It is the responsibility of the Captains of the Various Sporting teams in competitions to contact Duty Officer BRIT COM BASE 22386 relative the final scores in order that same may be published in BCJN.

895. FIRE RISK FROM OVERLOADING ELECTRIC WIRE CIRCUITS

The winter season in JAPAN is the one in which the majority of BCOF Fires from "unknown cause" are likely to occur. This is because the "unknown cause" is generally the overloading of an electric wire and the consequent heating effect of that wire on wooden ceilings, etc. To obviate the risk of such fires it is absolutely essential that:-

(a) Electric radiators are NOT used in any building unless Engrs have passed the building as wired for radiators.
(b) Where buildings are wired to take radiators the safe heating capacity is not exceeded. If this precaution is NOT observed, the building will without doubt eventually catch fire.

2. To understand this point it is necessary to realis that:-

(a) The current carrying capacity of an insulated wire or fitting is determined by its heating effect.
(b) The heating effect on a wire varies as the square of the watt capacity of the electric heater placed on the circuit.

3. In standard dependants houses designed for steam heating the electric circuit is designed to carry a700 watt load.

Thus when a 1,000 watt (1 KW) heater is plugged in, the heating effect on the wire is more than doubled, and when a 2,000 watt (2 KW) heater is used the heating effect is eight times as great as that for which the circuit was designed.

The danger of overloading electric circuits is thus obvious.

4. In order to reduce the risk of fires during the winter months it is essential that all ranks and particularly all dependants understand the terrific risk involved in the overloading of electric circuits.

901. LOCALLY GROWN FRESH FRUIT AND VEGETABLES DISINFECTION.

As some locally grown fruit is now being issued by S & T (Japanese apples) the instructions for disinfection of locally grown fruit and vegetables are republished hereunder. Where the items are intended for consumption without cooking disinfection is necessary to prevent ingestion of pathogenic organisms.

2. The following methods will be used:-

Either (a) immersion of the fresh fruit or vegetables in hypochlorite solution (strength 50 parts of free chlorine per (million) for 15 minutes, followed by water rinsing, or (b)immersion in 1:1000 Potassium permanganate solution for 15 minutes followed by water rinsing. Method (a) is preferable.

3. Pl Commanders are advised to introduce this measure of fruit and vegetable disinfection accordingly.

4. Fruit and vegetables which are cooked are disinfected in the process and only the normal water washing process need then be used.

5. Dependants are to be warned on the health risks involved in the consumption of locally grown fruit or vegetables without disinfection as necessary.

It is the responsibility of the Captains of the Various Sporting teams in competitions to contact Duty Officer BRIT COM-PAUL 20386 relative the final scores in order that same may be published in BCN.

805. FIRE RISK FROM OVERLOADING ELECTRIC WIRE CIRCUITS

The Winter season in JAPAN is the one in which the majority of BCOF fires from "unknown cause" are likely to occur. This is because the "unknown cause" is generally the overloading of an electric wire and the consequent heating effect of that wire on wooden ceilings, etc. To obviate the risk of such fires it is absolutely essential that:-

(a) Electric radiators are NOT used in any building unless Engrs have passed the building as wired for radiators.

(b) Where buildings are wired to take radiators the safe heating capacity is not exceeded. If this precaution is NOT observed, the building will without doubt eventually catch fire.

2. To understand this point it is necessary to realise that:-

(a) The current carrying capacity of an insulated wire or fitting is determined by its heating effect.

(b) The heating effect on a wire varies as the square of the watt capacity of the electric heater placed on the circuit.

3. In standard dependants houses designed for steam heating the electric circuit is designed to carry a700 watt load.

Thus when a 1,000 watt (1 KW) heater is plugged in, the heating effect on the wire is more than doubled, and when a 2,000 watt (2 KW) heater is used the heating effect is eight times as great as that for which the circuit was designed.

The danger of overloading electric circuits is thus obvious.

4. In order to reduce the risk of fires during the winter months it is essential that all ranks and particularly all dependants understand the terrific risk involved in the overloading of electric circuits.

901. LOCALLY GROWN FRESH FRUIT AND VEGETABLES DISINFECTION

As some locally grown fruit is now being issued by S & T (Japanese apples) the instructions for disinfection of locally grown fruit and vegetables are republished hereunder. Where the items are intended for consumption without cooking disinfection is necessary to prevent ingestion of pathogenic organisms.

2. The following methods will be used:-

Either (a) immersion of the fresh fruit or vegetables in hypochlorite solution (strength 50 parts of free chlorine per (million) for 15 minutes, followed by water rinsing, or (b)immersion in 1:1000 Potassium permanganate solution for 15 minutes followed by water rinsing. Method (a) is preferable.

3. Pl Commanders are advised to introduce this measure of fruit and vegetable disinfection accordingly.

4. Fruit and vegetables which are cooked are disinfected in the process and only the normal water washing process need then be use

5. Dependants are to be warned on the health risks involved in the consumption of locally grown fruit or vegetables without disinfection as necessary.

909. SEASONAL GREETINGS FROM DST AHQ MELBOURNE.

Subtended is a letter from DST AHQ Melbourne to DDST BCOF:-

" Once again the season of Christmas is with us and we are on the threshold of a New Year - the third since the actual cessation of hostilities.

At such a time our thoughts are with all members of the corps still serving overseas. A small number are fortunate in having their families with them but the great majority will be away from home.

The year just closing can be regarded as really our most successful year for, despite the difficulties of changing and decreasing staffs and units, of many industrial troubles upsetting well ordered programmes, of shortages of commodities and many other factors, the S & T Services both in Japan and Australia have been able to discharge their task to the satisfaction of all interested parties and especially to the rank and file consumers who are our most important customers.

The year 1948 will bring its changes which will greatly affect our Service. However, with the experience already gained and the known qualities of loyalty and ability inherent in all our members we face the future confident that we will find already solution to any problem confronting us.

All members of the Corps in Australia join me in the Season's Greetings to all members serving in Japan and express the hope that the New Year will bring a lasting peace and prosperity.
