We sent you a message. I left them last night just by the North Pass. Just beyond Mulverghem and by that time tail of second Div. was clear and all they had was 4 gas shells and 4 high burst shrapnel over the road after tank force had passed. From 6 on I finished pushing well and I didn't get hit till 12 and there was practically no shooting at all. We have heard from them since that they were C. 12. just before jumping off. They got a

Advising they have a map showing exactly where the Porsche will assemble in order to counter-attack. They have arranged for a plane to fly at dusk to see whether enemy intend to attack, and if so to give a signal, so that artillery can come down at once. Have asked if plane can fly over our line also, with the same signal.

To McDonald, 42nd. Squadron.

We said planes would fly at 2 and 5 hours. 5 hours on to 3.50 makes 8.50, which will be right for you again. Not worth while flying. We probably won't shew flares again. We do not intend to go beyond FME DE LA CROIX. We are out to the WINDMILL? Well, that is all right. Now that our barrage will soon cease, if not already, we don't want to let up many flares, otherwise the enemy, looking over from WARNETON, sees our front line and puts a barrage down. I am going to ask my General whether he wants you to fly now.

Phone. Out.

7.10 a.m.

Colonel Jackson. -

To McDonald.-

I have talked to my General, and we may want you to fly at 8.50. If we want you to do so, or before that time we will let you know. We cannot say definitely. In any case, before going up, call us. We can give you any amount of notice. If the situation is obscure, we may want you to fly before 8.50. If, on the other hand, the going is plain, and the artillery has died down, we do not want to send up flares, and so give away our position to the enemy.

In reply to query the G.O.C. stated everything going well. Got all objectives and no sign of any counter attack. Contact plane not fired on from the WINDMILL. McDonald definitely reported fired on when flying over the WINDMILL from the ground. Had S.O.S. in vicinity of WINDMILL and drove off attack. The only obscure position is in regard to Post 8. Nothing definite is known at present, but I am awaiting def. inf. All posts perfectly secure and digging going on extremely well. Somewhere between 25 and 30 prisoners. We also got a Machine Gun Officer. All prisoners of 28th I.R.

I think everything is all right but there is still a chance that the Bosch may attack the Windmill or Post 8. Have you thought out so far what you are going to do.

In that case you would employ your two Reserve Coys that are going to relieve tomorrow morning. Supposing it did happen the first people you would put in would be one or both of these Coys. Have the people in command of these Coys. any idea what their job would be. They know normally what to do but they must be prepared for something else. I think it would be a good idea if you got the Coy Commanders to come up to you tell them the story and make preparations for any sudden orders etc.,

We do not want to be taken by surprise and it would be a bit off if for want of any forethought or preparation anything went wrong. I think we shall concentrate the whole of our energies on watching the situation for 24 hours. You and your staff can take turns to get some sleep. I think we can afford to let one day go. we are not secure for 24 hours. We shall then know how things are going up north. All we know here is that the British Army have got all their objectives. Our job leaves nothing to be desired. I believe that the New Zealanders have captured LA BASSE VILLE and established themselves in it very strongly and have practically got the whole of the river line and WARNETON line

Do you know if the officer in command of the windmill post is all right. ? He is.

Do you think it would be advisable to send an officer over to take charge - it is a very important Post and the presence of an officer there will hearten the men. I think the Bosch will go for that when they will not go for anything else ?
