"GERMANY - THE TREACHEROUS ALLY".

It is daily becoming clearer to the Japanese what a treacherous ally they have in Nazi Germany.

In the long list of German machinations against her Axis partner Japan, the following are the most recent:-

1. Claiming that their forcible occupation of Holland gives them a right to Netherlands property elsewhere, the Nazis are trying to obtain control of valuable ore mines, rubber plantations and other riches in the Netherlands East Indies, which are now temporarily held by the Japanese military.
2. The Nazis are trying to persuade Japan to send ships with valuable cargoes from the Southern Regions to Germany. Japan, having fewer and fewer ships herself as a result of the G.E.A. war, had to refuse this impertinent demand. To retaliate, Germany is now refusing Japan further technical assistance.
3. Nazis residing all over the Southern regions have been found to be spies for Hitler and the kempeitai had to arrest many.

The above are only recent developments. To refresh the memory and show Germany in her true light is the purpose of the following short history:-

1894 - 5: Sino-Japanese War. Germany intrigues against Japan. German officers fighting against Nippon. Germany participated in convention which forced Japan to relinquish Liaoutung peninsula.

1895 - 1939: Germany, by commercial activities in China and seizure of Tsingtao and many Pacific islands constantly plotted against Japan.

1904: Kaiser Wilhelm, in a speech pointed against Japan, warned the world against the "Yellow Peril", thus introducing discrimination against Orientals into world politics. This attitude was held responsible for the enactment of the American immigration laws in 1911 and similar measures against Japanese in other countries, including Germany.

1904-1905: Russo-Japanese War. Germany aiding Tsarist Russia by coaling the Russian Baltic Fleet. Kaiser Wilhelm, encouraging the Tsar against the Anglo-Japanese alliance, wrote on the 3rd January, 1904, that Russia must annex Korea and occupy Manchuria.

1914-1918: Japan, together with Britain and other Allies, fights against Germany, realizing the dangerous ambitions for world dominance by that power.

1929-1938: Nazi anti-Japanese military missions in China. General von Falkenhausen was the best known of these German officers opposing the Japanese in his capacity as military adviser to General Chiang Kai Shek.

1939: In violation of the Anti-Comintern Pact, and without consulting Japan, Hitler makes a non-aggression pact with Russia.

1941: Hitler attacks Russia, again without notifying Japan in advance.

1942: The Nazis, using false claims to have destroyed the Russian and British Near East Armies, induce Japan to expose her troops in Burma in the hope of effecting a juncture with German forces in India. Thus, the Japanese military, deceived by Germany, has been responsible for grave errors of judgment and for the weakening of Japanese strength elsewhere in the Pacific area.

The above is only part of Germany's black record. Most objectionable of all is the fact that in his book "Mein Kampf" Hitler insulted the Japanese, including the Emperor, by saying that they are a second rate race to whom he is hardly prepared to allow a place in the family of nations.

Truly, all thoughtful Japanese deplore the alliance between their military leaders and treacherous and inimical Germany.
