Welcome

The Hon Steven Marshall MP
Premier of South Australia

The State Government believes in celebrating the unique culture in South Australia of supporting local community cultural organisations and artists.

Established in 1998, the annual South Australian Living Artists (SALA) Festival celebrates local visual artists and their ongoing contribution to our cultural story. Artists represent us – reflecting our way of life to the world and imagining our future.

SALA Festival is unique in Australia, its democratic approach means it is inclusive of everyone willing to share their art with the broader community. From our most eminent artists to beginners, SALA Festival celebrates participation in visual art as much as the artistic outcome.

Communities all over South Australia gather in August at hundreds of exhibition openings, open studios, artist talks and special events – getting to know their local artists and their work.

Plus, it is the perfect motivation to explore all the creative corners of our State at the end of South Australia's winter.

Congratulations to all the participating artists, venues and communities. Enjoy this month-long immersion in local visual art. I look forward to seeing you in the galleries and beyond.

Melvin Mansell
NewsCorp Editorial Director
SA, WA, NT & TAS

As much as it is about exhibiting art, the SALA Festival is about community: A community of South Australian Living Artists, the communities where they live and which are reflected in their work, and the wider state community that is enriched by experiencing their craft and imagination.

The Advertiser, Sunday Mail and Messenger publications also reflect and engage with those communities on a daily basis, and have done in a constantly evolving landscape for the past 160 years.

Many of the themes and issues which dominate the news are mirrored in this year's exhibitions, from motherhood and female identity, to diversity and multiculturalism, the environment and connection to place.

Unusual venues range from cemeteries to tattoo parlours and even our own SA Weekend magazine.

As SALA comes of age with its 21st festival, The Advertiser is proud to have been associated as the event's major sponsor for more than a decade, during which time the number of participating artists has increased six-fold.

Take advantage of the opportunity to meet your local artists and visit as many venues, studios and galleries as you can.

Nicholas Linke
Chair, SALA Festival

Welcome to the 21st SALA Festival.

The SALA Festival started with the idea to better connect local artists to audiences, and it has grown from 50 or so exhibitions in 1998 to what is now the biggest open access visual arts festival in the world – something South Australia can be genuinely proud of.

And this year's SALA Festival will be bigger and better than ever - more than 9,000 artists will exhibit in over 700 events and exhibitions across the State featuring works by new, emerging, established and internationally recognised local artists.

On behalf of the SALA Board I wish to thank the State Government through Arts South Australia and our other generous partners and sponsors who make the Festival possible, our incredible staff and volunteers whose hard work brings the Festival seamlessly together, and of course the artists, the venues and the audiences who make this Festival the incredible success that it is.

Please help us celebrate our 21st Festival by immersing yourself in art in August.

Penny Griggs
CEO, SALA Festival

During August in South Australia communities all around the state come together to celebrate local visual art. This year's SALA Festival is our biggest yet with over 9,000 participating artists.

As well as benefiting our health and well-being, art questions our future and reflects the present, offering community connection and social cohesion. At SALA Festival you'll find art to buy, art to make you think and art to make you feel. There's a wide variety of exhibitions from community art fairs to interactive exhibitions focused on participation. All these expressions are equally valid and contribute to the distinctive cultural story of South Australia.

SALA is a unique expression of what it means to be South Australian, in all our myriad forms. There is simply no other festival quite like SALA in the world and, for that, we should be proud. The arts matter. So let's get out there and promote our local visual artists and visual arts industry.

Use this program as your guide and download the SALA Festival app with an interactive map and check in capacity to explore our state through art.

SA Living Artists Publication

Clare Belfrage Rhythms of necessity Kay Lawrence and Sera Waters

Clare Belfrage has built an extraordinary career as a glass artist. Clare Belfrage: Rhythms of Necessity is the first major publication that explores the significance of her contribution to contemporary international glass art. Exhibited across the world, Belfrage's glass vessels explore the pulse and flow of forces that shape the natural world as well as the lived patterns of the everyday. A similar sense of rhythm underpins the structure of this book: an interleaving of short texts and stunning photographs of Belfrage's vessels that reveal her story to date.

The SALA series of books showcasing the works of South Australian living artists was initiated by the SALA Inc. Board and is published by Wakefield Press with the assistance of the Government of South Australia via Arts South Australia. This is the twentieth book in the series, following Annette Bezor: A passionate gaze, Richard Grayson; Kathleen Petyarre: Genius of place, Christine Nicholls and Ian North; James Darling: Instinct, imagination, physical work, Daniel Thomas; Nick Mount: Incandescence, Margot Osborne; Ian W. Abdulla: Elvis has entered the building, Stephen Fox and Janet Maughan; Deborah Paauiwe: Beautiful games, Wendy Walker; Michelle Nikou, Ken Bolton;

Aldo Iacobelli: I Heart Painting, John Neylon; Julie Blyfield, Stephanie Radok and Dick Richards; Gerry Wedd: Thong cycle, Mark Thomson; Angela Valamanesh: About being here, Cath Kenneally; Khai Liew, Peter Ward; Hossein Valamanesh: Out of nothingness, Mary Knights and Ian North; Mark Kimber, Jim Moss; Stephen Bowers: Beyond Bravura, Damon Moon and John Neylon; Nicholas Folland, Lisa Slade; Giles Bettison: Pattern and perception, Margot Osborne; Catherine Truman: Touching distance, Melinda Rackham and Christopher Orchard: The uncertainty of the poet, Peter Goldsworthy, Margot Osborne, Roy Ananda, Julia Robinson and Rod Taylor.

My latest body of work demonstrates a deep fascination with the Australian bush and desert landscape. In a distinct semi-abstracted, impressionistic style and a vibrant palette, I try to capture the intense and enduring harshness of the Australian landscape. Informed by questions around the way that media shifts our perception of ourselves and the world around us Tom Borgas' practice is interested in the generative loops that link media/making, digital/ analogue and image/experience. Using the Adelaide Festival Centre archives as a foundation, this new body of work probes the relationship between the documentation, creation and presentation of performing arts, reinterpreting it as a suite of sculptural and performative interventions.

The Governor's Sculptural Garden
His Excellency the Honourable Hieu Van Le AC is a big fan of the annual SALA Festival. In what is becoming a wonderful SALA tradition the Governor of South Australia has invited a range of artists to exhibit their garden friendly sculptures at the most prestigious address on North Terrace. Enjoy an afternoon of art activities and see the garden and sculptures up close at the open garden on two Sunday afternoons in August.

It's Alive! Investigating the not-so-still life of objects

Our everyday objects resonate with a vitality that cannot be diminished by time, wear and decay. The discarding of these objects is far from the end of their story: it is the possibility of the object freed from the burden of usefulness. Emerging artist, Carolyn Corletto explores everyday object's unique history, materiality and relationship with their owner – rescuing and rehabilitating them in a lively celebration of the inherent vitality of our things.

Good Mother

Through a series of contemporary and experimental works, six mother-artists challenge what it means to be a 'Good Mother'. Throughout history the myth of the submissive and self-sacrificing mother has pervaded the Western imagination. By breaking down patriarchal constructs and exploring the nuances of the lived maternal experience, these artists show us the struggles and triumphs of motherhood.

Water - Space, Science and Emotion

In Blue Space Catherine Fitz-Gerald explores how experience, memory, and time reveal nuances about well-known seascapes and in turn how being in a place changes you. Joseph Ninio discovers through photography what water reveals about science; surface tension, refraction of light, reflection, gravity, and the fluid dynamics of water flowing. Throughout history water has been a metaphor for the inner journey and Keren Seelander's dynamic, yet contemplative paintings flow from her emotions into expressive abstractions.

Drawing upon... (live)
Curated by Melanie Fulton, 10 artists explore the compelling and enduring role of drawing as a key component of contemporary arts practice. The process of drawing makes tangible a vision or thought that is either experimented with, explored or resolved. The notion of drawing as memento is also a consistent and connective theme with each artist attempting to hold, capture and express an idea or vision through their work.

The Unseen World: Paintings by Rich Harry

These intense and visceral abstract works (plus a few paintings of strange birds) are a sort of visual love letter to unravelling and having no idea what is going on with anything, ever. Out of hours..... sometimes years of layering and reworking, something kind of primordial emerges. The Unseen World draws on more than two years of practice and friendship at Bapea studios.

13:12
In their exhibition 13:12, artists Patty Chehade and Christine Thiel ask questions about human nature. Adopting film noir devices in their paintings Chehade and Thiel explore deeper concerns about the human experience and of being in the world. It's what's happening in the shadows that is the real drama, not what's happening centre stage. In the shadows, under the veil, behind the mask... only once layers are peeled away can the secret truth be revealed.

HI VIS
A complex relationship exists between us and the objects we interact with. Objects can provide an intimate comfort; they remind us of who we are and where we've come from. When we dream we interpret the symbolism of our embodied experiences subconsciously. Liam Bosecke deconstructs these ideas through his exhibition HI VIS. By meshing physical and virtual spaces, Liam explores the complexity and context of these relationships. How do our relationships with objects define us?

Approaches | 13 contemporary South Australian painters

What drives artists to paint? We asked this question of 13 innovative contemporary South Australian painters. Their answers were, not surprisingly, diverse. They paint to showcase imperfect beauty, to channel emotions; to escape, to explore ideas like love and intimacy, to help figure out how the world fits together, to document time. And some paint simply for the joy of colour and the tactility of applying paint.

Monica HALL IMAGE, Naomi McCANN

Scent of the Soul
Monica Hall's most recent works embody the energy and beauty often found in vibrancy's wake. They are the scent that lingers, awakening the soul. In Naomi's work, delicate human forms find their way around and through bold marks and an expressionist aesthetic. Figurative content is often secondary to strength of composition and the intensity of the brushmark. Negative and positive spaces vie for dominance as do the representational and abstract themes. Minimalist. But not.

THE RE-DISCOVERY OF WORTH

Looking through a window, any window, is to gaze on a number of possibilities - some good, some bad. Stepping through that window, by choice or by force, means engagement - some good, some bad. Either way, it is a journey - from the scourging of a past life to a re-birth, re-invention, and a re-discovery of self-worth. This was my journey over the past several years, represented by the following photographs in this exhibition.

Saying What's Inside

Saying what's inside attempts to give concrete form to internal states of pain, responding to conversations with patients during Bridget Currie's 2018 SALA residency at Flinders Medical Centre. Throughout her SALA residency at Flinders Medical Centre, Bridget Currie has been researching experiences of pain from a patient's perspective. Vivid imaginings of pain have been gathered through conversation with patients, which have informed a series of drawings and sculptural objects.

Her wish is for these images to challenge you to stop for a moment of peace, to shush the voices of self doubt and embrace self-acceptance.

Country South Australia and Beyond

Denis is an established watercolourist with almost twenty years' painting and exhibiting experience. His love of drawing extended gradually several years ago into the ever-challenging medium of watercolour to evolve into his preferred style today. Drawing is vital however, and will always be there under the colour, and it's the colour and especially the light and shadow that give his paintings the 'feel' of the places he paints.

The 'Warraweena Artists' have joined in artists camps at Warraweena with Cait since 2015, and their varied and original works are a response to that place, and their creative relationships.

LINE

"Art is a line around your thoughts" (Gustav Klimt) and line is not only an exploration of space but it also betrays the mind behind the hand - bold, brave, uncertain, inquisitive, melancholy, playful. The line is intrinsic to the practice of acclaimed artist Robert Hannaford and his wife, artist Alison Mitchell. From doodles in tiny sketchbooks to large gestural strokes of loaded watercolour - this exhibition explores the dynamics of 'line'.

Marnie WARK

Adrenaline

Marnie Wark's new works celebrate moments of chance and their possibilities. They pulsate with latent energy. Paint drips in all directions. Her paintings are literally wound-up, as each new layer is added. Layers of black both conceal and reveal, challenging our perceptions. These new works are as much about time spent painting as they are about life away from the canvas and studio, and about monitoring our own pulse.
