Memorable Moments

Redeemer's participation actually grew throughout Trimester 2 and in virtually each sport, significant improvement was clear almost each week.

The Performing Arts again produced outstanding memories for the Redeemer community. Those of us who were blessed by being able to attend The Pajama Game are left with memories of not only outstanding individual performances in the key roles, but also a chorus that brought a level of energy and polish rarely seen in a school production. As well as another outstanding musical, the Music department's schedule has again been very busy with many memorable performances; of particular note to date was the Senior Concert Band's performance in the Queensland Youth Music Awards, placing first in the State.

Performance outcomes in any school community are very important since they indicate people being on-task and realizing potential. However, the manner in which this is led or supported by adults is equally important to the student results as it models how a supportive community actually operates. To this end, I wish to highlight the P & F's continuing journey of support and reinvention following its restructure away from operating the Uniform Shop and Tuckshop. With a focus now on community building, it has been marvelous to see the outstanding success of the initial Movie Night, and initiatives like the Junior School and Middle School Discos continuing to develop. Seeing three sports supporters groups operating at home games for the first time in more than five years, in addition to the Music Supporters Group, has been a wonderful expression of Redeemer's community spirit fostered by our Parents and Friends. This desire to serve and support one another in action really illustrates Redeemer's heart and is echoed in the semester just past.

Mr David Radke
Principal

Semester 1 has proven to be very rewarding for Redeemer, with the college being blessed with many memorable moments.

While the media has continued to report the various political positions regarding educational funding for the future, specifically speaking 'Gonski,' the reality for all schools is that no detail has been forthcoming and school leadership is no better informed on the issue than teachers or the public. Fortunately, the Redeemer community in 2013 has not been distracted by this and has continued to progress through the academic year with commitment and determination to achieve the best that can be produced.

In reviewing Redeemer's first semester for 2013, it is impossible to not place on record more than once the fact that Redeemer was blessed with its first Rhodes Scholar, Mr Andrew Trotter, graduate of 2004. I take this opportunity to congratulate both Andrew on his achievement of the Rhodes Scholarship and Redeemer staff who taught, supported and mentored Andrew during his Redeemer journey. In the ceremony of recognition of Andrew's Rhodes Scholarship at Redeemer on 13 May his speech inspired current Redeemer students to never close the door on possibilities of personal growth and further education; of course this is a message for whole of life, an attitude we should all embrace. The Queensland Government recognizes Rhodes Scholars through the Prince Albert Cup, a perpetual trophy presented to the Rhodes Scholar's alma mater for the relevant year; thus the Prince Albert Cup will be on display in the Senior Resource Centre for the remainder of 2013.

With the first two trimesters of Sport now virtually behind us, it has been truly humbling to see Redeemer students stretch themselves between Trimester 1 Red Division and Trimester 2's jump to Blue Division. It has been two years since Redeemer has been a member of Blue Division TAS and Redeemer students have given their absolute best each weekend, sometimes in very challenging circumstances, to enable this promotion. Despite some disheartening results,

'Googling' God

Most of us, even if we are not "tech-heads", understand the value of a good website. We can tell the difference between a good website and a not-so-good one. Provided it delivers the information we need, and does so in a relatively 'user-friendly' way, then it has done what we need it to do. In the education world, we are still coming to grips with the impact of the internet on learning. How many of us 'Google' our symptoms before consulting a doctor? A similar thing is happening with teachers. The internet is the primary place for the gathering of information, and how to best utilise this kind of technology in learning is one of the chief challenges facing educators. I would go so far as to say that it has also impacted religion. In exploring a religious or spiritual question, would you initially consult your local pastor, priest, monk, guru, or imam? Or would you 'Google' it first? We do not particularly trust the 'experts' in any field any more. We prefer to become minor 'experts' ourselves in whatever topic we happen to be currently 'googling'. Technology has impacted all of us.

So it's a brave new world we are all finding ourselves in. Perhaps some of us prefer the idea of standing on the small island of the long-trusted solid rock that is our current worldview, rather than jump into the ocean of postmodern consciousness with its unknown depth and unpredictable currents. But one thing is for sure: the waterline of that postmodern consciousness continues to creep ever higher on the shores, so we'd be wise to put our togs on. Not many are yet talking about the impact of technology on religion and spirituality, but it's difficult to argue with the fact pluralism is all around us, that it's a modern fact of life, and that technology helps facilitate it.

This reality, of course, is doggedly resisted in various corners of civilization, and this is where we tend to get the various fundamental 'isms' that have sprung up all over the place. I used to think that 'fundamentalism' was a good thing, if it simply meant 'sticking by your principles'. But when I began to realise what it could lead people to say and do, my mind was changed. Fundamentalism of all persuasions (both religious and atheistic) are characterized by dividing humanity into goodies and baddies, and are strongly bent on the annihilation of all that is opposed, either ideologically or in more sinister ways. The polarization of humanity, expressed through all manner of fundamentalisms, which should be painfully obvious to anyone who keeps up with what's going on in the world, should be of deep concern to all of us.

As the world continues to open up more and more to us, and as we are less inclined in the age of the internet to marry ourselves to the opinions of 'experts' or institutions, but rather judge (Google) everything independently for ourselves, we should all be mindful of the kinds of people we are becoming. What do we want for the world? How much do we tolerate? What should we respect? These are important questions, but they are not easily answered. As for me, I am a Christian, and Jesus' mandate to love remains paramount (Matt.5:44). Perhaps my spiritual use of the internet can be to challenge me more and more about how large that love might need to be.

Pastor Paul Thiele
Senior Chaplain

2012 OP and Exiting Results

Redeemer has a strong track record in assisting students to achieve their potential. Schools do not get awarded OPs, students do. We congratulate the following:

- Sydney Cock, Lauren Henderson and Charlie Kiemann for achieving an OP1.
- The 23.7% of OP eligible students who achieved an OP1-5.
- The 51 students (45.8%) who have received their first preference in the first round of QTAC offers.
- The 100% success rate of our non-OP eligible students in graduating with their QCE and at least one VET qualification.
- 99.2% of students from the graduating class of 2012 received an offer on courses, institutions and pathways into work or further study.

Congratulations Class of 2012!

Flood Support

Supporting our Sister Lutheran Schools

During the Queensland January floods, a number of families from two of our sister Lutheran schools were severely impacted by flooding: Faith Lutheran College, Plainland and St John's Lutheran Primary School, Bundaberg. While physical damage to facilities can be fixed in time, the impact on families, some who had their livelihoods wiped out, is much more devastating.

In an effort to help these families, RLC students and staff have run activities to raise funds to assist those affected by the floods including a sausage sizzle for students in the Middle School and Senior School, a pizza and drink stall organised by the Senior School Student Council and Middle School Leadership group, a "Minute to Win It" competition/ Fundraiser in the Middle School, and a plain clothes day for all students in Prep to Year 12. Redeemer's fundraising efforts culminated with a lunch time Flood Aid concert which was organised by the Senior School Cultural Committee on Wednesday 8 May.

We are extremely grateful to everyone within the Redeemer community who have assisted in raising in excess of $3,000 for our sister Lutheran School communities.

Living to Serve

Sunshine Plus Songs Equals Service? Sure Does!

The Chapel Green bathed in autumnal sunshine greeted a large crowd of Redeemer students with one thing on their minds: Flood Aid. As part of Redeemer's drive to support Lutheran schools affected by the recent floods, the Cultural Committee, with help from staff and several willing performers, did a Bob Geldof a la the 1985 Live Aid phenomenon: the result was a lunch-time of live music, competition and donation on Wednesday 8 May as part of the 2013 Flood Aid Concert.

Committee Coordinator Philip Sharwood Biedermann, expressed great pride in the event and all involved. "This event is testimony to what makes the College a great and very special place. The courage of the performers was matched by the warm acceptance and support of the audience. So many staff said to me later that this isn't an event that you could run easily in any school, but our kids make it easy: they serve with a smile, cheer and generous heart. All involved were very generous with their time and with their money, which in these difficult financial times is particularly fantastic."

The Cultural Committee wish to thank all the performers who provided the entertainment: the students were Luke Borgert, Eliza Coop, Alex Groves, James Jin, Asha Kells, Joel Ng, Sean Power, Tom Ryan and Anne-Marie Ryland, while staff performers were Mr Tim Kelly and Ms Mellissa Chard. Mr Kelly and Tom Ryan were instrumental (pardon the pun) in setting up the speakers and instruments for the event. The crowd should also be thanked: through a lolly jar competition, drinks stall and gold coin donation, over $400 was raised for the St John's community in Bundaberg.

Hopefully, the sunshine of the day will add to the warmth and spirit of this gift.

Plain Clothes Day

A Plain Clothes Day was held in Term 1 on Friday 22 March in support of our flood affected sister schools at Faith Lutheran College, Plainland and St John's Lutheran Primary School, Bundaberg. A grand total of $2,329.10 was raised for this cause. Included in the total was $500 raised from Senior School students for three Senior School staff to come dressed in the student uniform for the day!

Celebrating Success!

Redeemer's Rhodes Scholar

On Wednesday morning 13 May 2013, Redeemer experienced a very proud moment, a little bit like a proud parent witnessing the success of their child. It is not every day that a school experiences the joys of a past student receiving one of the highest academic accolades – that of being a Rhodes Scholar. Therefore, this was a very special time for Redeemer.

We've known for some time of the achievement of Redeemer's past student, Andrew Trotter, in being awarded this scholarship, but it was Wednesday 13 May when we got to celebrate with him. Andrew journeyed from the Nation's capital to allow us to honour him and allow him to inspire the current generation of Redeemer scholars. Joining us for this special celebration were Andrew's family, a number of Andrew's past teachers, both of Redeemer's past principals, and the Assistant Director of Lutheran Education Queensland.

Andrew thanked Redeemer for the many opportunities it offered him, and continues to offer our current students.

Andrew summarized Redeemer's strengths into the following four points:

- Strong and varied education
- Social and real-world experiences
- Law and order
- A healthy spiritual culture

Andrew encouraged students "don't close any doors. There are lots of opportunities out there and a variety of experiences is what makes you interesting, knowledgeable, and ultimately, I think (I hope), successful. Not all such experiences will necessarily seem fun at the time."

In closing, I leave you with these wise words from Andrew:

"You may have been told that pigs cannot fly. But I suggest to you that pigs operate according to the same laws of aerodynamics as every other object. That is to say, their size and shape makes it exceedingly unlikely that they will fly, but they can - if only given sufficient thrust."

Biography

Andrew Trotter graduated from Redeemer Lutheran College in 2004 as Dux of the College. Andrew was also the recipient of the 'Prime Minister's Award' for ranking in the top 500 high school graduates in Australia for that year. At present Andrew holds the position of Associate to the Honourable RC French, Chief Justice of the High Court of Australia, a role he will fill for this year until taking up a position with the law firm King & Wood Mallesons in 2014 before commencing his Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford, in September 2014.

Prominent Australian Rhodes Scholars have previously included Australian political leaders, Tony Abbott, Kim Beazley, Bob Hawke and Malcolm Turnbull.

Redeemer awarded the Prince Albert Cup

On Wednesday 24 April, a special Senior School assembly was held where Mrs Freya Ostapovitch MP representing the Minister for Education, Training and Employment, presented Redeemer Lutheran College with the prestigious "Prince Albert Cup". This elaborate trophy is presented to the school of the recipient of the Rhodes Scholarship awarded annually.

Redeemer's Rhodes Scholar, Andrew Trotter (Class of 2004), returned to Redeemer on Monday 13 May for a special recognition ceremony.

Junior School News

If you have entered any of the Junior School classrooms recently, you would have noticed that the teacher's voice is being amplified around the room. This is due to our newly installed, state of the art, audio technology. These 'Red Cat' systems were a welcomed addition to the Junior School in May, 2013 and generously co-funded by the Parents and Friends Association and the College.

Hearing systems are specifically engineered to ensure that when the teacher speaks, each child can clearly hear every word spoken in the classroom. This is achieved via a microphone worn around the teacher's neck that transmits signals to the in-built speaker, without the need for wires or bulky equipment. Hearing systems enhance a teacher's natural voice to optimise learning conditions.

When using the system, teachers don't have to go to much effort to be heard in a noisy room. The children are also quicker to respond which can have a more direct impact to learning and understanding.

We thank Redeemer Lutheran College and the Parents and Friends Association for this very large and valued resource in our Junior School.

Mrs Kelli McKeiver
Head of Junior School

Here's what some of our staff and students had to say about our Hearing Systems in the Junior School:

"The Red Cat system has been a valuable addition in Year 1. This not only helps the children to be able to hear instructions clearly, but also prevents voice strain for the teacher. It is a useful tool to quickly get the focus of the whole class."

Ms Nicola Pennisi Year 1NP Teacher

"I find the Red Cat system particularly good for when the students are positioned in certain areas of the classroom. My voice carries, not only in the immediate vicinity of where I am talking with students, but is also able to be heard clearly on the other side of the classroom."

Miss Amanda Losurdo Year 2AL Teacher

"I have found the Red Cat system to be an extremely versatile system in the classroom. First and foremost it allows all students to hear more clearly, enabling better learning outcomes. The system also allows for easier behaviour management and can even be used as a reading tool for students to hear themselves and each other, as they read individual texts."

Mr Nathan Weil Year 4NW Teacher

"Good classrooms are full of discussion and vibrant language use. One teacher voice in the midst of that is sometimes drowned out. The Red Cat's ensure that the teacher's voice is heard by every student equally well, no matter where they sit in the classroom or where the teacher stands. It allows for a greater variety of lesson delivery and allows each student to access learning situations equally."

Mrs Angie Morris Year 5AM Teacher

"The hearing systems help us concentrate better and not be distracted by the noise outside the classrooms."

Alexander Shepherd Year 3 Student

"The teacher's voice is now louder so we can all hear better and work better."

Kiaan Gordon Year 5 Student

"The hearing systems are excellent. They help students hear from the back of the classroom really easily."

Emelie Ly Year 4 Student

Students in the amplified classroom scored an average of 35% higher on the DYNAMIC INDICATORS OF EARLY LITERACY SKILLS (DIBELS™)

Teacher redirections were reduced by 72% between pre and post test observations.

Students in the amplified classroom scored an average of 21% higher on the DEVELOPMENTAL READING ASSESMENT (DRA™) than students in the non-amplified classrooms.

"Hearing is the primary channel for learning. The more children hear, the better they learn."

Stepping up in Leadership and Learning

The Years 6, 7 and 8 students in 2013 have already begun to see some of the new challenges set before them as Redeemer starts to prepare them for the restructuring phase of the Middle School in 2015.

The year commenced with our Year 8 students having their own lockers located on the verandahs of the Year 8 MD block precinct. The students have welcomed this change and have seen it as a step up in responsibility and learning. In utilizing these lockers, the Year 8 students have more access to their books and belongings and can keep their Year 8 zone tidy and clean. Having experience with lockers in Year 8 gives students familiarization with locker usage in preparation for Years 9-12.

The timely blessing of the improved and enlarged Learning Enhancement and EAL facility has enabled Middle School students greater access and more learning spaces to support their education.

Middle School teachers are no longer just teaching one year level but are teaching classes from different year levels in their specific subject area of expertise. With the implementation of the Australian Curriculum, the Middle years teachers are becoming specialists in particular subject areas allowing for continuity of learning for students and greater subject knowledge. The Home Group teacher still remains an important pastoral care leader for our Years 6-8 students and is still the teacher with whom the class has most contact, care and support.

With the introduction of a class set of ipads based in the Middle School Library, the Years 6-8 students are able to utilize these to enhance their learning. Classes have been using ipads to explore particular educational applications which enable students to experience more visual and interactive learning opportunities. Using iPads to access E-reader books from the library has also been introduced and taught during some reading pit lessons. For some students, using this device in this way has assisted them to positively re-engage in the reading process.

The Year 6 and Year 8 camps were experiences which helped our students grow in cooperation, self-management and character building. Both camps involved making choices to take on physical and group challenges whilst building self-confidence and supportive friendships. The Year 7 students enjoyed a Leadership Training Day where they were engaged in various active, dramatic and reflective activities related to learning about leadership at a variety of levels.

The Middle School Leadership Group has been a very active group this semester. Members of the Middle School Student Council and Senior School Captains have mentored new members in learning about leadership practices, capabilities and organization. In Term 1 the Middle School Leadership Group promoted and spoke about the 'Bullying-No Way!' campaign.

They were also involved in the 'Pizza and Drink' stall and the 'Minute to Win It' competition which was organized to raise funds for the Flood Appeal. In Term 2 the group proved themselves to be excellent leaders and guides for the Grandparents Day Book Fair and the Middle School Parents and Community High Tea that was organized to raise funds for cancer research.

Leadership opportunities and initiatives are encouraged in the Middle School. During Assembly sessions Years 6 to 8 students are stepping up to make specific announcements, engaging in and reporting on weekend sports results and informing their peers of coming events. The Community Activities Day on the last day of Term 2 has been designed for students to show leadership in their House groups and to engage in group cooperation to perform acts of service as well as enjoy games, crafts and team activities.

Middle School students are encouraged to continue to inspire others with their willingness to accept responsibility, take on challenges and strive to be the best they can be in all that they do.

"Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus."

“Do more than belong: participate. Do more than care: help. Do more than believe: practice. Do more than be fair: be kind. Do more than forgive: forget. Do more than dream: work.”

William Arthur Ward

At Redeemer, we encourage participation in all aspects of school life. There are many opportunities and challenges presented to students in the Senior School each day. Our hope is that students will be engaged, enthusiastic and committed students in the classroom and active citizens in the wider school community.

Our interhouse sporting competitions continue to build community spirit and provide an encouraging environment for student participation. The Swimming Carnival was the first event of the year.

There was much fun, cheering and frivolity outside the pool, but Wilson achieved first place for their efforts in the pool. Student participation in the Cross Country was strong, but Wilson came away with the trophy proving to be a formidable team in water and on land. The entries for Pavement Art were very creative interpretations of the indigenous theme for 2013 and Ramsay students were awarded first place for their artistic efforts.

The highlight of Semester 1 was the performance of the musical ‘The Pajama Game’. Teachers and students worked together over many months to produce a quality production with outstanding student performances, spectacular sets and excellent music.

Students are to be commended for their efforts in the TAS sporting competition. Many students have gone above and beyond to coach, help and support their peers in many matches; it is this kindness and service that makes our school a special place.

I congratulate students for their academic successes this semester and for their active participation in the many co-curricular activities offered. I would also like to thank the hard working and committed senior school staff for inspiring our students to participate, care, practice, work and dream beyond the classroom.

Shibakashi Day 2013

Shibakashi Day 2013 was held on Thursday 20 June. Over 300 students and staff from our Japanese sister school Shibakashi came to spend the day with Redeemer Senior School students, as part of their five day annual study tour. The Senior School Japanese students acted as leaders for the 32 groups of Japanese, providing them with support throughout the time they were here.

The day started with the Redeemer Worship Band and a Welcome Ceremony where a few of the Redeemer Japanese students had the opportunity to display some of the excellent Japanese language skills they have acquired over the past few years.

After morning tea, the Shibakashi students led cultural activities in Home Groups. These were particularly enjoyable as it provided many Redeemer students with the opportunity to meet the Shibakashi students they had exchanged letters with earlier in the year. The Shibakashi students guided the Redeemer students through activities such as making straw sandals, origami, tie-dying, Japanese paper making, tea ceremony, Japanese archery and kendo.

After Home Group activities there were sporting matches in Volleyball, Basketball, Dodgeball, Ultimate Frisbee and Soccer. Redeemer achieved mixed results but overall everyone enjoyed themselves and language proved no barrier to intercultural understanding.

After a great concert with music performances from Redeemer students and karate and Japanese dance demonstrations by Shibakashi, it was hard for many to say goodbye to their new friends as, what many have called ‘The best Shibakashi Day so far’, came to an end.

This important cultural occasion highlights the role language learning can play in our students’ lives. We look forward to welcoming Shibakashi again next year.

what a show!

Redeemer presents...

Over the past five years I have always found myself looking forward to the Musical weekend and this year has been no exception.

Comments directly to the Principal regarding the excellence of both performance and attitude by all Redeemer community members involved in The Pajama Game has never been so extensive. I have had the pleasure of students, parents, staff, past parents and past students, and friends of the College from the Gold Coast to the centre of Brisbane pass on their thanks and congratulations for a wonderful and outstanding production. As a community we should be rightfully proud of what was achieved, we should be equally thankful that we are blessed as a College with such talent and most importantly commitment from students, staff and parents of the College, which allowed Redeemer to perform this production so ably.

This community spirit is to be applauded, and as Principal I am humbled by such commitment.

Heart of our Family

Saying it with 'Easter Eggs'

On the last day of Term 1 while many students were enjoying the last of their exams, a group of ten Redeemer students travelled via minibus to Bethany Christian Care to spread the Easter cheer. Students from all sub-schools donated Easter eggs, and the Community Service Committee spent many lunch hours laboriously packing them into small bundles. We went through more than 1,000 bags, a stack of tags about a metre high, more blue ribbon than we're proud to admit, and, thanks to the generosity of the Redeemer community, more than 10,000 Easter eggs!

As we cheerfully walked into the nursing home we were greeted by a lovely receptionist who accepted a gift from the Year 12 Creative Art students from 2012. Their class had painted images of Australian icons like Vegemite, Arnotts etc. to give to the community. The gift was received graciously and it was promised that they would be hanging up the next time we came.

During our visit last year we were lucky enough to meet a woman who had just turned 100 years old. She was surrounded by a mountain of flowers, family photos, cards and in particular she enjoyed showing us a plastic potted flower which opened up and said, "You are the heart of our family." This woman was cheerful, positive and received her Easter eggs with much gratefulness, blessing us as we left.

This year, as we entered her room, her face lit up as she recognised the familiar Redeemer uniforms. On her bedside table we saw the same plastic potted flower, the same photos of her loving family and fresh bunches of flowers from her family from her recent 101st birthday. Again, we presented her with her Easter gift and again she showed us her plastic potted flower (although the batteries had died long ago).

As we spoke to this woman who was surrounded by the love of her family, I couldn't help but think of my own grandparents. While parents support us through our lives financially and emotionally, aunts and uncles exist for birthday money and holiday destinations and the rest of the gang is just there for laughs, grandparents truly are the heart of the family.

The Christmas biscuits, itchy knitwear, crisp $5 notes each birthday, long-winded stories about doctors' appointments and shopping trips; how could we ever do without? Grandparents are also there for love, support and care, and when there's an opportunity to show them how much we care about them, we should take it.

Thanks again to the Redeemer community for showing such generosity in donating Easter eggs. We also distributed Easter gifts to other nursing homes, Meals on Wheels and to food affected families in Bundaberg.

Chair, Community Service Committee

A Grand Celebration

On Friday 26 April, Redeemer celebrated its annual Grandparents Day again for another year! This year, our students were blessed by having close to 700 Grandparents and special guests attend across the day as part of the Middle/Senior School program in the morning, and the Junior School program in the afternoon.

A special thank you to all of the Hospitality students and staff who assisted with catering across the day, to our Music students for the exceptional music concert which was held in the morning, and to the Junior School students and staff in Prep, Year 2 and Year 4 that hosted a memorable concert in the afternoon. Indeed, a grand day!

Redeemer Remembers

On Wednesday 24 April, the Christian Life Committee once again initiated an ANZAC Dawn Service together with the Australian Light Horse Association, in honour of, and out of respect for Australia's Service men and women, both serving and for those passed on.

In addition to the Dawn Service, a special service was also held in Redeemer Chapel at 8.40am for the Senior School, where a number of invited guests attended, to coincide with the presentation of the Prince Albert Cup.

Introducing our 2013 Student Leaders

After six years as a part of the Redeemer community, we are blessed to have the opportunity to serve as the College Captains of 2013 and lead our fellow peers. We greatly appreciate the influence that comes with our positions and hope to use it in an effective manner, bringing unity within sub-schools and modelling the college ethos, "Our Hope is in Christ". Throughout this year, we, along with the Vice College Captains, are focused on sharing our faith through regular devotions in both the Middle and Senior Schools, and also getting to know younger fellow-students in Junior School. As a team of student leaders, we have begun putting these goals into action with weekly visits to the Junior and Middle Schools.

Walking around Redeemer today, it is hard not to notice the vibrant and ever-growing sense of community that has driven this school for so many years. As a team of leaders for 2013, we endeavour to maintain a strong focus on service to this lively and friendly atmosphere. Though it may sound cliché, one way that we can achieve this is by 'getting involved' with the many opportunities Redeemer has to offer, particularly within the co-curricular program. Through these various choirs, sporting teams and committees, all of us have enjoyed the opportunity to establish healthy relationships with others and show Christ's love to a greater range of people.

We find it a very rewarding experience being able to see how significant we are as role models for the younger students of the college. Having the chance to see how simple it can be to make positive impacts in the community is extremely encouraging for us as we work towards achieving our goals as captains. John F. Kennedy said, "Leadership and learning are indispensable to each other." We four look forward to growing as young leaders through experiencing challenges and learning how to overcome them. Also, we aspire to having the necessary skills, experience and confidence to continue our roles as leaders far beyond our schooling years.

As we embark upon our journey through senior year with the positions we have been given, we hope that we may fulfil our duties with God's strength, love and kindness. Together, along with all those involved with the college community, we pray that 2013 will be a year which builds upon the college values and allows all of us to live out each day understanding Our Hope is in Christ.

Learning Service

2012 Tour to Cambodia

On 5 December 2012, a combination of 20 students and teachers from five different Lutheran schools across Australia joined together in an effort to experience life in Cambodia. A central Cambodian organisation called Life With Dignity (LWD) invited Australian Lutheran World Service (ALWS) to supply a school team for a Service Learning/Learning Service trip. As a result, 16 students were selected from Redeemer Lutheran College, St Peters Lutheran College (Indooroopilly), Grace Lutheran College (Rothwell), Peace Lutheran College (Cairns) and Cornerstone Lutheran College (Adelaide).

Throughout the year, the team worked together fundraising for the tour. The money that Cornerstone Lutheran College raised alone was enough to fund a medical centre in one of the rural areas of Cambodia and was in progress when we visited. Some of Redeemer's fundraising involved a stall at Redeemer Fair, a Dinner for Hope and silent auction, an Easter hamper competition and gold coin donations from events including drama performances and Redeemer's Got Talent. Donations were also made to sponsor the purchase of bags filled with supplies for LWD's distribution. They were jam-packed with colouring pencils, chalk, sporting equipment, cutlery, bowls, cups, writing books, pencil cases, Australian calendars and dental hygiene kits.

The trip was challenging in many ways. The sight of beggars sitting at the temples, and children hypnotising us with their pleas for money so they could attend school was simply heartbreaking. The heat was thick, the chicken and rice meals were repetitive and the history of the country was incredibly emotional. Experiencing these aspects of the country, however, made watching the progress of LWD more outstanding. In each village we listened to the communities explain their advancement and plans for the future. Through LWD's program, each village was improving every day with plans to install water pumps, community fish ponds and pig farms. It was inspirational to see young women advocating for protection against HIV/AIDS in the communities and really demonstrated the difference one person can make. The Cambodian people were enthusiastic and cheerful in most areas of their life. They were incredibly grateful for everything they had and their close connection with their family, friends and world was inspiring.

The trip was a Service Learning trip. This label, perhaps more appropriately, could be reversed to name it a Learning Service trip. Although our original purpose was to provide aid overseas, it became increasingly evident throughout our journey that we had more to learn from the Cambodian people than we could have ever anticipated. One man who worked for LWD and led us as translator, named Borin, demonstrated that everyone is equal and no amount of kindness is ever too much; Sothea, a genuinely loving woman that worked at the LWD Headquarters in rural Cambodia taught us the importance of showing that you care; and Khom, our bus driver, showed us that you can achieve anything you set your mind to. Each person that we came across impacted us in a different way and will stay with us forever. The empowerment process in Cambodia is most truly in action and we should continue to support organisations including Life With Dignity and Daughters of Cambodia to ensure a brighter future for the Cambodia people.

First at Queensland Youth Music Awards

Redeemer's Senior Concert Band recently competed in the Secondary Concert Bands section of the Queensland Youth Music Awards and received 96 points (out of a possible 100) in their heat - this made them eligible for a 'gold' award (a number of schools were awarded 'gold' in our heat). The second heat was held the following night and winners were announced after all 13 bands had played.

Redeemer placed First! (St Peters Lutheran College placed Second and The Gap State High School placed Third.)

A wonderful achievement - the students played exceptionally well on the night and were very excited about the results when announced to them.

The stars shine for Redeemer!

Redeemer Lutheran College Parents and Friends hosted their first ever "Movies under the Stars" outdoor movie night on Saturday 20 April. Special thanks to all families who came along to support this P & F initiative, with an estimated 350 people attending this free community event. Due to the positive feedback that we have received, we are looking forward to holding more events like this in the future! Stay tuned for details!

Fostering Partnerships

Our Saviour Bible Presentation to Preps

Redeemer Lutheran College and Our Saviour Lutheran Church are committed to fostering supportive relationships. As part of this, Our Saviour members have generously donated Children's Bibles for each Redeemer Prep student. We are very thankful for their kindness in nurturing the students' knowledge of the Bible.

The Associated Schools ...it all Started Here!

TAS Sport Marketing Campaign

The Associated Schools (TAS) sporting association to which Redeemer is a part of has recently conducted a sporting hero alignment marketing campaign.

Each TAS school had the opportunity to nominate a former student for this marketing campaign, and Redeemer Lutheran College is proud to announce that David Giffin from the graduating class of 1991 was selected as the male sporting hero for the campaign!

David Giffin is a former Wallaby Vice Captain who played 49 Tests and in a World Cup for Australia.

The billboard and press campaign launched across Brisbane in April, with the cinema advertising campaign running across June and July.

Indigenous Influence

The Interhouse Pavement Art Competition for 2013 fell on National Reconciliation Day. It made sense to recognise the rich, both ancient and living, artistic expression that comes from Australia's Indigenous Culture. So, this year's theme was, Indigenous Influence. The design brief required students to ensure that their composition involved the influence of Australian Indigenous Art through features such as decorative techniques and patterns, imagery or earthy colour schemes.

Each of the four Houses entered three teams of four students. The event reflected the vertical House ethos.

The chalk art designs could have been devised in several ways: Students could use a famous artwork as a starting point and change or "appropriate" the composition to suit this challenge. Or, they could use their own art work but ensure their composition contained some evidence of the influence of Indigenous Art. Even though there was no requirement to reflect Redeemer Lutheran College or House imagery, it was amazing to see the innovative ability of many of the designs to incorporate something about their particular House or Redeemer.

The event managed to fit in between rainy days and there was a wonderful carnival atmosphere, enriched by the Ramsay barbecue. A very large crowd of spectators contributed with encouraging support and certainly added to the spirit of the competition. Students produced an incredible array of interpretations for the theme, ranging from a brilliant rainbow serpent made from a template of Redeemer Chapel's stained glass window to three turtles with flags from the different cultures on their shells.

All teams who participated are to be congratulated on their creativity, imagination and skill. Judging this year was the most challenging in the history of this event with all works very closely placed. The Guest Judge this year was Mr Michael Wardell, the Director of Logan Art Gallery. Lavarack does deserve commendation on the outstanding quality of craftsmanship and innovative conceptualisation for all three of their entries.

First Place: Ramsay

Jocelyn Wu, Fiona Nguyen, Caitlin Nicol, Tonia Wright.

Second Place: Lavarack

Nathan Kenny, Nick Tierney, Celine Mackie, Hudson Fay.

Third Place: Wilson

Dan Ryan, Vanessa Pitt, Georgia West, Becky Leung.

Fourth Place: Mansfield

Jeesue Hur, Rebecca Zhao, Jess Ling, Jess Tu.

The Judge wanted to make Special Commendation to Ramsay's team: Josh McKenzie, Tom Jeffries, Matilda Loch and Mitchell Polglase, for their ability to meld three genres into one composition. They managed to show Western perspective and figure, Aboriginal pattern work and subject matter and a Street Art graffiti tag for Ramsay.

Staff Service Awards

Throughout its three decades Redeemer has been blessed with a very stable staff, both teaching and non-teaching staff. Redeemer's long serving staff members have provided the College with stability and helped maintain a culture of caring and service to students, parents and each other. Redeemer's College Council has been working for some time to ensure that staff service and loyalty is appropriately acknowledged. Consequently, new service awards for staff were established last year with presentations being made at the staff opening service in January prior to students commencing the school year. elevation and 12 creek crossings through the Gold Coast Hinterland on the weekend of 13-14 July. On average, only half of the teams entered make it to the finish line as a complete team, despite this, they hope to complete the 96km trek within 39 hours.

Each team is required to raise at least $1,500 for the Kokoda Youth Program (a 14 month early intervention program to help young people from a variety of backgrounds to gain confidence, direction, new friends and the skills to overcome any obstacles that life throws at them). # Meet Our Next Generation of Leaders

Gemma Olsson - Neurosurgeon

Source: The Sunday Telegraph, 23 June 2013. Linda Silmalis "Meet our next generation of leaders".

where she is mentored by its director, Dr Mark Dexter.

Olsson credits the support of her parents for having attained her goal.

"They love me more than anything in this world and have been incredibly supportive," she says. "I also have had the privilege of working with some of the most fantastic women, like Dr Sarah Olson, a neurosurgeon at the Princess Alexandra Hospital in Brisbane, and Dr Jacqueline McMaster, here at Westmead. It can be a man's world but us girls are not doing so badly."

Olsson was one of just eight females studying neurosurgery, compared with "60-odd men".

Her days are long, beginning between 7.00am and 7.30am and often only ending 12 hours later, depending on the number of urgent cases.

But she thrives on the challenges of the job.

As for the other "most likely" nomination in her high school yearbook, namely "use colourful language", Olsson is less forthcoming: "We are always very dignified in surgery."

Under the headline "most likely" in Gemma Olsson's 1995 high school yearbook, it says: "neurosurgeon".

Olsson, 35, not only achieved her goal, but is regarded among her industry peers as one of the youngest practising female neurosurgeons in Australia.

For as long as she can remember, the Brisbane Redeemer Lutheran College graduate has been fascinated by the mind.

Encouraged by her parents - her mother is a high school teacher and her father a town planner - Olsson pursued a medical degree before embarking on the long journey to become a neurosurgeon.

After completing six years of study at the University of Queensland, Olsson commenced work at various hospitals around Australia before beginning another five years of neurosurgery training.

This year, she was accepted as a Fellow of Royal Australasian College of Surgeons (FRACS), and in March joined Sydney's Westmead Hospital neurosurgery unit,
