

X. 4. BRUSSELS.

The Spy From the Sky.

Vos, A German Spy . . . . .	Jefferson Gore.
Dupont, X. 4. Brussels . . . . .	Austin Trevor
Sgt. Littlewood . . . . .	J. Markof.
Pvt. Stobie . . . . .	Max Bilton.
The Maire of Coin Perdu . . . . .	E. Hupfield.
Capt. Tonx . . . . .	Capt. West.

---

Act I. Vos' room on the first floor of a house near the railway at Coin Perdu Time. 7.30. a.m. Winter Time. Any day just previous to a big offensive.

Act. II. The same. Time. 8.45. p.m. the same day.

Act. III. Capt. Tonx's office. Time 11.30. p.m the same night.

“BEWARE! . . . . .
. . . . . etc.

(You ought to know the rest.)

Passed to you please for your information and necessary retention (in your memory).

“A wise old Owl lived in an oak,
The more he heard, the less he spoke,
The less he spoke, the more he heard,

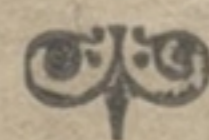

(Your attention is respectfully drawn to the next line.)

Please imitate that wise old bird.”

---

CAISSE D'EPARGNE
BAILLEUL.

Whatever qualities of entertainment this sketch may lack, it is hoped that it will at least have the advantage of showing some of the real dangers that exist in our midst.

In this respect it is different from other spy plays as it is founded upon information which has been supplied by the Intelligence Branch of the General Staff and any departure from the realm of possibility has been studiously avoided.

*This Article was donated to the Australian War Memorial by the wife of late Capt. E. L. Bailey
A.W.R.S.*

Souvenirs 2 4/3/11

RC08080