	13th Battalion, 1932 A. I. F.		Pte. ERNEST JOHN CHARLESWORTH	During the attack on German trenches near MOUQUET FARM on night 29/30th August, Pte. CHARLESWORTH and Cpl. CRAIG successfully held up parties of the enemy for over an hour. Twice the enemy rushed the post established by these two men in the German trench but were driven off with bombs each time. Their gallant action in sticking to a perilous position enabled us to consolidate over 100 yards of enemy line.		Card
do.		3850	Pte. F.E. MASSEY	I highly commend the conduct of No.3850 Pte. F. E. MASSEY of the Battalion Grenadier Platoon, for his extreme coolness and bravery under heavy shelling, machine gun fire, and bombing. During the attack on trenches near MOUQUET FARM on night 29/30th August, Pte. MASSEY went out alone into No-man's-land to connect up with the left of my left flank Company; an excellent piece of scouting under fearful fire. His action was responsible for the Battalion Bombers arriving at the right spot at a critical time. His example had a steadying effect on other men. He was wounded before the Battalion came out of the line.	Commanding 13th Battalion, A.I.F. Lieut. Col.	M. M.	ea
do.		3404	Pte. J. McLENNAN	In the operations N.W. of POZIERES 29/30th August, this man was a Battalion Runner. He worked for 48 hours without rest and was continually exposed to the greatest danger from shells and snipers. His courage and devotion to duty are very highly recommended.		M. M.	ea
