London Headquarters sent the application back not approved as records held shewed him to be a bigamist. The file was duly sent him for notation and came back with a request from him that his application for discharge be cancelled and substituting therefor an application for early repatriation. - "Please, Sir, send me home as soon as possible."	Appendix 9.

Editorial.

The third number of "The Fiveaustra" has a number of articles of general "Aussie" interest, and features the Fifth Divvie history continued from our previous issue. In response to several requests, we are reprinting Chapter I of Larbalestier's account in addition to this week's contribution so that readers may have the story complete in print. Sgt. O'Brien has a racy account of the Boxing Tourney at the Jubilee Hall, while the correspondence column is fairly filled by an interesting account of some "Bon Military Enjoyment" by Sgt. Ruston. A contributor it would pay you business men to get into touch with is P.R.I. Darby. Read his article on "Advertising," and don't argue! It will be continued next week. Look out for it. A reminder to some of the Depôts in this Group will, I feel sure, be all that is necessary to induce them to send along some original articles for "The Fiveaustra"; this is your own Magazine, and it does not need any "wet nurses" to make it thrive. Let us have some dinkum mother's milk. Depôt anecdotes, incidents, class progress reports, brief accounts of the stuff being put over by visiting lecturers—that is the material that will find a warm welcome in these columns. At any rate, send us along a sample of your handwriting and we'll guarantee to tell the whole world your character, previous record, and future.

Digger Advertising

The great fact that one has to recognise in connection with the selling of a product is that people don't know about it, unless you tell them and keep on telling them. They must be told; if you think anything else, you spoil your own efforts. It's just this telling in cunning method that is actual advertising.

The next fact to recognise is that you yourself must know all there is to know about the article or product in question, and know just exactly what people must be told, to make them do as you want them to. One of the most powerful points for you to recognise in this is that this particular lack of knowledge in the public mind gives the skilled advertiser a good clean field to sow with ideas. Ideas that will produce the necessary action required.

This is the ground to work on—the mind of the public. Consider it, grade it, classify it, and treat it as it requires, and it will produce the result you want.

The world is impressionable, and you have to make the impression that will live predominant in the brain, amongst all the myriad momentary impressions of life.

Many things are being spoken of in these days. Hundreds are advertising—competitive preaching of similar wares is to be profited by, not lost heart over. Amid many applications for leave, one stood prominent. Purposely written on a selected, tinted, paper to hold the eye; delightfully worded after many careful corrections; well spaced and well written, it produced results without unseemly effort. The other applications were but a useful background for this one.

A poor shopkeeper with envious eyes watched the wonderful ad., shown daily on a competing tradesman's windows, and saw his own trade slackening. Passers-by were being interested, and their minds diverted, by each day's new clarion call.

The shopkeeper's sleepless nights and worry changed at last to careful thought. Just one huge gaudy window placard he chose with the words "My prices speak for themselves and need no advertisement." He then scored the greater from his neighbour's efforts. A "dinkie die" advertisement, nothing more and nothing less.

Telling a soldier "The A.I.F. Education Classes are starting" may be done with different effects, largely due to the methods adopted.

For example, if we add a preparatory preface, "Young fellow, you'll be pulling on your civvy socks within three months from date and looking round for a job. Are you ready?" and THEN tell the message, "The A.I.F. Education Classes are starting." Little more may be required, except to produce the goods.

There is much in your business you must impress upon others—LEARN HOW.

History of the Fifth Division.

(1) ITS BIRTH.

It was late in January, 1916, that the "Furf" first started to take shape in the first "Divvie." The first at that time comprised the veterans from Gallipoli and reinforcements who had joined up after the Anzacs had reached Tel-El-Kebir, though the battalions were by no means complete as regards numbers, being for the most part at about half strength, that is about 500 strong.

The "Furf," as is usual with all "Furfs," was distorted, embellished and even beheaded. Sometimes we were to be all mounted and sent to Mesopotamia; again we were to be Camel Corps and remain in Egypt. Had Tanks been invented at that time we would doubtless have become (per rumour) the DRY TANK CORPS, and been sent to East Africa to charge elephants found damaging the telegraph lines. Only on one point did the rumours agree, and that was that there was an important (for us) event impending.

It came early in February, when battalions were divided into two equal portions, half remaining with "The horizontal oblongs" and the other half going, where? That was where the "Rumour Kings" had their innings.

Needless to say, many mates were separated by this parting, and loud were the lamentations, louder was the weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, and loudest were the curses consigning the "Heads" to a destination slightly warmer than the Poles. It is said of one Colonel, an old Gallipoli man, that a hard case Digger (though we were not known by that sweet pseudonym in those days) paraded, and complained in language more forcible than polite about being separated from his cobbler, stating that they had been at the Landing and together ever since. The Colonel said nothing, but turned away and busied himself filling two glasses with lime juice (?). Handing one to the Digger, he said 'I have lost all my mates, too, so we are both in the same boat.' Relating his experience afterwards, the Pongo said "What could a man do but drink up and slope?"

However, despite all protests, the separation took place and we were informed officially some time afterwards that for the future we would be known as the Fifth Division, the Brigades comprising it to consist of the 8th, 14th, and 15th, and that our colours would be worn perpendicular instead of horizontal, but would be of the same shape and colour as the parent Brigades. Such was the beginning of the Fifth Division. The Pioneers and Artillery were taken from the ranks of the Infantry some little time afterwards, and as the Division gained in strength so were other units formed, till eventually the Division was completed in every detail.

Sporting Splashes.

A.I.F. BOXING TOURNAMENT.

A fair programme of boxing was put on at the Jubilee Hall, Weymouth, on Wednesday afternoon. Seven contests were staged, and excepting in a couple of cases the contests were not too strenuous.

Captain Gull, of the Imperial Tank Corps, was a satisfactory referee; Lieuts. Cosgrove and Thompson acted as judges; timekeeper, Lieut. Eager; sports officer, Lieut. Allen. The attendance was poor. The band of Quota 41 was in attendance and rendered their items well.

Cpl. Thrupp (Monte) v. Pte. Povey (Westham). Feathers opened the ball and a good contest was provided. Thrupp is the possessor of a good punch, but Povey boxed more cleverly and repeatedly made Thrupp miss badly. In the third round Povey used a straight left to good advantage and got a well-earned decision.

Rickenberg (Littlemoor) v. Hammon (Westham). Lightweights provided the next item. Rickenberg is a tall boxer with a good reach, which he used to the best advantage. Hammon, however, was always there to take some more. However, Rickenberg by constantly using a good left hand was declared the winner.

Conlon (Wyke) v. Whybrow (Monte), Middleweight. Conlon was far too clever and used good footwork and always had Whybrow in trouble. Both were warned for not fighting, and in the second round the towel came from Whybrow's corner.

Then came what proved to be the star turn of the afternoon, a six-round challenge between Pte. Dade, A.I.F., 10st. 6lbs., and Sgt. Birfield, of the Tank Corps, 10st. 7lbs. Round one opened with Birfield trying to break through Dade's smother, but Dade was too wary. Dade scored with left to face, right to midriff several times. Birfield placed light left on face twice and got away without any return. Just on time, Dade placed a heavy right to the jaw, putting Birfield down as the gong went. Dade's round.

Round two opened by Dade smashing right to rib, Birfield replying with light lefts to face, which did not seem to trouble Dade, who was looking for a knock-out and narrowly missed on several occasions. Birfield was taking the punches, going away nicely. Dade's round.

Round three found Birfield boxing better, scoring with lefts to face, and making Dade miss badly at times. Dade kept boring in and scored with rights to ribs and face. Round even.

Round four.—Birfield again boxing well, although his punches lacked sting: he placed a couple to the face, but was badly rocked by Dade's attention to midriff, several rights being placed by Dade. Birfield was tiring. Dade won this round.

Round five.—Dade brought a straight left into action and scored often with it. Birfield, who was palpably out of condition, however, stood well up to everything and fought back, using his left to good advantage. Round even.

Round six.—Dade scored repeatedly with left and right to face and body, Birfield placing one or two lefts to the face. Birfield, however, in spite of showing signs of heavy weather, stood up and mixed it, scoring with left to face. The gong found Dade the stronger, and he was awarded the decision. Both boxers received a great ovation on leaving the ring.

Bartle (Littlemoor) v. Cook (Westham), Lightweights. Bartle tried to force the fighting, but Cook was unwilling to mix things. Bartle was too forceful, and the towel came from Cook's corner in the third round.

A challenge heavyweight contest between Bell (Westham) and Nippen (Monte) concluded the afternoon's sports. This was a tame affair owing to Nippen not wishing to mix things. Nippen retired in the second round.

Finals were fought on Friday and provided some good contests.

CRICKET.

The A.I.F. team met Middlesex at Lord's and played a draw. Time, however, saved the Aussie team, as Middlesex had six wickets to fall and only required 52 runs to win. The Aussies batted first and knocked up 370, Collins batting splendidly for 127, Pellew 91, Stirling 57, Willis 31. Haig, three for 70, Hendren, three for 98, were the best of the bowlers.

Middlesex replied with 408, Warner, who collapsed and was carried off the field, making 101 and Hendren 135. Lampard, six for 91, was the only bowler to trouble the batsmen.

The Australians were dismissed for 235 in their second attempt. Kelleway 52, Collins 64, Taylor 22, Lampard 22, Willis 25, Pellew 22. Lee, four for 48, Haig, three for 63.

Middlesex, four wickets for 146 at close of play, Hendren again batting well for 60 not out.

BILLIARDS.

In the match between Newman and Falkiner, Newman made a break of 685 and one of 313. Falkiner made 305 and 271. Closing scores: Newman (in play), 12,000; Falkiner, 10,974.

LAWN TENNIS.

The Inter-Allied Armies' Lawn Tennis Championships at Paris again showed Gerald Patterson at the top of his form, beating Zemla (Czecho-Slovakia), who had just beaten Decugis, the French crack. Brick, of America, beat Lycett, of Australia, after a gruelling game.

Sgt. T. O'BRIEN.

CRICKET IN GROUP No. 5.

On Tuesday, May 27th, "A" Co., Quota 31 collected a fairly strong combination and journeyed to Wyke, but suffered a defeat at the hands of Quota 41 by the narrow margin of four runs.

The home team won the toss and went to the wicket first, but, failing to negotiate the deadly bowling of Lt. Slater and Sgt. Wilkenson, soon had eight wickets down for 20 runs. However, the ninth wicket partnership increased the total to 54, the whole side being downed for 57 runs. The two chief scorers for Wyke were Pte. Downs 19, Pte. Adams 18.

Quote 31 responded very feebly, the first six batsmen being dismissed for 11 runs, but a good effort by the tail-end brought the total to 53, Wyke thus winning by four runs after an exciting finish.

REMARKS.

Pte. M. Styles (the milkman) showed his ability with the ball by taking five for 18.

Pte. Downs also bowled well—four for 15.

Eggs were plentiful, Lts. Slater, Chadwick, Smith, Sgt. Farrell, Ptes. Fitzgerald and Styles gaining the coveted distinction.

C.Q.M.S. Lewin as umpire gave every satisfaction, but seems to be under a misapprehension as to how many balls go to the over.

Lt. Smith's fielding (?) was greeted with rounds of applause from the numerous Diggers.

Mostly Nonsense

Being a confirmed bachelor of the mature age of 23, I don't care what you Diggers think on the subject, but the point I am getting at is that if you want to get married; if you want to buy a wedding present; if you are married and want to get on a family ship—in fact, if there is anything you want to know regarding marriage, go to the Education Officer, and he will do everything for you, except the actual solemnization of the ceremony. Even that he may be able to do shortly, for at a recent conference the matter was discussed and the E.O.'s are now going through a course of Marriage Solemnization. That being so, maybe in a future number of "The Fiveaustralia" we will read something like this:—

"A very pretty wedding took place in the Commercial School, Littlemoor Camp, on the 3rd inst., when Pte. Digdag married Miss Tioyot. Capt. Nonsuch, E.O., officiated and read the ceremony with much feeling.

"The bride looked charming in her V.A.D. uniform, dry-cleaned by the camp renovators (trained by the E.S.), whilst the groom had his manly figure displayed to advantage in an issue tunic, riding breeches, neatly mended by the camp tailors (trained by the E.S.) and boots repaired by the camp bootmaker (trained by the E.S.).

"After the ceremony the happy couple were showered with wheat (grown by E.S. students at Sutton Veny) and drove to the station in the 'Grey Ghost,' the chauffeur (trained by the E.S.) being Pte. Dinkbot.

"The school was tastefully decorated by coppers of the groom, Ptes. Tanker and Mopup (trained in the decorative section of the E.S.). It is rumoured that, whilst waiting for a family boat, the happy couple intend touring France and Belgium."

But I wander.

N.B.—The Editor states that the Digger must provide his own money for the wedding presents if he wants them purchased.

AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITS.

The High Commissioner's Office, London, states that the Australian exhibit at the Lyons Fair, France, has attracted much attention, and a large number of inquiries on trade matters resulted.

Interesting lectures and demonstrations are being delivered by Messrs. Wright and Gallagher, two members of the A.I.F. The Australian stand contains sections representing wool, grain, minerals, meats, leather, timber, tropical products, jam, agricultural products, and machinery.

History of the Fifth Division

(3) IN ACTION.

It was whilst at Ferry's Post that the Division made the acquaintance of those sand storms which are so common in the Sahara and which have been spoken and written about by travellers from time immemorial. The "camseen," for so it is called, lasted for three days—days of acute misery, when one lived in a whirling world of sand and ate sand and drank sand, and even when sleeping it was necessary to get up periodically and shake the blankets, to avoid, if not actual suffocation, at least acute discomfort.

The period spent around the Canal was by no means unpleasant, for though the weather was very hot, there was always the water for a dip morning and night.

It was in the trenches that the hardships were experienced. The shelter was of the scantiest, usually consisting of a blanket stretched across the top of a traverse; and seeing that the temperature was frequently as high as 120°, it can easily be imagined that the heat was, in itself, a great trial; but when, in addition, one was tormented by a horde of flies and the allowance of water for all purposes was a bottle of water per man per day, conditions became almost intolerable.

During this period we made our acquaintance with the Lewis gun. The Lewis guns were not then, as now, attached to each platoon, but consisted of a battalion detachment with a strength of four guns. It was here also that we had our first experience of gas masks, the mask being the stifling P.H. pattern helmet.

In June, 1916, commenced the "great trek" from Egypt to France. The Division proceeded by train from Ishmalia to Alexandria, embarked there, and, despite the submarine peril, succeeded in reaching Marseilles without loss.

From Marseilles to the detraining point was a journey of three days and two nights, through country that, to the eyes of the Diggers, accustomed as they had been to seeing nothing but sandy wastes for the past six months, looked, in its fresh greenness, a very much akin to Paradise.

The Division was still en route when the Somme battle opened on July 1st, with captures in men and territory, that seemed to the populace, after two years of stagnant trench warfare, a magnificent achievement, and great was their excitement as they tried to explain to the wondering Australians, details of the exploit, but owing to the difficulty of the languages the lads could glean but little.

The first few days in July found the Division in the north of France, doing intensive training, particularly with regard to preventative measures against gas. Cloud gas was used at this time, shell gas being not then in vogue.

The next move was into the back area of the Armentieres sector. From there was sent up a reconnoitring party, consisting of a couple of officers and sergeants from each company. Their duty was to inspect the trenches and on return to give all ranks some idea of what the trenches were like and the conditions under which they would be fighting.

It is said of this party that one platoon commander, being told that "No Man's Land" was 500 yards wide said "Well, we're entitled to half that anyhow." "Half be —," said his skipper; "our little extends to his wire." And it was so.

A few days more and the "divvie" followed its advance party and took over the trenches without incident. The first spell in the front line lasted about four days and was marked by one episode, a raid on the 15th Brigade.

When we had been out a day or two, we were informed that on the following Monday we were to have a "hop over." Needless to say, being so new to the game, the thoughts of a "hop over" made us, well, a trifle wobbly, but then we were fresh and also keen, and in the keen the latter condition outweighed the first. Owing to faulty weather conditions the "stunt" was postponed for a couple of days, and did not take place till the evening of July 19th.

As things were in the latter part of the war, the gunfire was insignificant, but at the time we thought it was good, and went over expecting to find "Fritz" just about "napoo." He wasn't, as we found to our cost. We reached his lines all right and hung on for about twelve hours, but bombs and S.A.A. running out, in the early morning of the 20th we retired back to our own lines.

This was the first "hop over" of Australian troops in France, and though our casualties were very heavy, we had the satisfaction of knowing that, thanks to our action in "drawing the crabs," we had largely contributed to the success of the First Division at Pozieres.

The Division remained in the Armentieres sector for a further three months, things being quiet as a rule, though occasionally there were raids by either side, our chaps having, even thus early in the game, "the best end of the stick." Warfare, as carried on in this sector, has been called "warfare-de-luxe," owing to the quietude that existed (as a rule) and to the living conditions generally. For instance, instead of rations having to be carried to the front line from a cook-house some distance in the rear, the dry rations were delivered to the front line by a light railway and cooked on the spot.

The trenches, though strictly speaking, they were more breastworks than trenches, had been begun when the fighting stablished at the end of 1914, and had been added to and strengthened, till, in 1916, they were practically the last word in comfort and strength—that is as concerns British defences, for they were certainly not on a par with the elaborate defences constructed by the Germans.

"Bon Military Enjoyment"

Mr. Editor,—Being interested in all educational activities of the A.I.F., and especially those of No. 5 Group, I was naturally interessted in your Magazine, "The Fiveaustra." One article in particular appeals to me, so I will accept your invitation and comment briefly on the matter.

The item of special interest was named an "Education Tour," and as the perpetrator in his introduction tries to make the suffering public believe that he was the only Digger—pardon, I mean sergeant—who kept his eyes open and so was able to take advantage of the "stunt," the call of DUTY urges me to endeavour to undeceive them. I must plead guilty of having had my eyes open when notification of the tour first appeared. My guilt extends even to the unforgivable offence of having once been a school teacher also. However, I will endeavour to correct my ways in future life. But, apart from drifting from the point, we grow pathetic. Let us revert once more to the tour and proceed.

First of all, I must heartily endorse Sgt. Thiel's remarks, and agree that we owe a debt of gratitude to the A.I.F. Education Service and to the Board of Education of L.C.C. Schools for the facilities afforded the troops.

Having been on the same tour, the material for description of same is mostly used up, but as the sergeant—lucky beggar!—went to Scotland during the second week (wonder how he wangled that trip?) he could not say much of the educational activities in London during that time. That's where he "thudded." The first week was spent in making flying visits to schools and having a very limited time at each; but we were able to alter the programme slightly in the second week and spend more time at the schools which interested us. The teachers at these schools welcomed their visitors, and after expressing friendly and sincere sympathy when they heard of our "civvy" calling, they treated us as kindred spirits, and did all in their power to make our visit as interesting and helpful as possible. They explained fully any methods in use that were foreign to us, and were very interested to hear of the work done in Aussie and the methods in use. In fact, most of us were invited at one time or another to take a class and give a lesson on history or geography of Australia. I'm sure that the children who suffered such lectures have quite a different and more favourable opinion of the place they used to think of only as a continent, which meant more work in map drawing. The children themselves seemed to welcome a visit of the pilgrims from afar, and were anxious for us to see the high standard of their work.

As we described it to the teachers here, the Australian educational system compares favourably with that of the older country, but speaking confidentially, Mr. Editor, I really think they can show us just a few points. A few pages of notes collected are held as evidence in support of this startling statement.

One thing in particular—a feature that is practically unknown in Australia—was specially noticed by the visitors, i.e., Central Schools. The pupils attending a Central School are the smarter ones, the “brain waves” from surrounding Council Schools. In the Central Schools the instruction is more advanced, and if a tendency for any special subject is shown, such talent receives special attention and is developed accordingly. As a result, some excellent exhibits of art and other work done by the pupils are to be seen at these schools. I mention art work in particular, as the standard reached is noticeably far ahead of any such work done in Australian schools.

Specialisation in different subjects was also remarked on. For instance, a teacher who has specialised in history, geography, physics, or any other subject, may supervise the instruction in that subject through many different classes, with most gratifying and successful results. An instance: In one school some of the chemistry students had special instruction in photography; and many photos taken by the students and enlarged were used to splendid advantage as pictorial adornments of the classrooms. That is only one of many instances, however, and I could mention many more where results in wood and metal work were equally successful.

Apart from actual educational subjects, interest in sports receives great attention, and every facility is offered for all of the children to participate in suitable games. In many of the schools, dancing* classes—in addition to the ordinary P.T. instruction and organised games—are held for girls who are interested in it.

One phase of the English education system that received much severe and adverse criticism from the Overseas teachers was the prominence given to religious instruction. It was obvious to all that this instruction was absolutely formal and soulless, and the general opinion was that the time allotted to it—sometimes forty minutes per day—could be much more advantageously spent.

Are teachers naturally suspicious? I found it difficult to convince some that Aussie is a so-called earthly Paradise and often had to substantiate my statements in description of Gippsland in particular by producing dinkum photographs of some of the more insignificant of our large towns and of the scenery of the places mentioned. I probably the doubt was excited by the fact that the Ennzeds, the Springboks and the Canucks all telling the same tale. But imagine my doubting an Aussie's description! Ye gods! I am a diminutive piscatorial denizens of the deep. Luckily the Aussies produced the photos as I said and the other aliens didn't. That's where I slipped. So I guess that the final opinion is in favour of Aussie.

But, perhaps, much of this lop-sided story will appeal only to those unfortunate members of the A.I.F. who were once—like myself—knocked off the chalk and duster. The point I wish to emphasise, however, is this: Almost every member of the A.I.F. Education Service has some special stunt to offer; sometimes an educational tour, sometimes an agricultural tour or visit to country and sheep areas. Whatever you are interested in, be sure an opportunity will arise soon or later, and “Blessed is he that hoppeth in for the cut, for he only will partake thereof; Selah.” These tours are generally on the basis of military employment, but whilst obtaining a benefit from the educational side of the world term naturally reverts to “Bon Military Element.” Take my tip and have some. I am, Sgt. Thiel I also wish to express my full appreciation of the opportunity offered by the A.I.F.E.S.

With all good luck to your journal,

Yours, etc.,

C. R. RUSTON, Sgt.

DISPOSAL OF STAFFS, &c.

Attention is drawn to General Instructions No. 25 issued by Director-General of Repatriation & Mobilisation, dated 7th June '19.

The following procedure of disposal of group and sub-dept staffs is laid down in accordance with the above numbered G. I., and will come into force forthwith.

The term "STAFF" comprises all personnel under jurisdiction of the Group and includes all personnel on leave, in hospital, A. S. L., non-military employment, &c., &c.

All personnel of Groups' staffs who can be spared from duty are to be granted (if so entitled) pre-embarkation leave not exceeding 14 days, and at the expiration of such leave, be given instructions to report to Headquarters No. 5 Group, A. I. F., Suttou Vony, to await repatriation. This procedure will apply to personnel of staffs on the closing of sub-depts.

All personnel proceeding on leave are to be in possession of A. I. F. Form No. 541 "Movement Card" marked for Suttou Vony, and when personnel are reporting to Suttou Vony on expiration of leave the usual concession vouchers will be made out from place of leave direct to Suttou Vony. From this it will be seen that every man proceeding to Suttou Vony from leave must be issued with two single concession vouchers. In the case of direct transfers the usual roll warrants will be issued.

Men proceeding to Suttou Vony direct from leave will be struck off strength as from date of expiration of leave. All necessary transfer documents will be forwarded to these Headquarters 48 hours after the personnel have proceeded on leave.

Particular care must be given to compilation of these documents, which must be complete in every respect. Priority date must be shown on G.I., and dates of enlistment and embarkation from Australia included on Records Cards.

Personnel who are on the strength of the Group and who are on indefinite leave will, on the closing of A. C and D sub-depts, be transferred—"on paper"—to Western Camp, where all transfer documents will also be sent, and from there transferred in a body to No. 5 Group on finalisation of this Group.

Commencing from 21st instant a nominal roll (in quadruplicate) will be rendered by all sub-depts giving the following particulars:—

No., Rank, Name, Unit, Date of expiration of leave, all personnel who have been released under the foregoing instructions made up to and including the preceding seven days. This return to reach Group Headquarters by 500H each Saturday until no longer required.

With regard to personnel in hospital in the depot hospitals, arrangements are being made for their transference to No. 1 A. S. L., Suttou Vony.

A separate nominal-roll of personnel who are now in hospital out of the Group area is to be rendered (in triplicate) by the 20th instant, in order that these may be disposed of accordingly.

A similar nominal roll of men who are A. S. L. will also be rendered on the same date.

Illegal absences will still be retained on strength until a definite ruling is obtained regarding them.

It is to be borne in mind that the process of disposing of staffs must proceed as rapidly as possible and every effort must be made to reduce staffs to the absolute minimum—consistent with the efficient working of the sub-Depots.

NOTE:— The term "GROUP AREA" comprises Herts Video, Lyke Regia, Millenar, and Wootton Camps only.

MONTHLY REPORT ON MESSING FOR JUNE.1919.

RATIONS.

A.S.C. Rations are delivered daily from Westham and always arrive in a satisfactory condition.

CASH ALLOWANCE.

Foodstuffs purchased with the commuted cash allowance are obtained from the local branch of the N.A.C.B. No difficulty has been experienced in obtaining supplies with the exception of fresh vegetables, the supply of which is limited. Supplies always arrive to time and in a satisfactory condition.

MEAT.

Meat is always trimmed and boned before being issued from Butchers Shop.

VEGETABLES.

All vegetables are washed and trimmed before being taken to Kitchens.

KITCHENS.

The camp is fitted with two large Kitchens. Both of these have been in use during this period and have proved quite satisfactory.

COOKS.

Great difficulty has been experienced in obtaining good cooks from incoming Quotas. The average Quota Cook has very little idea of the cooking required in permanent Camps and Kitchens.

BY-PRODUCTS.

Bones are thoroughly cleaned, bagged and then sold to contractors. Fat is thoroughly clarified, graded and the surplus sold to contractor. Kitchen swill is sold to a local contractor.

The Education Service.

Activities and Achievements.

The Education Service has taken opportunity by the forelock during the past month and has spared no pains in its endeavour to reach, if possible, every man in the four depots, and to leave in some way or other a favourable impress of the service upon him. To this end, lectures ad lib. have been supplied on a great variety of topics, tours have been arranged to Devenish's Brewery, the "Co-op" Bakery, Portland Quarries, and Dockyards, and Dorchester Cattle Sales; and in no single instance can it be said that the efforts have failed in their object.

The men have been interested. Interest means attention, and attention produces profitable mental development. This energetic appeal to the men of the A.I.F. is nothing less than salvage of the highest order, salvage of war-rusty Australians, and many hundreds of the quota men in our Group last month have expressed their hearty thanks for this burnishing, polishing and mental re-establishment for which the Education Service, with its staff of lecturers and instructors, has been responsible.

No less than 10,991 attendances at lectures have been recorded for May, the figures for the various sections being—A, 1430; B, 4797; C, 2354; D, 2410. This is truly a splendid record and one of which the Service is justly proud. It is a knock-out blow to destructive criticism. Nothing succeeds like success, and criticism grows faint in the presence of successful achievement.

Where will you always see a knot of Aussies gathered? Why, at any time of the day, outside Hut 55, Westham Camp, examining the notice boards, sizing up the merits of the score of alternative opportunities daily offered by the Service.

As for Quota Classes established during the month, B shows 16 in operation, C 6, D 21, and A 15, the subjects of instruction ranging from Bee-keeping to Telegraphy.

With the closing of Littlemoor Camp, the Service there ceases its activities, but leaves a lasting record of something accomplished of permanent value to hundreds of men to whom Littlemoor was their temporary home.

A prominent feature of the month's activities has been the establishment of a weekly magazine, the Fiveaustra, edited by W.O. Sharp, and distributed free to as many as are early enough to get one of the 500 copies of each issue.

Lastly, please note that the Fiveaustra—the mouthpiece of the Education Service in No. 5 Group—was the only paper in the U.K. that prophesied Grand Parade as winner of the Derby!

THE BROTHERS UGLY.

At the end of this month Weymouth will lose sight of the two brothers ugly. What will happen then I fear to imagine. Although they have not been here as long as John Reddan and a few others, they have gained a reputation worthy of Bacchus. It is even rumored that a deputation from Groves & Son and Devenish have waited on the G.O.C. to have them remain until the last, even as caretakers of the Camp.

The Major "Gorblessim" has also been up and states they are part of the scenery and cannot be dispensed with, but all to no avail. They must go. Their respective home towns are clamouring for their return.

DINGO.

THE POET LAUREATE'S POEM.

Not Written for Hampton Thorpe.

In answer to various enquiries we would state definitely and precisely that the poem by Dr. Bridges, the Poet Laureate, which we published in our Xmas Edition, and which we republish in this issue, was written by Dr. Bridges after a request from the Editor of The Australian at Weymouth. We published it with all rights reserved. It was never written for Hampton Thorpe, and we don't think Dr. Bridges had ever heard of that person up to October last year, and maybe not even now. Thorpe never received our permission or paid us the compliment of asking for it before he published it in his Handful of Diggers. No, we don't think he is a Dinkum Australian. He's too egotistical.

MISTRESS (to cook who is discovered with corporal, and trying on his coat): "Cook, what does this mean?"

COOK (facing it out): "Oh! it's all right mum, I've joined the Women's Volunteer Cooking Corps, and the regimental tailor is just fitting my uniform."

THE LOCAL PRESS AND THE AUSSIES.

We would like to thank the local Press for the very kind appreciation so often expressed of this little journal and the very many kind things they have said about us and ours. The Southern Times has been most good, and often quoted from our columns; in fact Editor Newman and his henchman, Mr. House, have always had a good word to say for us. These gentlemen are a couple of capable pressmen whom it is impossible to fall out with, for if they rub it in to the Aussies in one column, they invariably had an eulogistic paragraph somewhere else to equal things up.

If a Digger did wrong under Local Notes, he sure did right in the leading article, or sub-leader, so things sort of balanced. Should either of them wander out Aussie way, we can guarantee them a hearty greeting. To Mr. Lacey, the doyen of Dorsetshire newspaper proprietors, we too tender our thanks—in fact to one and all.

A TRUE TRUMP.

Mr. Trump, the proprietor of the Greyhound Hotel, Bridport, is Trump by name and Trump by nature, in fact he's a whole suit of trump cards and holds a full hand. On the visit of the No. 36 Quota Band to Bridport he did them proud, entertained them on arrival and just prior to their departure, and did all he could to help everyone. As a matter of fact he did a lot more than anyone could possibly ask.

Mr. Trump hopes to arrange for a visit of a Digger concert party to Bridport at an early date, and if he does so the performance will be given in one of the beautiful local private grounds. We hope to be there.

On April 12 Chaplain-General Rentoul announced in Melbourne that he had received a letter from General Birdwood stating that he will soon visit Australia.

DORCHESTER MAGNATES.

All Aussies who have visited Dorchester, and particularly those who have attended the various concerts held in the County Town, will like to pay a tribute to the kindness and courtesy of Councillor Dennis, the Mayor, and Mr. Councillor D. Porter, the genial Chairman of Amusement Committee. The latter is a great amateur musician and plays the banjo in such a manner as to put hundreds of pros. in the shade. At one time he shone as an animal trainer, his performing pouies, donkeys and dogs being far above the usual Circus or Music Hall performances. The two gentlemen entertained the Aussies Band right royally on their last visit to the Borough Gardens.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

As this is the final issue of The Australian at Weymouth advertisers are requested to remit outstanding accounts at the earliest so that the paper's accounts may be closed.

The Editor begs to thank all advertisers for their support and help during the period which the paper has run, and trusts that they will have a prosperous future.

The Nervassa, Euripides and Anchises all had cases of flue on board on arrival at Albany, and so the returning Aussies all had to go into quarantine.

While Australian seamen are resolutely declining to make overtures, the owners evince a disposition to seek new labour. Their chief difficulty is to obtain firemen. Wages lost already total £5,550,000.

While attempting to recapture three 16-year old boys who broke away from Victoria Industrial School, Mimico, Mr. W. E. Patinger, the sports director of the institution, was shot through the body by one of the fugitives, and is in a serious condition.

"I found my Manhood in France."

The Prince of Wales.

By PADRE C.A.J.

Kipling, in "The Day's Work," tells the story of "The Ship that found Herself." As a prelude to the tale, he gives the verse from "The Song of the Engines."

We now, held in captivity,
Spring to our labour, nor grieve!
See now, how it is blessed,
Brother, to give than to receive.
Keep trust, wherefore ye were made
Paying the duty ye owe;
For a clean thrust and the shear of the blade
Shall carry us where we shall go.

It was the maiden trip of a steamer fresh from the dockyard. The daughter of the owner, standing on the deck, said to the captain, "She's a real ship. Isn't she a beauty?" "Oh, she's not so bad," the skipper replied, "but I'm saying that it takes more than christening to make a ship. In the nature of things she's just iron and rivets and plates put into the form of a ship. She has to find herself yet."

The captain was right. The ship was made in the docks; but the testing time came out on the ocean, when storm-tossed and battling against tempestuous seas and weather, plates settled into place, the rivets held, and the engines made good. The weakness and the strength of the whole fabric made themselves apparent, not in the dock, but out on the wide sea. It was there the ship found herself and did the work for which she was built. She returned to the home port tested and tried and had not been found wanting. It is the same with men. The Prince of Wales said recently in London, when receiving the Freedom of the City, "I found my manhood in France." Over 300,000 Australians left their native land since the outbreak of war to fight for humanity.

They saw the cables loosened, they saw the gangways cleared,
They heard the women weeping, they heard the men who cheered.
Far off—far off the tumult faded and died away,
And all alone the sea wind came singing up the Bay.

They will never forget that day. The men of Australia were going into the great world to be tested—from schools, offices, farms and mines—to find their manhood amid scenes undreamt of in the immediate past; and there, thank God, most of them found that manhood and knew what they could do. This is the last issue of our camp paper. It has fulfilled its mission. The Editor has done his task well, like the old campaigner he is. He has always sought to help the men, and doing it his pen has played no small part. Elsewhere we are told that over 100,000 Australian soldiers have passed through the Weymouth Command, and let it be said that to the honour of the men of the South land, during the temporary sojourn of so great a number of Australians in Weymouth, no great crime has stained their record, nor did they cause any moments of serious anxiety to those under whose command they were. And now our faces are turned once more towards the Homeland. In the good providence of God we shall soon be there and with our people once more. They will notice a change in our general bearing. Have not most of our men looked into the cold eyes of death? Have they not endured burdens and accomplished great things? Such an experience leaves not the man unmarked. There are the falcon face, the steady eyes, the close-set mouth, the resolute bearing that only come to men who have passed through great trial and testing, and most of the men of the Australian Army found their manhood on the battlefields of Gallipoli and Europe. We shall soon be in Australia, where opportunities present themselves to test that newly-discovered manhood, when the call will come, to everything that is strong in man. It has been said that nothing has ever been done that man cannot do again. But he must lay out his life in advance. He must, with resolute will, adhere to his purpose; must organise and unify his life and make his plans march like a battalion to certain victory. There will be some who will say, "I have done my bit, I am going to rest awhile." Alas! to many of them it will be a never-ending holiday. As a matter of fact no man can be absent on leave from life's real duties. Comrades, the tasks of citizenship confront us in the Homeland. That discovered manhood of yours must never again be lost. It must not even be passive or latent. Use it, men, in the making of your country. Think of the unrest, the political, social and labour troubles there. Things are in the melting pot. The old order is changing and giving place to a new Australia. That new order must be on the up grade. To-morrow must always be, in worth as well as time, ahead of to-day. You men with a limited experience gained in a young country went forth on a great adventure. Before its consummation you had found your manhood. Hold on to it. Despise the small and despicable things of life. Work for the great principles of righteousness in law and life which alone can make us a great and prosperous people.

Much more in the great work should we survey
The plot of situation, and its model,
Question surveyor, know our estate
How able such a work to undertake.

Shew us here
That you are worth your breeding, which I doubt not,
For there is none so mean or base
That have not noble lustre in your eyes.

THE PARIAH.

He was Impossible.
Everybody said so, and Everybody must be right.
When he paid calls his hostesses gave him cold tea,
And omitted to ask if he took Saccharine.
When he ventured a comment on the weather,
Or the possibilities of an Early Peace,
His words were received with Frigid Courtesy,
But he met with no encouragement to proceed.
It was obvious to the meanest intelligence that
His presence anywhere was superfluous.
And his intelligence was by no means mean.
His Girl threw him over.
She said it was too frightfully awful to be engaged to A Social Impossibility.
Should a Young and Innocent Maiden, unaware of his crime
Engage him in conversation,
Her Mother drew her aside and whispered in her ear,
And thereafter the Maiden knew him no more.
But it was all his own fault.
He admitted this, as he tossed feverishly on his sleepless couch,
His foolish, babbling tongue had worked the mischief,
For in an unguarded moment and loud decisive tones
He had let loose the damning information
That Jazzing Bored him Stiff!

MABEL DEAN.

"Say, Mate! Where do you report when six months over leave."

They Parted on the Shore.

A Tale of Woe.

She! she! she was a lovely dainty little lady, neat as neat can be, and not only was she neat and nice but she was good. Sure she worked hard, put in many weary hours as assistant in a draper's establishment, one of those large houses which cater for the needs and comforts of their customers but study not the human machine behind the counters. And he! he was a simple, unsophisticated Aussie, a Digger who hailed from the back blocks of the Golden West, down Narrogon way. By dint of hard work he had risen from the ranks, and now a star shone in his shoulder. He did everything thoroughly and, be it said, did it well and earnestly, and he was more earnest in love even than in war. They had met, they had talked, they had formed a mutual liking; liking turned to love and all in the garden seemed lovely. Nightly they met, she when her business was over and he after his arduous duties at Westham. They took strolls nightly by the sad sea waves, but the waves were not sad to them; they seemed to tell them tales of love. Were they smooth, it was emblematic of the life they were to lead together, way down under; were they rough and tumbled and troubled, it seemed to remind them that even their days would not be too placid; and as they gazed out into the distance and saw its boundlessness, it was but as their love.

They met as usual one night, but he was sad, morose, some deep trouble seemed to weigh upon him. He was worried, for the news had come, the fiat gone forth, that the Aussies would be leaving Weymouth in a short time and he, "her Keith," would be going with them.

They walked along the beach towards Preston, and then sat, as they had oft sat before, by the lapping waves which seemed gently to kiss the pebbles as they lay upon the beach.

He broke the news gently, she bore the shock bravely—true there was a tremour in her voice and little tears were in her blue eyes—but, for all, she bore it bravely. He clasped her yet tighter and held her little hand in his own strong one. They sat on till the moon was high in the sky, and told and retold the old old tale and made plans for the future.

All went well till he made some chance remark. Then she gazed at him in wonder, then quietly said "let go my hand!" "Why, love," he queried, "why?" "Let go my hand!" "What have I done? why this? what have I said?" "Answer me not," she said, "but let go my hand, and that at once. How dare you?" "But, darling, why this? Tell me what I said or did? Tell me love?" "Let go my hand at once," she repeated and stamped her foot in anger. "Let it go, and let it go quickly. Enough of this, sir, enough of this." He argued, it was no good. She persisted in her demand, and he was as persistent. Then at last, in rage and exasperation, she said "Let go my hand at once, Keith, I want to blow my nose." And still he wonders if he loves her.

Our Swan Song.

THE THIRTEENTH AND FINAL NUMBER.

There must be a fatality about the number "thirteen" and Australian military publications. The Aussie just ran into thirteen issues, and now this journal passes out of existence with the publication of its thirteenth number.

Our first issue saw the light on the 6th of June, 1918, and was published by kind permission of Col. H. B. Collett, C.M.G., D.S.O., who acted throughout eleven issues as a kindly, if strict, censor. The paper owes its inception to him and to his kindness in many ways is due the success it has achieved. We do not like to blow our own trumpet, but we venture to state that no military journal has, during its short period of existence, been favoured with contributions from so many prominent men in all ranks and professions. The Poet Laureate (Dr. Bridges) kindly contributed to the Christmas Number the beautiful poem which will go down to all time as a tribute to Australia and Australians, and which we reprint in this issue; Cardinal Archbishop Bourne, Father Bernard Vaughan, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, Dr. Barber, to mention leading Churchmen; Lords Tennyson and Denman; Generals Sir Ian Hamilton and Sir R. Baden Powell; Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, and many other military men; Sir Owen Seaman, Editor of Punch; Miss Jessie Williams, the well-known authoress; and that dear old lady, the Empress Eugenie. All have helped to fill its columns, and we are very grateful to them for their help and sympathy.

We must thank, too, the firms who have so greatly assisted us, and great praise is due to Messrs. Sherren & Son for their help in publishing the paper and the way in which they have turned it out.

The time has come to close our pages and to sing our own Swan Song. It is with regret that we have to do so, but soon the camp will have closed and the Aussies, as such, know and be known to Weymouth no more. Their stay, the stay of some 120,000 of the men from "down under," has been a pleasant one. Many, very many, owe their restoration to health and strength to the breezes of the English Channel wafted over the heights of Monte Video or Westham, or the great old citadel of the Verne.

Now the numbers daily dwindle and the process of clearing up and cleaning out has commenced. All regret it, and every effort was made to retain Weymouth to the very last, but in vain, and go we must. Maybe Weymouth will miss us.

The Editor has managed to retain his chair from the inception, and wishes to tender his thanks to all who have helped him in his often rocky passage; none more so would he thank than Padre Capt. Jenkins, one of the broadest-minded padres we ever had the good fortune to fall across, and without a single taint of wowsersism about him—a man's man, a soldier's man, and, above all, a Digger's man. Enough is said, one can say no more.

The Editor's chair has not been altogether seated with feathers, and he has oft been threatened with dire and awful consequences "if" he did this and did that. Well he did it on every occasion and still lives, if not to tell the tale, to write more stuff in maybe another clime. He could fill books with stories of those who come to him in sorrow, and has often to act as guide, philosopher, and friend to many. He regrets it not, he thanks all and tenders all good wishes to all and every one who has helped to make this little venture the success we are vain enough to believe it has achieved.

FALLEN KINSFOLK.

These verses are written by Miss C. A. Renshaw for a memorial card for school children whose fathers and brothers have fallen in the Great War.

When England called, they knew themselves her sons,
And plunged from Peace to Battle's red abyss
For those they loved; defied the treacherous Huns,
And lifted strong, stern faces to Death's kiss.

We, England's children, will be proud of them,
And God will see the heart-ache in our pride,
And crown them with a deathless diadem,
Our father-brother heroes who have died.

THE Y.M.C.A. CINEMA HOUSE, WESTHAM.

Westham Notes.

Yes, dear readers, he has been and gone and done it. He has joined the noble army of Benedicts and all wish him and his good lady the very best of good luck, long life and happiness. We allude to Staff-Sergt. Trevail of the S.M.O.'s Office and in civil life Assistant Town Clerk of South Brisbane. The Sergeant has had anything but a cushy job during his stay at Westham, and none the least irksome job was the compiling of boat rolls. Oh, the tales of woe, of sorrow, of distress, of the whys and wherefores poured into his ears by Diggers who wanted a quick return. He could several tales unfold. We understand the happy couple are spending their honeymoon amidst the beautiful scenery of North Devon and have watched the sun sink to rest and the moon rise from the Capstan Hill, Ilfracombe.

The slight, slim, poor thin Corporal of the Coal Yard visited Dorchester, Bridport and Bournemouth and we are creditably informed "clicked" every time, in fact clicked twice at Bridport. He now sings that beautiful song

"In the North Sea lived a whale
Big in bone, and large in tail."

But oh, the ladies loved him so.

We understand that Sergt. Abdul and Sergt. Clarke are in training for a 20-round contest.

Persons are asking what's up between Teddy and the Light of Ireland, and if Tom Coomber knows anything about it.

Sergt. Cleal has left, gone, departed, gone. The darling of the Goddesses, the dainty dinkum fashion-plate is off to Australia, and only Sergt. Clifton remains to do the grand. Stay! No! What about Sergt. Clarke? Well, yes, he is here, but so is Billy Hughes, and so is Jack Reddan, and so is Steady, and so are others, but they ain't Cleal and never looked or smelt like him.

Fred has gone and left his Bible behind. Good luck to Fred and a pleasant trip home.

Corpl. Milton says Bridport is a dinkum place. So is Dorchester, and one can click there without spurs or anything lucky, Milton, but weight tells in the long run.

Any port in a storm is an old saying, but any port is not good drinking. In fact, some port is rotten stuff, and a port head is a really heady, heady head and his hat wont fit, and his little toe pinches, and other things happen. "Eric" tried it on, and it did not come off, but he says limestone phosphate is a good antidote. We recommend "Holmberg's port pill perfect purifier," to be obtained at the Furlough Office.

All were glad to meet Miss Hood, late of the Top Canteen, Westham, whilst she took a short holiday at Weymouth. It did one good and cheered one up, but still brought back memories of good strong tea—gone alas! for ever—of the tasty dishes served up in the tasty way; and above all it was good to hear her "Geordy" accent.

Miss Bessie, who was shifted from Westham to Monte, has now left the N.A.C.B. Staff and her loss is deeply regretted by one and all of the boys. Bessie looked demure, Bessie looked meek and mild, but 'neath a calm exterior lurked a temper of her own, and if one offended he got it hot, strong and sharp. We could tell a tale about an interview with an Inspectress which would be interesting, but mustn't.

Another ex-canteen worker, "Carrie," visited Weymouth from Portsmouth, and she of the Comic Card series is looking fit and well. When the Peace negotiations are over Carrie should join a movie producing company. There is pots of money in it for Carrie, and also for the movie man.

Sgt. Gardiner Grey has left us and gone to Tidworth. No longer will he shoulder a rake or a hoe, but a real dangerous, nasty rifle that might go off. The Gloucester Street Chapel will know him no more, the congregation will miss his discourses, and the female members his talks on nature during his educational rambles.

This bloke wasn't a Digger.

She was furious!
Simply furious!
She had always given him credit
For at least the usual amount of Commonsense.
But he had Let Her Down—
Badly!
And she had made the Heartrending Discovery
That he was nothing more or less than A Perfect Fool.
For last night, when walking home together,
She had told him with a Break in her Voice,
That she was just dreadfully lonely,
And hadn't a Friend in the World!
And notwithstanding the fact of a Perfectly Good
Full Moon,
A Scented Summer Night and the Distant Murmur
of the Ocean,
That chuckle-headed Idiot had made the Criminal Suggestion
That she should join a Rattling Good Tennis Club!

Old Mother Hubbard
Went to the cupboard
To fetch her young daughter's ball gown.
But the gown was so slight,
She mistook it first sight,
For her nightie when she took it down.

Staff-sergt. Clifton has for long been endeavouring to find a purgative, not necessarily of a medical nature nor one dispensed by his friend Sergt. Marriot. He recommends a mixture of chipped potatoes and lobster, with "fives."

Sergt. Abdul was not present at the Boxing Tournament as he is in training for a twenty-round contest with a Queensland Irishman from Youghal Bay.

Private Clarke, the long, thin, slack-covered, individual, has, we believe, entered into the Holy Bonds of Matrimony. We wish him good luck.

AT THE Y.M.C.A. ANZAC BALL, WEYMOUTH.

Miss Peggy Pride—she of the little stature and ginger hair—is getting ready for another visit to the Antipodes, has been rusticiating at Weymouth, and has been seen muchly lately on the Promenade.

The Padres have been busy fixing up young couples, and there are more to follow, lots more to follow.

For the benefit of inquisitive inquirers we have made inquires, and find that the Teddy who clicked is still clicking, and it ain't with his iron-heeled boots.

We understand that the Corporal Barber intends purchasing a mansion in Dorchester road.

Who is the young Aussie who married a London girl, brought her to Weymouth, took her to diggings and within forty-eight hours tried to borrow a "tenner" off his landlady? echo answers who? but he failed. Cunning landlady.

Congratulations to W.O. McMillan and Camp Sgt. -Major Whitworth on their names appearing in the King's Birthday Honours, both having received the M.S.M. All wish them the best of good luck now and hereafter.

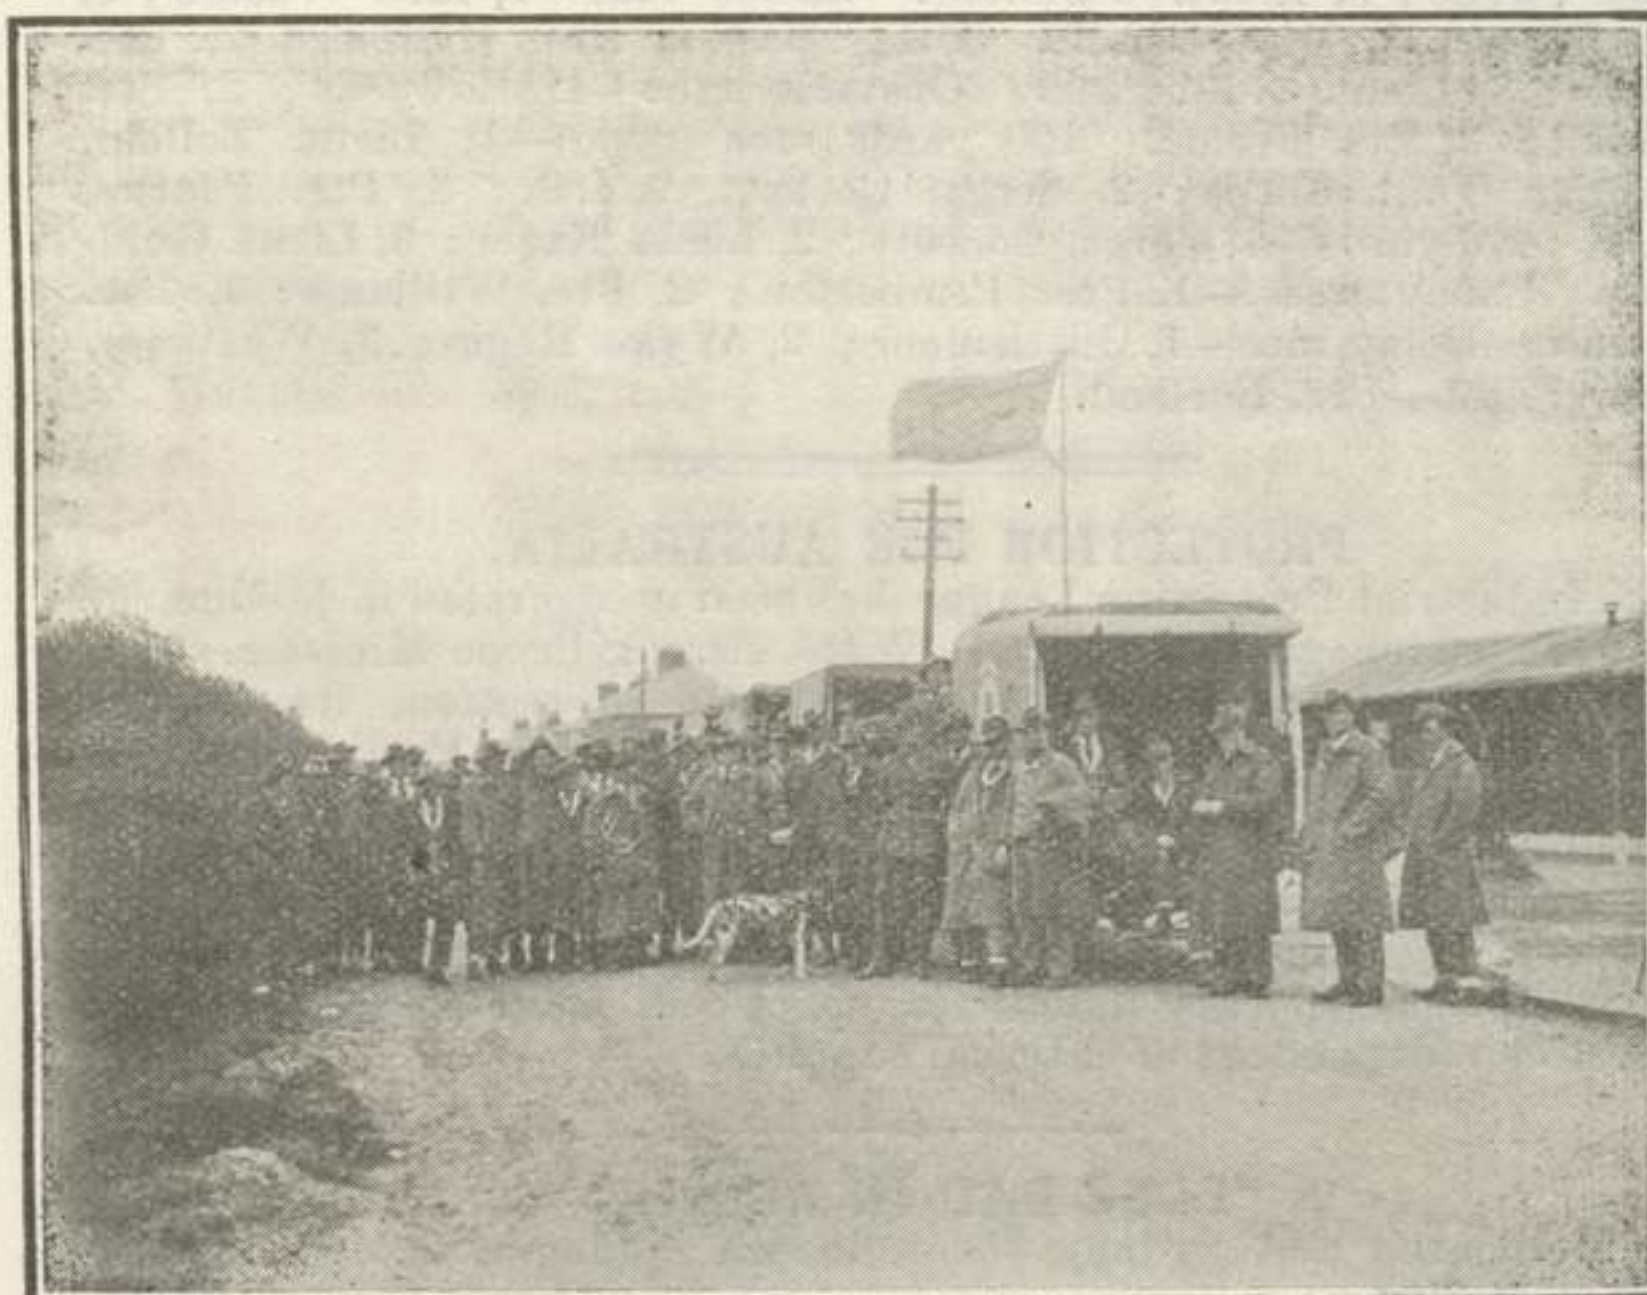

Congratulations to Sgt. Scarson, late of No. 3 Company, now of Furlough Office, on the success of the ceremony on Whit-Sunday morning at St. Augustine's Church, Weymouth. The bride looked truly charming and the bridegroom exceedingly pleased with himself, and the sun shone out even at that early hour. We hear that the happy couple are now in Switzerland or the south of France.

Of all the busy men of late none have been busier than Lieut. Allen, the sports' officer, who has run the sports at Chickereil, two afternoon's boxing, concerts at the Alexandria Gardens, Dorchester (3), Bridport and the Pavilion Theatre, all of which were duly successful. The only one which did not time up to expectations was that held at Bridport, but despite the fact that the house was poor the Band and performers had a really good time and enjoyed themselves. Lieut. Allen was duly aided and abetted by Ted. H.

The following is a copy of a wire sent by a soldier to his Colonel on Derby night:—

Dear Colonel,
I am much afraid
I've caused a bookie sorrow.
To-day I was on Grand Parade,
Can I be off parade to-morrow?

Leg-pulling is a fine art and there are some in Westham who excel at the game, and more power to them, but it is really foolish to leg-pull Irishmen because they can't stand it, and, whilst able to crack jokes and leg-pull themselves, beat the densest stage Scotchman in not being able to see they are being joked with. Irishmen are dead in earnest, they drink their beer in earnest, fight in earnest, even steal one's girl in earnest, and, in fact, are earnestly earnest in everything. To them we would offer a bit of advice. If you are told anything about a supposed pal, or friend, even in the sacred precincts of the Sergeants' Mess, just meet that pal as a friend and put the supposed trouble up to him, and maybe the light of Irish intelligence will shine on both of you. So do you hear me, Paddy? Do yez heed me, Paddy?

LOADING UP MOTORS FOR THE DANCE.

The Poet Laureate's Tribute.

The following poem was especially written for The Australian at Weymouth, as a token of esteem for the Australian Forces, by the Poet Laureate, Dr. Robert Bridges. Reproduced (by special request) from our Christmas Number.

TO AUSTRALIA

With the Wounded and the 1914 Men on leave returning Home, Autumn, 1918.

*A loving message at Christmastide
Sent round the world to the under-side,
A-sail in the ship that across the foam
Carries the wounded Aussies home;
Who rallied at War's far-thundering call,
When England stood with her back to the wall,
To fight for Freedom that ne'er shall die
So long as on earth the old flag fly.*

*Oh hearts so loving eager and bold—
Whose praise hath claim to be writ on the sky
In letters of gold, of fire and gold—
Never shall prouder tale be told
Than how ye fought, as the knights of old,
"Against the heathen in Turkye,
In Flanders, Artois and Picardie :""*
But above all triumphs that else ye have won,
This is the goodliest deed ye have done,
To have sealed with blood, in a desperate day,
The love-bond that binds us for ever and aye.*

* Chaucer's Prologue to Cant. Tales, lines 66 and 86.

The Sports : A Great Day.

An Aussie Show Day Reproduced.

The sports were a great success, and everyone had a real good time. The scene on the ground much resembled a county show in Aussie. There were the roundabouts, shooting gallery, try your strength, etc., and some of the Diggers added the real touch by providing certain side shows not mentioned in wowsers circles. The best thanks of the Diggers are due to the Australian Y. M. C. A. for supplying the splendid afternoon tea and refreshments for the men and their lady friends, this was largely availed of and highly appreciated. Once more the Australian Y. Emmer proved they could do things right.

We reprint the following account from the Southern Times, which will be read with interest—

"All roads and all motors and every other sort of conveyance led to the flying ground behind the Marquis of Granby Inn, Chickerell, for the sports arranged in connection with the Australian Camp in this district, now under the command of Brigadier-General Stewart, C. M. G., D. S. O. They were by far the most interesting sports of the kind which the Australians have had arranged for them since the first convalescent camp was set up at Monte Video a few months after the landing at Gallipoli. Brigadier-General Stewart took the keenest possible interest in the event, and his staff rendered every assistance. Even the Diggers themselves began to sit up with some sort of anticipatory excitement at the prospect of being "at home" to their lady friends under the most agreeable conditions possible and in the most delightful of surroundings. The weather was superb, and not even Australia could beat it. The sun blazed away all day and smiled down benignly upon a very animated throng of holiday makers. The attendance ran into several thousands, and half Weymouth seemed to be on the way to Chickerell at 2 o'clock. At that hour Australians on Weymouth Esplanade could have been counted on one hand. The afternoon's programme combined the excitement of thrills of many attractive sporting events with some of the wild delights of an old fashioned Dorset "randy" or fete of the slate club variety, and a few other less innocuous amusements which old Sol blinked at solemnly during the afternoon and which fairly put "kiss in the ring" in the shadows.

The sports officials were :—Judges, Major Cameron, D. S. O., M. C., Major Evans, D. S. O., M. C., and Captain Wilson ; sports officer, Lieut. Allen ; starter, Lieut. Armstrong, M. C. The various events were got off so promptly that some of them were ahead of the time table. There was some fine running in the 100 yards open, where the popular winner was Lieut. Zollein, of the Canadian Tank Corps, who won the silver cup at the Tank Corps sports at Bovington. Both the 440 and the 200 yards race were won by a splendid athlete in Sergt. Corbett, whose confident sprinting always assured his success. The following were the sports results :—100 yards—Heat 1—1, Corbett ; 2, Beames. Heat 2—1, Barnes ; 2, Eager. Heat 3—1, Payne ; 2, Maxfield. Final—1, Sergt. Corbett ; 2, Maxfield ; 3, Lieut. Payne. Throwing Cricket Ball—1, Pte. Ellen ; 2, Driver Why. 200 yards—1, Corbett ; 2, Lieut. Eager ; 3, Lieut. Payne. High Jump—Bradshaw and Corbett tied, 5ft. 3in. Tug-of-War—Westham beat Monte Video. Kicking football—1, Pte. Ribbons ; 2, Pte. Logan. Officers' 100 yards—1, Captain Kerr ; 2, Lieut. Payne ; 3, Lieut. O'Connor. Ladies' race—1, Miss Weston ; 2, Miss Perry ; 3, Miss Dennis. Mile race—1, Pte. Hannah ; 2, Pte. Barnes ; 3, Lieut. Goldsmith. Obstacle race—1, Edwards ; 2, Pte. Randall ; 3, Pte. Ferme. 100 yards race (open)—1, Lieut. Zollein, Canadian Tank Corps ; 2, Sergt. Corbett, A. I. F. ; 3, Pte. Pearne, A. I. F. 440 yards—1, Sergt. Corbett ; 2, Lieut. Eager ; 3, Lieut. Goldsmith. Fancy dress—1, Pte. Pemberton ; 2, Pte. Williams ; 3, Pte. Hannah. Relay race—1, Littlemoor ; 2, Wyke Regis ; 3, Westham. Pillow Fight—Pte. Borland.

PROTECTION FOR AUSTRALIA.

The Industrial Protection League has been inaugurated in Melbourne under the patronage of Mr. W. A. Watt, Acting Prime Minister.

The policy of the league predicates high protection, its general purpose being set out as that of bringing to bear upon Parliament such a pressure of public opinion as will compel the Legislature to give Australian producers command of their own domestic markets and facilitate the development of a great export trade and of supporting candidates who will vote for an efficient protective tariff to Australian industries, especially key industries, which will make Australia as far as possible independent of external supplies.

'FLUE BAD IN AUSSIE.

In Melbourne and Sydney the influenza epidemic is still causing heavy mortality.

There were 10 deaths in Melbourne and 22 in Sydney in one day from influenza, which is also spreading in Western Australia.

The Chronicles of the Passing.

"And there was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth? for now hath the glory departed out of Weymouth."

So it came to pass in the sixth month of the first year after the staying of the great fight, when one heard of Peace, and then Peace, and yet more Peace, and yet there was no Peace. For of a truth there were many cooks who prepared the potage, but none liked the mixture. The Huns said, "It is made, but it hath not the fourteen herbs of Wilson. It savours of the mustard of Clemenceau, or the leek of George of Wales, and the garlick of Orlando, and we love not these things." Which is well, for no man love the Huns, no not one, save they who be not men and therefore stand for naught. But all these things are not for the feeling of the Chronicler for he knoweth little of the diplomacy of man or the cunning working of the brain of they who ordered these things. So it happened at the passing of the time at the full of the moon in the sixth month that a great sorrow came over the men from the South, and over the Aussies and over the Diggers, both high and low, and of all estates. And the manner of the sorrow was thus: they that ruled the going and the coming and the staying likewise had taken their tablets and written, and the writing was plain to interpret, but the interpretation was bitter and as the reading of the Peace terms to the Huns.

For the ordering of the writing saith, Gird up your loins, get thy staff in thy hand, pack up thy kit and get ye hence, and get, yea, to the place of the camp even to the Plain of Salisbury.

Then all men were in trouble and they communed with one another and saith, "Of a truth we and many more must stay yet many moons in this country, and this is a pleasant place and full of joy. It is as an Elysium. Are there not the walks by the sea and the mighty cliff and the bathing in the waters of the great deep, and is there not health here? Do not the people of the plain hurry here that their health be restored and their strength renewed, and the cost is many shekels in fine silver and gold?" And they wrote quickly and spake of these things, but the powers-that-be, who are the powers that are, saith, "What is this we hear? Are not the Plains of Salisbury good enough for us who are the heads; why not then for they who are the toes or the latter end?"

So the runner came again and this time with him tablets of great urgency and the ordering of the passing was written in great letters and cunning, so that they who ran might read and miss nothing in the reading. And as they read their sorrow was great, so that even he, the Generalissimo, the chief of the soldiers, was sad, and the smoking of the herbs in the queer bowl of wood gave him no joy, and often he pulled hard and sucked likewise, but no smoke came to soothe his nerves, and he said things which the Diggers say, and his speech, too, was stronger even than the herbs which he smoked; and the Centurion Hutchings he saith things and likewise the Centurion Hopkins, but what he said cannot be written because the Chronicler is a man of much virtue and knoweth not all the words of the Diggers.

And they, the McMillan and Whitworth, whom the King had delighted to honour—not the King of the Camp who ruleth over the stores and clothes of the soldiers, but the King of the whole people, which was well for they deserved it—these too likewise were sore distressed, but being men of deep thinking, spake not as Aussies outwardly, but thought deeply with much thinking; and others like unto Sergeants Searson and Travail, they said within themselves, "We will console ourselves with a great consoling, and if we must go, we will go with rejoicing." So they saith to the damsels of their choice, "Wilt thou come with us, wilt thou let us visit the churches of our families, and let us be united, and let us be as one." And the ladies wilted, and they went on a far journey on the moon which is made of honey. But they travelled in couples and not in companies, so that no man saw the full of their joy and gladness, only they themselves.

And he, Holmberg, the Centurion of the Office of the Leave, and with him Reddan, the Sergeant, and Leaver, the Corporal, and Snowy, the Singer of Songs, they were filled with sorrow and their hearts were rent, and they too travelled and had a good time, for they said, "Woe is us, a bad time cometh."

And he, Betts, not the man of medicine who had passed on before, but he of the Office of Pay, and with him the Sergeant, Richards by name, and Lewis, and Coghlan, and the rest they too were filled with sorrow, but they said little, for their grief was too bitter and words failed them.

And he, the Centurion Jenkins, even the padre, he spoke not as other men, for this were evil in the speaking, but he communed within himself and his thoughts were heavy, and he said, "Rotten, this is foolishness, this is too bad"; but from the manner of saying the Chronicler knoweth well that he meaneth other things, and that the letter of the meaning was the fourth in the number, and it was known to the ancients by the naming "Delta," which sign is "D" and big at that.

Then, too, the people of the city was filled with sadness, and the ladies and lasses with a great sadness to overflowing, for they said, "We love these men, and they love us. Have we not known them for four years and six moons, and have they not spent of their substance, and do we not know it? And do they not tell their tales of love with a great telling, and urge their love with a great urging, and press their suit with a great pressing; and in the winter time have not their great-coats, even their outer garments, much warmth, so that we walked on the front and over the cliffs and felt not the cold or the winds of the sea? Of a truth, we are undone. Of what value is the clothing of scantiness for the bathing in the sea, and who will look upon the garments of our wearing, even if the garment be little in size and short in length, yet who now will gaze on us?"

And the keepers of the places of refreshment they, too, were sad, even the Trocadero, and Burt's, and Lumley's, and the rest; and he, Graham, and Devenish, the sellers of the drink which maketh the heart of man glad, were filled with sorrow likewise. And he, Wallis, of the house of the marking Waverley, was grieved, and with him his good lady, for they said, "We knew these men and they were good to us, and goodly to look upon; and now they leave us, even Paddy, the servant of Playford, and Clifton, who taketh the teeth from the mouth of the soldiers, and the other Paddy, Johnny by name, and Teddy and the rest."

And they, Acutt's, said, "Of a truth it is bad and ill for us, for have we not laid in store of garments for the clothing of their bodies in good raiment; of a truth it is hard," and all were filled with sorrow and great heaviness of spirit, and yet none came to their aid, but the word had been spoken and the day of departure was at hand.

Now the Chronicle of the passing will be not written on this Chronicle, for it is too painful and it is not ordained that sorrow should be told to all. So the Chronicler layeth down his stylo and parchment on the seventeenth day of the sixth month, and in the thirteenth manner of this chronicling, and he wisheth to all men all good things and a safe return to their own country—yet, nay, not to all, for are there not they who order the passing from and going from the camp?

Lieut.-Colonel as Police Constable.

Cardiff's Gratitude.

There have been very many topsy turvy events during and through the War, but none exceeds that of a member of the Cardiff police force. We allude to Lieut.-Col Arthur Ritchings, who joined up in the army in 1914, was promoted 2/Lieutenant in November, 1917, in February, 1918, was a Captain, and in 1919 was promoted to Lieut.-Colonel. He is a Chevalier of the Legion of Honour, has the 1914 star, the Croix de Guerre with palms, and Military Cross, was mentioned three times in despatches and wears six wound stripes.

Ritchings returned to Cardiff full of honours, beloved by his regiment and one of Britain's heroes, and at once took up duties as an "ordinary constable" in the City police force, henceforth he will look after drunks or move on Yankee sailors, or direct traffic, or hunt up shebeen-keepers, or take patrol duty in the purlieus of Tiger Bay, or even keep an eye on the salubrious district of Temperance Town, and between times, will, may be "tell the time to old ladies and young children."

He was welcomed back by an array of J.P.s. headed by one Dan Radcliffe, a Cardiff shipowner, who has accumulated vast wealth through the War, and, of course, passed high encomiums on their hero, his oratory equalling that of the great Welsh divine, one the Rev. C. Jones, who once upon a time put in time between preaching to Welsh congregations in urging his flock to put money in steamships, whereby they waxed wealthy.

Its all very well for the Watch Committee to feel proud of Lieut.-Col. (now constable) Ritchings' great career, but what about doing more for the same Ritchings. Surely, if he can lead men in the field he can lead men in the commonplace duties of a police constable. We don't know if the Cardiff Chief Constable ever offered to enlist—or were his services too valuable for keeping Yankee visitors in order?—but this we know Ritchings served and served well and surely something more should be his reward than an eulogium from one Dan Radcliffe. Where was the Lord Mayor?

No, we are pleased to learn that the British Government are arranging for free passages to the Colonies for all who have rendered service during the war, and we can assure Lieut.-Col. Ritchings that a hearty welcome will await him in Australia, a shake of the hand and may be a good bit more, for the Australians will give not verbal praise but help and assistance, and, like Horatius of Bridge fame, land more even than four good oxen can plough round in a day. Lieut.-Col. Ritchings is the type we love, the type we want and he and such as he will be welcome.

Hawker's Flight.

"Quem si non tenuit magnus tamen excedit arsis."—OVID.

All Britishers were proud of the gallant attempt made by Hawker to fly the Atlantic, and none more so than the Australians, and none more so of the Australians than "The Diggers." Nothing else was talked of, and when all hope of the rescue of himself and his gallant mate seemed hopeless deep regret was expressed on all sides; but what a relief, what a cheer went up, how hands were shaken, when the news of rescue came to hand. All felt as if they had had a relative saved from the vasty deep. Innumerable telegrams were poured in to Mrs. Hawker (his brave little wife). To himself one from Westham ran "Hearty congratulations on yours and mate's rescue, from Diggers, including Crow Eaters, at Weymouth. Better luck next time." A lot could be said about the flight, but none more graphically than the words of Ovid quoted above "And though he greatly failed, more greatly dared." The photograph published is kindly lent by the British Australasian, London.

THE AUSSIE BANDS.

Before leaving the Bands of Quotas 36 and 41 gave a series of concerts in Weymouth and district. This included one Sunday night concert at the Alexandria Gardens, two at the Pavilion Theatre, one at Bridport Drill Hall, three in the Borough Gardens, Dorchester, and one in the beautiful grounds of Courte Hall, Bridport. All were very largely attended. At Dorchester the Mayor, Mr. Councillor Dennis, and the Chairman of the Amusement Committee, Mr. Councillor D. Porter, rendered great assistance, and on Thursday, June 12th, entertained the band during the evening. The feature of the Dorchester visits was the dancing on the lovely lawns of the well kept gardens, which reflect so much credit on the skill of the head gardener, Mr. Harris. On the second visit to Bridport the concert was given in the most beautiful grounds of Coombe Hall, the family residence of Major Thompson. These grounds are most beautifully laid out and maintained and the terraced lawns lent themselves for the enjoyment of the spectators. Dancing on the green was a feature here also. The great success of this visit was largely due to the organisation and hard work of Mr. Trump, mine host of the Greyhound Hotel. Good luck to him.

Melbourne's Waterside Workers' Federation having complained of unfair treatment, the Federal Government has appointed a Royal Commission to enquire into grievances.

Federal politicians in Australia are somewhat perturbed by repeated rumours that Mr. Hughes purposes seeking a dissolution soon after his return.

The Man who came from Woop! Woop!

There were men of the first, there were men of the ninth,
There were men of the fifty-sixth;
There were men from Sydney and men from Perth;
And others between and betwixt;
Shearers and navvies and managers too,
From out of the bush and from Woolloomooloo;
Coves who had answered their country's call,
Men to the backbone—Anzacs all!
But the "Dinkumest Cobber" of all the lot—
A man of his word and a damn fine shot,
Who shared with his mates whate'er he'd got—
Was the man who came from Woop! Woop!

Now sit you down, stranger, and light up your pipe,
Fill up your glass for the hour is now ripe.
It's our motto, you know,
"Whilst the sun shines make hay,"
We always indulge when they fork out our pay.
Now make yourself comfy, and "Have some more ale?"
Just listen to me and I'll tell you a tale
Of the man who came from Woop! Woop!

Of course, on the face of it someone will say
My story's a farce and my head's full of hay.
Now I'll try and convince you what
I say is true,
That Woop! Woop's! a town just like Woolloomooloo,
And this man did come from Woop! Woop!
You can travel Australia and study
your map,
Or seach through the dictionary, ask every chap
Whose "humped" his "Matilda"
or tramped through the scrub,
You can speak with the "Swaggie"
who knows every pub,

Inquire of the Land Board, e'en spend your last "brown"
Do what you will, and you'll not find the town
Of the man who came from Woop! Woop!

Away in the Never Land! out far Beyond!
Where the skeeter's bite in the blazing sun
Is worse than a "biff" from a well-fed Hun,
Where white men were never made to be,
And the mirage flows on like a great cool sea,
Where sheep and men and cattle that die
Are quickly devoured by the starving fly,
And the crows fly backwards, because they're wise,
To keep the dust from out of their eyes,
And the Wallabies make such a crooked track
That a man "going out" meets himself "coming back":
In this desolate country, so sun-scorched and bare,
From morn till night he's toiling there,
His only companion his pet "Tabby cat,"
He's right in his home when he's under his hat,
Is the man who lives at Woop! Woop!

On leave in the streets of London,
Asleep by the Dardanelles,
Thirteen thousand miles he's come
Into these war-cursed hells.
He's "pushed" the "flaming" Allemand,
He's "punched" the "wily" Turk;
Wherever they chose to send him
He's shown them the best of work.
And his mark shall live for ever,
For he always aimed to hit.
He died for his native town, sir—Whoop! Woop!—
"Doing his bit."

In the Basanquet Handicap, run at Adelaide on April 12, Mount Meltsin paid a dividend of £188 9s. 0d. for 10s.

FRONT LINE OPTIMIST: "There goes a beauty for Headquarters. Hoo'ry!"

Our Photographic Competition.

The Prize Winners.

This competition did not wake the enthusiasm which might have been expected and none of the pictures sent in was of a high standard. The best was that of a country house with lake and swans in the foreground and Pte. Turner is awarded the first prize, whilst the second goes to Sergt. Grey, for a very clear cut, cleverly taken view of the sports at Chickerell. Unfortunately we were unable to get the blocks made in time for publication.

"CANADA IN KHAKI."

We would recommend all who possibly can to purchase a copy of that fine work, "Canada in Khaki." It is brimful of bright, interesting reading, well illustrated, and is a unique production amongst unique War productions. One good thing amongst many within its pages, is the Canadian who wanted leave because a lady friend was about to get married and wanted him to act as bridegroom. We see no valid reason why Australia should not have a like volume under "Australia in a Slouched Hat."

Anzac Athletes in all Branches of Sport.

The Diggers have been doing well in all branches of sport and showing themselves as gallant in the playing field as in the battle zone. General Birdwood might paraphrase the old saying, and with a truth say "That the deeds of Gallipoli, of Flanders, France and Palestine, had been won on the playing fields of Australia. The Cricket Team has done wonders and none more so than in pulling up lost ground and winning where winning was deemed well nigh impossible.

The Rowing Crew for Henley is in training at Wharf House, close to the winning post. It's like Diggers to take possession of the main objective before anyone else.

At the big sports at Vichers Crawford on Whit-Saturday, J. Fraser, A.I.F., won the half-mile in one minute fifty-six and three-fifths seconds; whilst W. Johnson, another Digger, won the quarter-mile from the twelve yards mark in fifty and two-fifths seconds. L. R. Spencer, another Anzac representative, romped home in the two-hundred-and-twenty yards from thirteen-and-a-half yards in twenty-seven and two-fifths seconds.

In the Boxing World the Aussie team, which is now in France getting fit for the great American Olympic and had previously been training at Warwick Square are a hefty lot, and T.M.L., the Boxing Authority of the Mail and Evening News, speaks highly of them. They are heavy weights Captain Gordon Coghill, then there is T. T. Pethybridge, who won the Heavy Weight Championship of the British Armies in Mesopotamia, P. C. Young, will look after the welter section with Mally White as light weight. F. Stockman the feather weights, and, of course, Digger Evans will see that the Bantams hold their tails up; he will have N. Sellars and C. A. Peakes with him. T. C. Watson and H. Cod, light weights, are also over there. The team should be hard to beat.

LAWN TENNIS.

On the Tennis Courts, too, the Aussies have been doing well, especially at the Inter-Allied Lawn Tennis Tournament in Paris, where Patterson beat Washburn (America) and O'Hara Wood beat Matthey (America). Norman Brookes has arrived to defend his Championship, and is already at work and has done well in several tournament games. He has selected G. L. Patterson as his partner in the double events.

SWIMMING.

The Swimming Teams are also doing well and will be heard of at the great Aquatic Meetings. Harold Hardweek is stated to be in real good form.

CRICKET.

In the match Australia v. Lancashire, "Lampard," the ex-Westham bowler, took nine wickets, four being clean bowled, four caught off his bowling and one stumped by Mr. Teddy Long. The average was 9 for 42 out of a total of 136 scored.

THE OLYMPIC TEAM IN PARIS.

Amongst those included in the A.I.F. team which is now in Paris for the great American Olympic, are the hurdle racers, Capt. A. F. Best and Lieut. L. V. R. Spencer. The sprinters include E. Carter, who carried off the Echuca gift in 1911, he will run in the 100 to 400 metre races; W. Johnson, of New South Wales, a new found sprinter, will be seen in the 220 to 440 yards, and with Fraser, another Cornstalker, will represent the A.I.F. in the half-mile relays; C. Manly, a Victorian, and T. S. Hewett, who runs in the English Marathon on June 21st, will represent the distance runners, whilst Lt. R. D. Chalmers, the middle distance runner, will also be there. Lieut. Jack Brake, the Victorian pole vault, is also entered, and others include C. Griffiths (Victoria), T. Soutar, T. A. Dalton (West Australia), L. H. Hume, V. C. Carroll and C. Hibberd. D. Turnbull, the Victorian Cross Country Champion, is also making the trip. The team all round will be a fairly strong one, and will be up against the best and very best.

It is understood that the Ongapinga Racing Club will in future hold two meetings a year on the famous Oakbank Course. The second meeting to be held on October 25th. There will be a programme of seven events, including a steeplechase over a two-mile course.

Australian Notes

AN AUSTRALIAN DEPORTEE.

Four Journeys across the Pacific.

The United States has now twice refused to permit Paul Freeman, an American who was deported from the Commonwealth, to enter America. When the "Sonoma" returned to Australia with Freeman on board for the second time, he decided to go on hunger strike. This lasted a week, when his condition became so serious that a public outcry was raised, with the result that the lumpers refused to work, the crew threatened to leave the ship, and crowds attempted to rush the ship. The position was getting serious, when the news was received that Mr. Watt, the Acting Prime Minister, had decided to allow Freeman to disembark, so that his case might be inquired into. The man denies that he belongs to the International Workers of the World and that his parents are German.

THE COMMONWEALTH'S NAME SHIP.

Disaffection among Crew.

It has transpired that prior to the departure of the cruiser "Australia" from Fremantle, serious trouble occurred on board. It appears that the men declared that the officers had failed fully to reciprocate the welcome of the residents. The captain refused to delay the departure of the vessel as he was bound by schedule time. The men thereupon refused to get up steam for the vessel, and the petty officers had to be ordered to do so. When the vessel was a few hours out at sea the Captain read the King's Regulations covering mutiny and disobedience. The men then returned to their posts. Nearly fifty of them were arrested, and six have been placed under close arrest awaiting court martial, which will probably be held at Sydney. Only a few privileged visitors were allowed on board the cruiser during her stay here, and only a few sailors, mostly English, were permitted ashore. The "Australia" has now sailed for Melbourne. It is stated that Commander Dumaresque sent a wireless message to the Naval Board suggesting that the vessel should not go alongside the Melbourne pier, but it is understood that the Naval Board have replied that the vessel must do so.

THE AUSTRALIAN BALLOT.

Unemployed appeal for Relief.

The shipowners admit that it is impossible to obtain non-unionists to man their ships. The whole Executive of the New South Wales branch of the Federated Seamen's Union has resigned as a protest against the ignoring of the ballot on the question of running ships pending arbitration. The militants at a mass meeting in Sydney expressed their determination to fight on.

Five thousand unemployed marched to the Federal offices.

Mr. Tudor, the Labour leader, Trades Hall officials, and the Union secretaries pointed out to Mr. Watt, the Acting Prime Minister, the suffering caused through unemployment, and stated that the Unions did not possess funds to relieve the suffering.

Mr. Watt expressed earnest sympathy, but said that if the Labour leaders would co-operate with the Government, the seamen's strike would not last five minutes. The workers wanted an arbitration scheme, he said, and got it. Now the Court was openly defied by a section of the workers. He was prepared, however, to co-operate with the Victorian State Government in assisting innocent sufferers.

AUSTRALIAN LIBEL ACTION WITHDRAWN.

The Sunday Times of Sydney has withdrawn the action against the Sydney Sun for libel, in which £20,000 damages were claimed.

The Sunday Times published articles purporting to be written by Lord Northcliffe, Mr. Churchill, Sir Douglas Haig, M. Clemenceau, Lord Derby, Lord Reading, and others. The authenticity of these articles was questioned by the Sun, whereupon a writ for libel was issued by the Sunday Times. The Sun, in support of its contention, published statements from Lord Northcliffe and others to the effect that they were not the authors of the articles attributed to them, with the result that the Sunday Times withdrew its action.

INTERNEED ALIENS IN AUSTRALIA.

The Inter-State Council of the Returned Soldiers' and Sailors' Imperial League urges the deportation of all interned aliens and also the closing of all Lutheran schools in Australia.

WON'T WAIT FOR WILLIAM.

Federal Nationalists in Australia insist that the Parliamentary Session must continue and refuse to await the return of Mr. Hughes, whose representation of Australia's international policy in Paris promises to be hotly criticized.

RETURNED SOLDIERS AND INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES.

The Inter-State Council of the Returned Soldiers' and Sailors' Imperial League has resolved not to take sides in any industrial disputes. It also protested against the present profiteering, and called upon the Federal Government to take action with a view to securing a decrease in the cost of commodities.

INFLUENZA IN WEST AUSTRALIA.

The State Medical Advisory Committee has issued a report recommending that a declaration be made to the effect that Western Australia is infected with influenza.

BENDIGO EXPRESS WRECKED.

On Tuesday morning an express train travelling from Bendigo to Melbourne ran off the rails near Barker's Creek, and two carriages were pitched down the embankment, nine passengers being injured.

GOOD RAINS.

Rain continues to prevail over widespread areas of New South Wales, rivers are flooded, and Sydney itself is inundated.

A JAPANESE REPLY TO MR. HUGHES.

The Prime Minister of Japan, in an interview in Tokyo with Mr. McCay, editor of the Sydney Sun, said that Mr. Hughes had misunderstood Japan, and caused her avoidable pain. Japan's declaration on the subject of racial equality was intended as a declaration of principle which would never conflict with the internal interests of any country, seeing that every nation must have its own national conditions and circumstances and must regulate its affairs to suit them.

EXTREMISTS' DEFEAT IN AUSTRALIA.

The Labour Party Conference which is being held here, after uproarious scenes, rejected by 127 votes to 112 a motion substituting the extreme Socialist objective for the present objective of the party.

Ancient Dorset District.

"Wealth Galore."

An interesting old book came into the writer's hands during last week. It was, originally, the account book of a farmer of the Dorset district, dated 1856. The following entries appear:—

Feb. 21st	Paid B. Lebb, 2 days work	...	2/8
	565 lbs. Butter at 1/1 for the lb.
	John Cormick, 3½ days work	...	3/6
	James Mintern, 4 weeks work	...	6/-
	Church Rates	...	10/-
	George Neaby, 6 weeks work	...	9/-
	Eliza Smith, 2 days work	...	1/4
	Pig, 9 weeks keep	...	£1 7s.
	Sharlet Gale, 1 day thrishing	...	8d.

1862. Bought of Mr. Parrott 2 hiffers and calves, with a jar of spirits for luck.
May 19th 2 hiffers and calves with 1/- for luck... £20 10s.

The figures quoted will give some idea of the wages existing in England sixty years ago.

The idea of one shilling, or a jar of spirits, for luck, appears to be an old custom of the people of the district when disposing of live stock. If a man bought a cow for £10, he would probably pay £9 19s. receiving from the vendor 1/- so that it could be always said he had made money on the deal.

The old account books fail to state of what quality the spirits were in the jar. A. L. C.

£2 6s. A MINUTE TO SEE.

Beckett beats Goddard in 1½ rounds.

The much boomed heavy-weight boxing contest at Olympia, London last Tuesday between J. Beckett, of Southampton, and F. Goddard, late of the Queen's Bays, ended sensationally.

Goddard was knocked out in the second round after one and a-half rounds of actual fighting. Goddard was the favourite, odds of 6 to 4 being laid on him.

With prices ranging from 5/9 to £10 10s. for a seat it will be seen that this sensational contest cost some of the spectators £2 6s a minute.

Notes from Monte.

S/Sgt. Harry Dyer of the Medical office accompanied Sgt. Clark (ex Westham), and Sgt. Addison of the Receiving office for a run around town one pleasant Saturday evening in May. One by one they left each other, but the last to reach home was the long fellow who walked (for the benefit of his health) somewhere out in the vicinity of Littlemoor and reached camp next day.

Said that civvie clothes are becoming the fashion in the A.I.F. An officer and private sat along side one another in a theatre one evening, but only one was recognised.

W.O. McFadden is taking periodical trips to Plymouth. Said that a happy day is coming soon. Good luck, Mac. Don't dally.

Wednesday is the day for cigarettes. Morry, don't forget the next cheap issue.

When is Cpl. Jack Price going home? It's time he picked out his family ship.

Pte. Clifford, our typist, is pining his heart away. Will not be content till all is made up with the little V.A.D. at No. 1 A.G.H.

Said that Daddy Lawn, of the Medical staff, will be promoted—when the Camp closes.

Said that one Camp Artist looked very nice on the Prom, in the latest cut of a grey sac suit and straw boater—which he raised as he passed any of his mates—only once he nearly saluted an officer friend instead of docking his lid.

Sgt. Jim Clark has left Monte again for Westham. Left behind him Pte. Abrahams to carry on the work. Said he is working his nut to get home with Sgt. Cleal on a family ship.

Cpl. Whitlock (late of 27 Hut, Westham and D.O.R., Verne) again entertained the new arrivals and staff of the Medical Receiving Office, Monte Video, with his lovely voice. Recommended that he should apply to the Educational Officer for a course in singing. If he applied to Dame Melba she might be able to get him fixed up. But—he will have to keep away from the Corporal's Canteen at Westham.

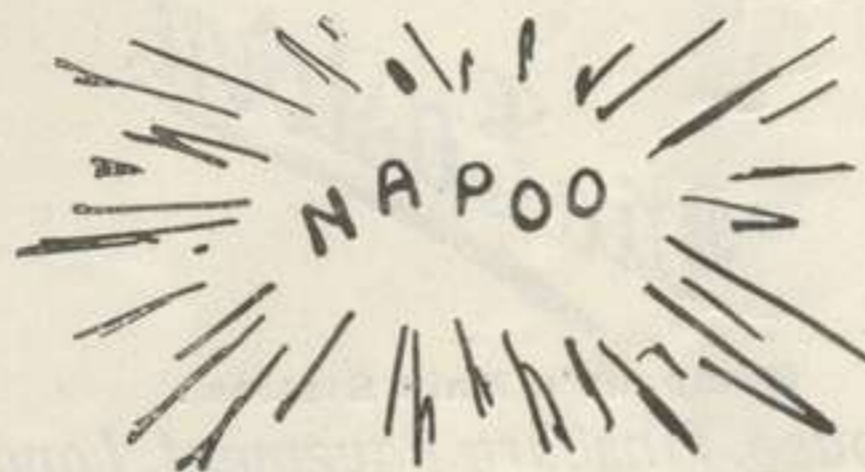

A Note from Littlemoor.

Warrant Officer "Sonny" Bray and Sgt. "Dick" Marshall, two Swan River boys now in camp, will soon be yachting in the old River again, saying au revoir to their old W.A. pals in England.

THE OFFICIAL DEPARTURE OF OUR NOBLE GUNNER.

The Gunner has left this group. "What Gunner?" says one. "Don't you know him? Why, No. 606 Gunner Thomas Sidney Hutton, 1st Australian Siege Battery (the dinkum soldiers)." "Oh yes, that bloke with a bulky form and a smiling dial who carries a bag as if a bookie on a broken-down racecourse. I think he is a blacksmith or tinsmith, but he looks more intelligent than that and has something to do with the typewriters." His absence will be much regretted at many places such as "The Stiffs' Opera," his home at the Y. Emma C. Acka; also in London at the Anzac Buffet, War Chest, and Aldwych.

He has been granted the N.M.E. (not a M.B.E.) but a Non-Military Enjoyment, one of those long holidays at the expense of the Old Commonwealth. We all wish him success in this big undertaking that he is just about to enter, and hope that he achieves his object in many respects and applies for a 542 form at the end of his enjoyment.
