Informant (brother of the casualty) states that he met on the 13th December, 1915, at the Intermediate Base, Egypt, one named Bevans, who was a chum of the casualty (they were school mates in Melbourne. They were cooks together in the same Battalion and same Company. Bevans told informant that, casualty was shot in the hand, and that he (casualty) thereupon jumped up and shook his hand and as he did so, he fell riddled with bullets.
