DIED OF WOUNDS 23/5/17.

Informant described Tindale as about 5 ft. 11 inches high, medium build, fair complexion, and aged about 22. Left Australia with Informant in the "Argyllshire" on 11/5/16.

Informant states that he used to see Tindale often. He was Informant's Corporal for a time and they used to occupy the same hut. He had thrown in his Corporal's stripes and at the time of his death was a Gunner. They both belonged to the 26th Battery.

On 23/5/17 the 26th Battery was in action against Ploegsstreet. At the time Tindale was hit Informant was at the Waggon lines about 2½ miles from the guns. Tindale was at the guns. Informant was told by eye-witnesses that the Battery got shelled out. Tindale went to a small dug-out for shelter and a piece of shell hit him on the head. He died the next day and was buried at No.1 Casualty Clearing Station at Steenwerke. Informant saw his grave over which a wooden cross, with name etc. thereon, had been placed.

Informant added that Tindale was a fine fellow and well liked in the Battery.

DIED OF WOUNDS. 23/5/17.

Informant described Tindale as about 5 ft.10 inches high, slight build, fair complexion, aged about 22. He left Australia with Informant in the "Argyllshire" on 11/5/16.

Informant states that they both belonged to the 26th Battery. On 23/5/17 the Battery was in Ploegsteert Wood Messines. They had been shelled out of the Battery by hostile fire, and had returned to a flank about 50 yards away. Tindale had gone into a dug-out and while there was wounded by a shell. Informant was about 10 yards away at the time, and went into the dug-out with another chap and helped to pull Tindale out. He was unconscious and died on his way to the Clearing Station. He was buried at the Cemetery at Hyde Park corner Ploegsteert Wood, and although Informant did not actually see his grave, he saw a Cross which had been made for it with name, etc. thereon.

Informant added that Tindale was a "tip-top chap," very quiet and reserved.

"DIED OF WOUNDS. 23.5.17."

About the 20th May, the 26th Battery was being shelled by the Germans, and some of the men were shelling in a little Wood near "Plug Street". Some shrapnel fell on this wood, and Tindale was hit. Informant was alongside at the time, and saw Tindale being carried away. He was taken at once to the Casualty Clearing Station.

I know Tindale who was with me in the 26th Battery. We went away together in that Battery. We were holding the line at Ploegsteert and about the 20th May Tindale was on the next gun to me. A shell burst and wounded Tidale very severely. He was taken to the dressing station where I saw him dead about four hours after he was wounded. He was a friend of mine. Later I saw his grave with a cross on it at Neuve Eglise Cemetery.

Tindale was in the 26th Battery of the 7th F.A.B. with me, he was a slim build, average height, and a good musisian (pianist) He was born on one of the Islands, Lord Howe Island, I think he worked with Henry Bull & Coy and was quite young about 21. He was wounded as he was getting into a rough shelter near Ploegstreet Wood towards the end of May 1917, we were being shelled out of our position at the time and ordered to retire. Hewas wounded in the vback and was carried back by Gunner Cecil Ross and another. He was taken back to the Clearing Station. Ross told me the same day, and that Tindale was unconscious. Ross is still with the Battery I believe.

"Died of Wounds.23.5.17".

Informant described Tindale as about 5'10" high, rather slight build, inclined to dark complexion, aged about 24/5. Left Australia with Informant per "Argyllshire" on 11/5/16.

Informant states that they both belonged to the 26th Battery. On or about 23.5.17 the Battalion was to the right of Ploeugstert Wood in action. During the night time while Tindale was in a dugout he was wounded by a shell. He was taken to a Casualty Clearing Station where he died. Informant did not see him but was at his funeral. He was buried with others in a Cemetery at the Casualty Clearing Station where he died. Informant could not remember the location of the cemetery but thought it was about 1½ miles from Steenwerke. It was the Cemetery where General Holmes was buried. A cross was made for his grave by the men of the Battery and Informant saw it before it was put on the grave.

Informant added that Tindale was very quiet and well liked.
