南方か？本土か？

よく防ぐ事は拒いだ。近代火器、爆弾の偉力は如何とも仕難い。ヤルートの東南南七百キロのタラワ二年の防備も数日にして廢墟と化した。戦はだん／＼北に移って行く。

1. Chuzenji temple in snow.
2. Australian tanks in New Guinea. These tanks, unexpected by the Japanese forces, played an important part in attacking the Japanese post at Sattelberg on 26 Nov. After Sattelberg fell, the tanks rolled on to Wareo, which was captured by our forces on 8 Dec.
3. War is a detestable thing. However, it has its good points. One of these is the comradeship, transcending race and nationality, between people fighting together. This furthers world amity. You see a picture of good friendship between a Chinese and an American soldier.
4. Even if roads are bad, what do they care, the strong men of the Australian army.
5. An air photograph showing action by the American Air Forces in China, whose bombings around Hongkong are now of almost daily occurrence. The picture shows the result of an attack on an oil dump at the Japanese base of Laichikok, on the Chinese mainland opposite Hongkong.
6. Japan or the South? In spite of strong attempts at defence the Japanese were helpless against Allied modern armaments and firing power. Defences which had been prepared for 2 years at Tarawa, only 700 kms south-east by south from Jaluit in the Japanese mandates, crumbled in a few days. The war is gradually moving north.
