Div. Engineers xxxxxx 1st Australian 1st Anzac 30th September 1917.

1st Field Coy Engineers A.I.F.	Captain John Edward Graham STEVENSON.	During the recent operations in the vicinity of POLYGON WOOD, GLENCORSE WOOD and HOUTHULST FOREST East of YPRES, Captain STEVENSON carried out his duties as reconnaissance officer with great courage and tenacity and kept his Company Headquarters supplied with valuable information, regarding Engineer work, throughout the whole time. On the afternoon of the 21st September and during the morning of the 22nd he made a very thorough reconnaissance of all the forward area in regard to proposed engineer work, accomodation and shelters for the troops. The information obtained, under heavy shell fire, was of very great value.	C.R.E. Military 1st Aust. Cross. Division.
1st Field Coy Engineers A.I.F.	Lieutenant Cyril LAWRENCE.	On 20th and 21st September, 1917, during the operations along the MENIN Road East of YPRES, Lieut. LAWRENCE had charge of the consolidation of a strong point South of BLACK WATCH Corner, and the construction of a communication trench to another strong point - a distance of 300 yards. He completed the task allotted him under adverse conditions and very heavy shell fire. It was chiefly due to his untiring energies, resourcefulness and courage that the work was carried out so successfully.	C.R.E. Military 1st Aust. Cross. Division.
