	31st Battalion.		Captain. MORISSET, Vaux Liddiard.	At BELLICOURT on the 29th September 1918 during the attack on the Hindenburg Line he acted as Adjutant of the Battalion. On reaching BELLICOURT he displayed great courage and bravery in face of intense machine-gun and shell fire moving about among the men and urging them forward. At a later stage near NAUROY owing to the failure of flanking troops to advance, a critical situation arose. This officer at once perceived the danger of the situation, and on his own initiative he deployed troops to fill the gap, and thereby enabled the advance to continue. His bearing throught the whole operations was a source of inspiration to all ranks and the courage and initiative displayed, tended very materially to the success of the attack and capture of the BELLICOURT SECTOR of the Hindenburg Line	W. Freeman Lieut-Colonel Commanding 31st Battalion A.I.F.	Distinguished Service Order

I ceretify that the Rank and Name of the above officer has been checked with records and found correct in every detail
