.
& gave me an excellent supper of fried eggs & fried potatoes & went to find the

The night Sister of No 24. He found her. & when she came. She was scandalised to find me enjoying a homely repast with the Canadian Good Samaritans. - Later I was given a bed. There - but I could see she did not approve of skippy Sisters who dined at 4. am. on fried eggs & potatoes - I spent the next night at Abberville at the Hosp. There & the following night at the N. Zealand Hosp. at Arminiers where that town was badly bombed. Over 300 people were killed that night. & I was aroused. by the night Sister & asked to go down into the Cellar. All the patients & Staff were under shelter but I was too cold & tired to care what happened. & stayed where I was. - in a bed in the empty Officers ward. & watched the Sign. The Hosp. had been a convent. & the room I was in, had apparently, been the Chapel. a life sized figure of the Virgin filled the window. & this figure was silhouetted against the bright moonlight. & flashes of A.A. guns. Shrapnel rattled on the roof like hail. The Hosp. was situated quite close to the Railway Station & it was not possible to aim for the Str. & miss the Hosp. Anyway. - The Hosp was not touched. & I was so tired I went to sleep in the under of it & Sister woke me at 4. a.m. to continue my wandering. Oh! so cold. - I had had for travelling. companions 2 British Officers - I've forgot the unpleasantness of our journey in each other's company. - They were very merry & helpful - & joined me at ~~Stoch~~ Stoch. The Hosp at 4. 30 am & we went to St Roch. reaching Rome at 7. pm. The night Sister had filled my Thermos with coffee. & we had some sandwiches so procured on that obscure

I stayed with No. 1. A. G. H. till the present time. my days of adventure & absorbing interest were over. I had had splendid experience "up the line" & was content to do "Base Hospital" work. - For some months I was doing medical nursing & then night duty in October 1917. till the end of the year, in an acute surgical ward - I was on duty for the Cambrai posts in that ward - night duty - at one time there were 14 amputations in that section. Some of them "double amputations" Corroy. in - evacuations out - dressings & ordinary ward nursing kept me fully occupied those days. One night we evacuated 23. acute surgical cases. 1/2 after that had gone. & we were just beginning to finish the clearing up of solid linen. Ring cushions, splints dressing buckets. - Caroll's tubes. & such like. when the cheering information of "Corroy in 1/2 hr." came to us. myself & one orderly for 56 patients - The beds were not made or were we tied up. before in they came stretchers. & bearers. patients & ston. & there it was a race to get finished. by 7. am. when the ^{day} night people came on. In the summer time I was on duty in the Sisters Mess & gardening was my pet pastime & I was proud of my gardens at the Irish Quarters at No. 1. A. G. H. The work being done by Convalescent patients. About this time - we were being bombed. or rather I should say the men were being bombed. for we were never touched. Tho we could hardly expect to escape. as we were surrounded by camps. Many nights we spent an hour or two in trenches. clad in weird garments. & ^{steel} hats

A Camp stool or door mat was a treasure. a cushion & an army blanket - were my best friends - I have a long piece of Shrapnel. that fell a inch or so from my shoulder. which I recovered with more in the sand of the trench - It is a souvenir. The night at 10.30 The alarm went & we obediently brotred into our trenches. Stayed there till 12. m.d. Everything seemed over. & I went back to bed. just had succeeded in dusting the sand from my toes & getting warm. & once more. a jaunt to the trenches & this time we stayed till nearly 3 am. that time we stayed in bed & were not further disturbed. my worst result was a bad cold & a pain in my back. After one of these pleasant nights. Sometime July was right over our heads flying fairly low. - once he dropped a flare that lit up everything with a greenish-glow. he was aiming for the two bridges. One a wonderful Railway bridge. called Le Pont des Anglais. This bridge was built for a great river in another land. & was shipped to a distant port. They found the then railway bridge insufficient to carry the increased traffic. & so erected part of this bridge. It had an incomplete span. - it was erected by the R.E's we hired the ground. it stood on. & therefore was known as the Pont des Anglais. Thrice the enemy got very close to that bridge on one occasion damaging the operations & the street. In Sep. I went on night duty nursing Influenza cases. - part of the time I was on night duty when the Armistice

24 was signed - coming to England with the second detachment of Sisters: At present I am on duty in an acute medical ward, but leave it for night duty next week.

In all my service with the Hospitals, I have been so happy in the great patience & cheerfulness shown by the patients.

Two badly wounded. They would always try to make the best of it - & in the many kindnesses shown me by men from all over the world. Doctors, Canadian Americans S. Africans, N. Z. English & Irish troops - & our own ^{Antipian} here everywhere there has been the great spirit of kindness & helping from the boys of course at times one gets the reverse of this in such minor cases. to of.

Such infrequency one does well to forget any such little unpleasantness.
The great & splendid spirit of helping their Colours - helping Sisters to get their work done - helping the blinded - poor suffering gas cases - The making the best of the worst - has shone like a great wheel light all through my 4 yrs of nursing the men of the British Army.

Who the many tiny courtesies & kindnesses from the French people in the villages a basket of apples for the "blesses" on the train - a bunch of roses to cheer up the table - these & many such little thoughtless acts make one almost forget that the days in the Army are almost over.

I carry many precious memories with me. as I complete 4 yrs service with the A.A.S. - A.I.F.

Yrs. Grace. Johnson.
