

At Banqer we're focused on increasing financial literacy Australia wide and have teamed up with the FPA to achieve this. Get involved!

Banqer is an online educational tool that's aligned with the Australian teaching curriculum and makes it easy to teach financial literacy.

Our innovative platform transforms the classroom into a virtual economy. Students have their own mock online bank account, and through transacting with one another, and their teacher, students learn about all sorts of financial concepts in a safe, controlled environment.

Teaching students about important financial concepts, including savings, interest, tax, employment and careers, real estate and insurance, has never been so easy.

You now have the opportunity to philanthropically support schools in your community. Start them on their financial education journey with Banqer and the support of a financial planner - you.

As an FPA member you're able to introduce Banqer to any school you want, including those of your clients. This can make for an excellent way to bring the entire family into the financial fold in an age appropriate way. If improving financial literacy is something you're passionate about, get started with Banqer now.

The Banqer platform is provided free of charge to any Australian primary school teacher that wishes to use it.

Banqer has been a great way to teach students to value money in the modern virtual environment of online bank accounts. Students earn a weekly income with savvy savers reaping the rewards of earning interest, and learning a lot in the process.
