Jewelry for Your Kitchen!

Where to Buy Your Appliances

When you are ready to select your appliances you have the choice of the following:

1 General Retailers

General Retailers are the common or big box retailers such as Bing Lee, Harvey Norman, Winnings, Good Guys etc. The general retailers will carry a large number of different brands of products that you can choose from. Here you generally just turn up and purchase what's available.

2 Specialists

Some companies specialise in helping you choose just the right product and offer you detailed, and specific advice to best match the requirements for your kitchen with the most suitable combination of appliances. A specialist retailer may require that you make an appointment for a one on one consultation when you are selecting your appliances. It is like going to a Specialist in regards to your health so that they have all your results ready when you arrive and have time allocated to focus on you.

The 6 critical steps you must consider when planning appliances for your kitchen:

1 Lifestyle

Consider how often you cook, what type of foods you cook and the size of your family. Really how much time will you spend in your kitchen preparing meals? This will greatly influence the size and functions of the appliances you require. Are you planning an open style living? This will help your Manufacturer design your kitchen.

2 Storage

How much storage do you require and where do you want it? Do you want to reach up or bend down to pick things up? The amount of storage you require will influence the flow and style of the kitchen. This will ensure your Manufacturer allows adequate storage for you.

3 Energy—Gas or Electric

Is your preference gas or electric for your cooking requirements. This will impact on the location of gas and power outlets in your kitchen. This will mean there are no last minute delays for your Manufacturer.

4 Clutter Free Design

Are your appliances going to be integrated or freestanding. Do you plan to have a clutter free kitchen that presents a smooth and sleek design? This allows your Manufacturer to plan for having adequate doors to cover your appliances

5 Specifications—the earlier the better

The earlier you provide your Manufacturer with the specifications and details on the appliances for your Kitchen the better. This way they can plan the cut-outs for your benchtops, power outlets, integrated doors, ducting for hoods meaning less delays for your dream kitchen

6 When, Where and How—Delivery

Ok now that you have selected your appliances “When—are they required for delivery”, “Where—are they to be delivered”, “How—are they to be delivered”. The earlier this is confirmed between you, your Manufacturer and your supplier the less headaches and delays for everyone.
