BIPSA Athletics – Champions again!

Last week the team of Junior School athletes represented the College at the annual BIPSA Athletics Championships held in Albury. At the end of the day, the Trinity team had defended its Championship title extremely well and was pronounced the winning BIPSA team for a third year running! There were some tremendous individual and team performances across the day, which are detailed by Mr Payne later in this edition of the newsletter.

I take this opportunity to congratulate all those students who represented the College so well at the BIPSA Championships last week! A fantastic set of results for individual athletes and a wonderful result for the College – well done!

Strong Foundations – Better Futures

For a number of years now, Trinity has used the tagline ‘Strong Foundations – Better Futures’. If you look at the College’s Strategic Plan, prospectus, website and advertising, you will find many references to this statement. For me and many of the staff at the College, this tagline speaks volumes about the core mission and values of the College, as well as our educational objectives and priorities. I wonder though, if the relevance of this statement has been understood by the College community?

This week I attended a community workshop in central Albury organised by the State Member for Albury, Mr Greg Aplin. The focus of the workshop was the important area of the prevention of suicide. At one stage of the workshop, the College’s Director of Pastoral Care, Mrs Ren Lefevre addressed the gathering and spoke of the importance of relationships between staff and students, the well-being and pastoral care of all students at the College and therefore the importance we place on the role of all staff in administering pastoral care to all students, led by senior staff, including the Director of Pastoral Care and the College Chaplain.

One member of the gathering spoke out against Mrs Lefevre’s assessment and overview of what, as a school, we see as integral elements which contribute to happy, healthy and successful students. In his view, schools did not have the right to impose religious values and beliefs on its students and he suggested that a Chaplain would not contribute anything towards student well-being and that there was no connection between the ‘pastoral care’ of students and their ability to navigate their way through the challenges they face during their years at school.

Other schools were represented at the workshop and some shared the table at which Mrs Lefevre and I sat. Generally, there was polite surprise at the gentlemen’s opinion from most present but it has made me stop and think about what we consider as central to our educational mission and approach at Trinity.

I would have to say, that I agree enthusiastically with the view that schools should not impose religious doctrine on students. Our prospectus suggests:

'At Trinity, we do not impose a set of beliefs upon our students' (page 6 of the College prospectus);

The religious dimension and tradition of the College is our very foundation however, and this should never be taken for granted or diminished.

'We provide hope through the example of Jesus and through proclaiming, sharing and celebrating our faith. We express our faith through our relationships and through the service of others. At Trinity, our Christian education promotes meaningful values and vision and these underpin all curricular and co-curricular activities at the College'.

The pastoral care and well-being of our students (and other members of the College community) is very much based on the core values which stem from our Anglican tradition. At Trinity, I often refer to these core values as our pillars and these very much form the 'strong foundation' which we refer to in our tagline. Two of these pillars include:

'Faith: Developing sound Christian values, which will equip students with appropriate wisdom, attitudes, skills and knowledge, to lead fulfilling and productive lives in which service to others is a key aspect'; (page 2, College prospectus)

And:

'Pastoral: Recognition and celebration of the unique nature of each person in the school community and the importance of caring for each individual; emphasis on participation and achievement of "personal best" to increase self-esteem and personal well-being'. (Page 2, College prospectus)

Our commitment to the pastoral care and well-being of students does not have any hidden theological agendas! We see it as the essential starting point towards tremendous educational outcomes for our students and therefore the foundation of 'better futures' for them and for society. The College's Strategic Plan suggests that 'we work continuously to foster a school environment where all feel safe and happy. In this environment we know that members of the Trinity community will achieve great educational outcomes'!

The College's academic programmes and structures and its commitment to quality teaching and learning also form essential elements of the 'strong foundations' we provide for our students. The College continues to evaluate and review its structures and its pedagogy in order to provide the very best teaching and learning opportunities for all students both in and out of the classroom. Upon these 'strong foundations' we believe we provide greater opportunities for more successful outcomes and therefore 'better futures' for our students as they prepare for and enter their adult and professional lives and make valuable contributions to society.

The College maintains its commitment to a liberal, holistic education and we work hard at providing students with opportunities to develop their skills across a number of important areas: academic, spiritual, cultural, sporting, service and stewardship. The College places a strong emphasis on endeavour and excellence in all areas and the pastoral care of our students. Students who graduate from Trinity will be characterised as young men and women who are well-rounded and self-confident with a passion for life, a commitment to excellence, a focus on service, a sense of community and an appreciation of the love of God. At Trinity our goal is to provide every student with strong foundations across all of these areas, leading to better futures for all.

I was pleased to participate in this week's community workshop on the prevention of suicide for a number of reasons. The comment passed in response to an overview of Trinity's commitment to the pastoral care of our students by one gentleman present at the workshop, has provided me with a valuable opportunity to reflect on our core values and the mission of the College. These are very much central to our operations as a school and I think are reflected succinctly in our tagline 'Strong Foundations – Better Futures'!

Kids on Stage

This week a number of students across the campus took part in the 'Kids on Stage Festival'. This is a week-long event where non-government schools are given the opportunity to showcase their singing, dancing and performance skills. This was a voluntary event for the students and those who took the time to commit to practise with the College Choir, Dance Troupe and Percussion band were able to be involved with this representative event. Trinity students performed a range of pieces including the songs 'Price Tag' and 'Miaou'; dances the 'Tango' and a 'Bollywood' dance from the Parent Dinner, as well the Prep group performing the French piece 'Frere Jacques'. It was really pleasing to see so many students involved in this event, and do the College proud with all of these performances done so at a high level. Thank you to Ms Tilbrook and Mrs Wade who helped prepare the groups.

Parent Teacher Interviews

It was good to catch up with so many parents over the course of the Semester 2 Parent Teacher interviews. This was a great opportunity for parents and teachers to discuss their child’s progress and develop future plans to maximise the academic, social and emotional development of our students. Communication plays a huge part in the successful running of Trinity and having the opportunity to discuss students with their parents plays a crucial role in the College’s on-going success.

Year 1-3 Class News

During the last few weeks, students have been studying a book called ‘Fantastic Mr Fox’ by Roald Dahl. The students have been drawing pictures and writing about each chapter. At the end of the book, we will watch the movie and compare the book to the DVD. Some students who have watched the DVD have already begun to notice the difference between the two.

Junior School Production

The Junior School Production rehearsals are well underway and the event looks like it will again be a tremendous success. Students from Y3-6 on both campuses have been busily preparing their scenes in drama classes throughout the term.

In addition, students from the Wodonga campus will travel over to Albury on A Week Thursdays from 9.45 am-11.00 am so they can take part in full production rehearsals. Students involved in lead roles will also be travelling from Albury to Wodonga so they can practice with the Wodonga campus students during drama classes. These practices may at times clash with music tutors, so I remind parents that if your child is involved with conservatorium lessons they need to arrange alternate times.

Re-Enrolment Forms

All families should have received the re-enrolment forms in the mail last week. Please complete the forms and return to the College by Monday, 20th August. Your assistance in this is very much appreciated and will assist the College as it progresses it's planning for the 2013 academic year.

A huge thank you to all the families (including our Little Tackers) who have sent in their vouchers and stickers – we can't wait to "go shopping" on-line with them.

From the Senior School

Throughout week 3, Trinity was lucky enough to have an author in residence. Originally hailing from New Zealand, but now based in Melbourne, Meg Mundell has had a varied and successful career in writing. She has been employed in a number of writer's domains; she has worked as a journalist, a speech writer for a government minister, a ghost writer for an opera singer's memoirs and a novelist on her own novel, 'Black Glass'.

It was fantastic to welcome Meg to our Trinity community for the week. She presented talks to and ran workshops with all students from Year 7 to 12, working with them to develop their writing and offering tips for finding ideas, getting started, using effective techniques and editing. The students enjoyed their sessions and benefited enormously from the on-hand expertise Meg offered. Meg worked with our senior students in preparing them for their vital and impending creative writing task in their HSC English – something which was very much appreciated by all involved!

A huge thank you to Meg and a challenge to all students to keep working on those writing skills, letting those ideas grow, tuning into the ideas around you and organising them into your very own stories.

Remember that the River of Stories competition is still open if you are prepared to turn those raw ideas into story form. Come and see me for entry forms (submissions close 14 September).

Activities News, Years 7 - 9 – Albury

Activities – Squash Training

On Friday, 3 August students participating in Squash as part of their fortnightly activities program were lucky enough to have a visit from Tegan Doherty, Development Coordinator from Squash Victoria. Tegan was in the region to deliver coaching courses and thankfully gave up some of her time to run our students through many of the basic components of the game via various drills. Her enthusiasm for the game was evident and the students learnt a lot and most importantly had a great time – and received plenty of lollies for their efforts. Well done for persisting Harry!

The SS & A Squash Club are offering any students the opportunity to begin or resume the game of squash. The sessions will be free of charge and with the emphasis on having fun and learning the basic principles of the game. The Club will provide all equipment. If you want to know more please come and see Mr Dicketts by the end of next week.

Junior School Special Event

Story Telling and Cake Afternoon

Dear Parents

I write to invite you or another adult member of your family to be part of the Junior School's Story Telling and Cake Afternoon on Thursday, 30 August from 2:10-3:00 pm. To celebrate National Literacy Week the Junior School is looking for parents, grandparents or extended family members who would be willing to read or tell their favourite children's story to a group of students from your child's class and then join with the students in celebrating reading by enjoying some cake.

How we love listening to a good story told or read by a strong reader or story teller. I recall well the stories told by my father and uncles as they retold old favourites or family history. These strong male role models certainly encouraged me to enjoy reading. The strength of a good story teller engages an audience and sends a very powerful message that reading is great. With your help the Junior School is looking to encourage reading in exactly the same way. What children's story will you tell or read?

I encourage you or another adult member of your family to be part of the story telling afternoon by volunteering to read or tell a favourite story to a group of children from your child's class. Perhaps you have more than one child in the Junior School and would enjoy reading to them as a family unit? If so, a room in the College will be set aside for this purpose.

Perhaps you are not available on the day? Rather, you would be able to bake a cake for your child's class to enjoy after the story telling? If so, would you circle the option below indicating that you would be able to supply a cake (no nuts please) for the event. Your contribution would be much appreciated.

Should you be able to join us for Story Telling and Cake Afternoon fill in the slip below and return it to your child's class teacher by Thursday 23rd August. I will send home more details to those who are able to assist a little closer to the day.

Kind regards

Chris O'Loan
Head of Junior School

Please return your Re-enrolment forms to Class or Pastoral Care Group teachers by Monday 20 August - Thank you.
