K. Sept. 15-16th.1917. Det. D/B.

He was in C.Co., X.Pltn. Capt. Bond of the 25th Batt., who was killed at Hell Fire Corner, near Ypres, on the 9th October, told me that Tuckett was killed. He gave me no particulars, but he told me that Tuckett's pay-book and personal effects had been handed in to the Orderly Room at Hallifeix Camp, near Reninghelst.

"Killed 15-16.9.17"

Tuckett was a mate of mine and he was killed outright by a shell while on a fatigue party on a Saturday (15th) night up at Westhoek Ridge and he was buried next day on the Ridge just back near supports. I did not see wither casualty on burial nor can I say if cross was erected but probably so as it was fairly quiet then. Capt.Bard (since killed) told several of us (including myself)

He was killed instantly by a shell when on fatigue carrying rations from the reserve line to the front at Zonnebeke Lake (Ypres). It was at a dangerous part which was always being shelled. I did not see him killed but I saw his dead body afterwards. He was a Pte. in C Co.(I was in A Co.). He was buried a few yards off the road where he fell. I knew him well, as I came over in August 1916 in the same draft (the 14th) from Australia, in the same troop ship the "Ithonus" A.50. He was a jolly decent chap and keen about soldiering; "Muggsy", rather short (5 ft.6), nice looking and fair, about 22.
