Recently, at a big benefit matinee concert in London to the Australian wounded soldiers, the public heartily joined in a chorus. The Australians, who had no songs of their own on the programme, at the finish of Ada Grossley’s item, called “Coo-ee, Coo-ee,” to each other across the Auditorium. This inspired the author to write the song, “Sing us a Song of Australia,” introducing “Coo-ee,” which is now the “novelty” call in London.

Chorus:
Sing us a song of Australia, the land we know so well,
Sing us a song with any old rhyme,
Of the land where sun shines all the time.
If you haven’t a song of Australia, to cheer us o’er the foam,
Shout “Coo-ee,” “Coo-ee,”
’Twill remind us of home sweet home.

THE BENNETT SCOTT PIANO TUTOR.

A few important facts about the wonderful new Piano Tutor for Children.

To Music Teachers, Parents, and Guardians

The advent of the BENNETT SCOTT PIANO TUTOR may seem to those who have not examined it a matter of comparatively small importance, a mere addition to the numerous easy (so-called) piano tutors.

But to those who have had the patience to go into the merits of this work and compare it with the established tutors, it marks a revolution, a new era for those engaged in the occupation of imparting the rudiments of music to children.

In introducing the BENNETT SCOTT PIANO TUTOR to the Australian Public, we have every confidence in saying it is the easiest of all piano Tutors, and makes teaching and learning a pleasure.

Sheet music papers may be had on application.

The following are just a few of the many original claims which have made it an instantaneous success in England and America, viz. ...

(a) All previous Tutors are compiled to teach the pupil the treble (or right hand) first, then suddenly confront them with a different notation altogether for the bass for left hand. The BENNETT SCOTT TUTOR is so written that both treble and bass come under the pupil's notice in easy lessons together, thus summarising the old difficulty which has been responsible for so many "right handed" occupation of imparting the rudiments of music to children.

(b) The lessons are so written and composed that the foundation of harmony and counterpoint are secretly inculcated into the learner's mind, thus clearing an old barrier away that has caused many promising musicians (to renounce music altogether.

(c) The valuation of each note is taught in such an easy progressive manner, as to make failure in metre (time or counting) an impossibility. This is the name of the many "stumbling blocks" that the BENNETT SCOTT TUTOR has cleared away.

(d) The whole work is so written and printed that any child having attended school for 12 months could read, and understand ever so little. Price 2s. 6d. posted, 2s. 6d. /
