Handwritten notes in Cyrillic script, likely a list of names or identifiers. The text is written on a piece of aged, brownish paper. The handwriting is somewhat cursive and difficult to decipher precisely, but appears to consist of several lines of text, possibly including names and dates or numbers.

Not a photograph. Edgar.
TONI

C. E. W. BEAN.

16 Sept, 1946.

THE use of these diaries and notes is subject to conditions laid down in the terms of gift to the Australian War Memorial. But, apart from those terms, I wish the following circumstances and considerations to be brought to the notice of every reader and writer who may use them.

These writings represent only what at the moment of making them I believed to be true. The diaries were jotted down almost daily with the object of recording what was then in the writer's mind. Often he wrote them when very tired and half asleep; also, not infrequently, what he believed to be true was not so—but it does not follow that he always discovered this, or remembered to correct the mistakes when discovered. Indeed, he could not always remember that he had written them.

These records should, therefore, be used with great caution, as relating only what their author, at the time of writing, believed. Further, he cannot, of course, vouch for the accuracy of statements made to him by others and here recorded. But he did try to ensure such accuracy by consulting, as far as possible, those who had seen or otherwise taken part in the events. The constant falsity of second-hand evidence (on which a large proportion of war stories are founded) was impressed upon him by the second or third day of the Gallipoli campaign, notwithstanding that those who passed on such stories usually themselves believed them to be true. All second-hand evidence herein should be read with this in mind.

Handwritten notes on a grid-lined page, possibly a ledger or account book. The text is written in a cursive script and includes several lines of entries, some with checkmarks and numbers. A vertical line is drawn through the middle of the page, separating the entries into two columns. The entries appear to be financial or administrative in nature, with some numbers and possibly names or dates. The text is somewhat faint and difficult to read precisely.
