(163)

In reply to NZ of 13² I thank the GOC for his kind Enquiries; myself and Staff feel a little rested, but there was a good deal of work to do yesterday in Co-ordinating our action with that of the Staff of the Marine Brigade.

As regards the troops, the whole of those belonging to the 4th Light Bde were still heavily engaged till a late hour last night in actual fighting, with the exception of 16th Bn which since noon yesterday has been resting and reorganising. During the darkness last evening portions of the 13th & 15th Bns were relieved for reorganization, but at the moment of writing the following troops are still in the occupied positions unrelieved viz The whole of 14th Bn, 1 Coy 15th Bn and 1 Coy 13th Bn.

With regard to the Troops who gained & occupied advanced positions the night before last, these were left unsupported on their left by the withdrawal of the Stago Bn and unsupported on their right by the falling back of the 16th Bn, which had been shelled out of its position by our own Batteries, and as Col Burnage (13th) was suffering losses during the day and no support could be sent him during the night, Mr General Treharne decided to withdraw

Notes on Inspection 5-5-15 -

1. Supports are too far back + do not seem properly organized + defended to trenches. Men in support stray over hill + are not ready when an attack comes. The dugouts for supports ought to be properly constructed to keep sections etc together. Officers do not seem to know where the enemies' + our own neighbouring trenches are -

Parapets cannot be shot over in some cases + want smoothing down.

Bayonets should be fixed when we are at close quarters -

2. A field gun might be brought into position + fire percussion shell point blank at tanks trenching on WOODY SLOPE -

3. Reserves + troops resting might occupy trenches of 2nd line.

4 Inner line Trenches on South side of valley to be continued higher up valley to join COURTNEY'S post -

Trenches on North side of valley up to OTAGO trench should be constructed.

Garrisons, or at any rate
Commanding Officers should remain as long as possible on the same post, & should go back to a post previously occupied after relief -

Headquarters,
Anzac Cove, 5th. May, 1915.

From: Brig.-General,
General Staff,
A. & N. Z. A. C.

To: Headquarters,
Australian Division,
N. Z. & A. Division.

The following are some remarks by a Staff Officer on the Army Corps Headquarters Staff, on trench work being carried out.

1. Some trenches, intended for fire trenches, have been deepened so much that fire from them is impossible, even if the earth parapet were shovelled away.
 2. In nearly all cases the front face of the trench has been burrowed into, to give cover from shrapnel. This interferes considerably with the possibility of getting out of the trenches to meet a bayonet attack or to counter attack, unless special boxes, etc. are provided to step on to.
 3. Trenches on the forward slopes must be constructed so that fire can be brought on to the slope itself. The majority only allow for fire at the opposite crest. If trenches are really commanded at close range, substantial overhead cover must be made, covering the whole trench if possible.
- In occupying the trenches men must dispose of their gear inside the trench in recesses, etc. Rifles, accoutrements, and ammunition must be similarly disposed, as some are being damaged by rifle and shell fire.

There are also a large number of spare rifles, accoutrements, ~~and~~ ammunition, water tins, biscuit boxes, etc., etc. lying near around trenches. These should be collected and buried or burnt or sent into store at once.

The situation of the trenches is hopelessly given away by this debris.

from The R. Graham

May 5th 1915

(34)

I wish to draw your attention to a field gun, which I observed from the right section of our trenches.

I could only estimate
the position through a periscope
as the snipers are very bad & should say it is distant about 50 yards.

I took the bearing -119°
of the extreme right of our trench

R. Graham

As there is apparently no attempt to bring this gun into action I should say that it has been put out of action.
