Jewelry for Your Kitchen!

Your Kitchen—Your Heart— Your Home—Your Family & Friends

The kitchen is more than just another room in your house. It is the beating heart of your home. This is where many cherished memories are created and shared

-where the nice things in life are discussed over a cup of coffee,

-where you begin to map out your holiday,

-where you talk to your kids whilst they do their homework,

-where you prepare that favourite meal or just take some quiet time to enjoy a magazine with a drink.

Nothing says more about you and your home than your kitchen.

That is why we, at Fiori, only specialise in appliances for your kitchen. We believe that choosing your appliances is like choosing that special piece of jewelry, like a magic set of earrings, the sparkling ring, the first chain for your child or simply that necklace that just “sets off” your outfit. Not because you are big, bold and brassy (even though you may be) but simply to exhibit who you are.

The 6 critical areas you must consider before selecting your appliances:

1 Eating Habits

Studies have shown that families that eat together are healthier. Their children eat more fruit and vegetables, everyone eats their food more slowly and enjoys their food much more. Eating together as a family tends to decrease obesity, especially in children and leads to a more enjoyable lifestyle.

2 Kitchens - an Accident Waiting to Happen

The kitchen and bathroom are the most dangerous rooms in the house. In fact, as an occupation, chef is in the top 10 “most dangerous” simply because the kitchen is such a hazard. Between scalding temperatures, slick floors and sharp implements—great care must be given to the flow and set-up.

3 Colour = Mood

The colour of your kitchen will influence the mood that you attack each day with. Psychological studies have found that colours play a huge role on what your mood will be. Colour will affect your efficiency. Red will stimulate the body/mind and increase stimulation whereas Yellow stimulates the nerves and purifies the body. Which signal is most important to your family at the start or end of each day?

4 A Family who Eats Together Have More Successful Children

Children who eat family meals receive better grades in high school. Children who eat most often with their parents are 40% more likely to say they mainly get A's and B's in school than children who eat two or fewer family meals a week. Adolescent girls who have frequent family meals are less likely to have eating disorders.

5 Your Kitchen—Disease Centre

Did you know that 50-80% of all food borne illnesses are contracted in the home. With cross contamination in the kitchen germs can easily spread via our hands, chopping boards, knives and other utensils. Proper cooking and chilling of food is so important to reduce the risk of food poisoning.

6 Centrepiece

The kitchen is the hub of your home, it is the centre point of the time you spend with family and friends. The kitchen is the room where you should make a statement about you, your family and friends.
