TRIPOLI	20-JUL	Brigadier S.G. Rowell, B.G.S. before leaving for Australia called to visit Brigadier Savige. At the suggestion of the British Vice Consul, the Bde Comd visited Lebanon to call upon what he described as important people. He received a tumultuous reception from cheering crowds in the mountain villages and was presented to the notables. AT the seat of His Beatitude the Patriarch of Maronites the courtyard was lined with children dressed in white and he was greeted at the entrance to the building by a considerable number of clergy. He was then escorted to the throne room and greeted on the lower steps by the Patriarch who led him into a large hall and sat him on his right. The notables and others took their seats and the Brigadier had a most interesting conversation with the Patriarch on general and church history subjects. The compliment paid to the British Army, whom the Brigadier had the honour to represent, by the Patriarch descending steps, was definitely a high one which had never before been paid to a foreign visitor. On the way to the Vice Consul's home the Brigadier was met by a large crowd which included Circassian horsemen and he was once more enthusiastically received. At the Consul's home were many notables to whom he was introduced. At night the elite were gathered when dancing and feast was the order of the day. The normal attitude of Easterners to further sectional interests was kept in mind when the notables professed a profound attitude of loyalty to the British.

"	21-JUL	At the suggestion of the French Commandant, Brigadier Savige visited Conte de Paty du Clam, French representative supervising local government affairs. TRIPOLI	24-JUL	Brigadier Savige by appointment called on General Dentz to inform him that General Wilson was unable to keep his appointment at 1400 hrs. His re-action appeared to be genuine dis-appointment, particularly with all the troops moved into position between Beirut and Tripoli to give honour to the General Wilson. After a short discussion in which the General was quite pleasant in demeanour, the Brigadier left, bearing with him an invitation from the General to avail himself of the facilities of the leading hotel in Tripoli. At 1600 hrs the elected Mayor of Tripoli, Assad Akl called and expressed profound British views. He promised to give us a list of agents in the pay of Germany, and the names of other troublesome characters. He stated that the Moslems were neutral but were ready to join the winners. Fifth Columnists were active and German and Italian money was being freely distributed. The British Vice Consul was present with the Brigadier at this meeting. A Free French Officer who called to be installed in charge C.I.B. with only authority from Free French Representatives, was smuggled back to Beirut by arrangements by arrangements with the British Vice Consul. The Bde Comd pointed out the fact that this town had been declared exclusively for the French General and his Staff, and French Officers would not tolerate Free French Movement and if this Officer were installed no guarantee could be given against violent re-actions on the part of the French. The British Officer who accompanied the Frenchman was asked to contact Corps or 7 Div H.Q. before taking any action. Lieut Menzies arranged with French L.O. for concentration areas for vehicles East of Camp Legault and arranged with French to leave a platoon of M.G.s at Tell Kalakh to guard the vehicles which are concentrated there until our troops take over.
