Scott was my Pltn. Officer, 8th Pltn., B.Coy. I saw them both killed outright just below the Cemetery to the left of the road at Broodseinde Ridge, while digging in. A burial party was detailed the same afternoon by acting Coy. Sgt. Mjr. Hawes, who buried them by themselves, just to the rear of above spot. I saw their graves with Crosses.

He was in B Co., 5th or 6th platoon. He was rather slim, dark hair, 5'9" or 9". I saw him killed when we reached our 1st objective on Oct. 4th., after they had dug in about 200 yards from a German Grave Yard. One of our own shells caught him in the back and killed him at once. He never spoke. I don't know where he was buried. I was wounded and came away. We held this ground as far as I know. I took a message to Nine to say he was killed.

His people are Station owners, but live somewhere near Brisbane. He was in B.Co. He was tall, slim and about 28 or so years of age. He, and Waddell, J., 6649 of the 25th Batt., were both killed by the same shell, just after we had gained our objective, and dug in on Zonnebeke Ridge on October 4th. I saw them both buried in the rear of the trench, a little to the left. Two small temporary crosses were put up to mark the spot. I do not know if the names were on them. Lt. Ryan of the 25th Batt., B.Co., (now with the Battn.) took his wallet &c. off him, and it has since gone through the Orderly Room to his people. I was speaking to the Orderly Sergt. He told me this

Dear Madam,
I have been asked to ask you if you could obtain any information about—
Mr Drew Scott who was wounded on or before Aug 8th 1917. (I think the paper ~~he was previously~~ I have means that he wrote on Aug 8th to Mr Parsons, Radford saying he was wounded)
He was previously Sergeant A. Coy. 25th Batt. Australian Infantry
Presumably now 2nd Lieut.
His parents in Australia received a cable from the War Office saying he was wounded, but no date given.
He wrote to a friend in England asking him to find out more for them
If you can obtain any information would you be so very kind as to write direct to this friend— Parsons, Radford, Enstone
I should be most grateful, I am sorry I cannot give clearer particulars
I enclose P.O. for the very small sum of 2/6
Yours truly (Miss) A. Fanshawe
