UNISA BUSINESS SCHOOL

Pei Jie got her first glimpse into the University's world-renowned Ehrenberg-Bass Institute for Marketing Science through a vacation research project in her undergraduate marketing degree.

"The Institute works with some of the world's biggest brands, like Coca-Cola, Unilever, and Procter & Gamble, helping them benefit from an evidence-based approach to marketing.

"I was able to see firsthand how the academic theory we learned in class could be applied to marketing problems for real companies."

Pei Jie has gone on to complete her Masters by Research and is now on a scholarship to complete her PhD with the Institute.

Eduardo wanted to study interior architecture and found UniSA was one of the few universities in Australia to offer this degree.

“I chose UniSA’s School of Art, Architecture and Design for its quality and prestige.

“Studying at UniSA has been a good experience and the City West campus is going through a renovation at the moment, which is very inspiring for a student such as me.

“The opening of the student lounge was very exciting. Other facilities such as classrooms, lecture theatres and the Jeffrey Smart Building are all very impressive and have the latest technologies.”

During his studies, Singaporean student Rikki had the chance to give back to his new community through the University's Football United program.

"In my first year, I started volunteering with Football United, which helps underprivileged kids by organising soccer activities for them.

"This led to opportunities for me to coach an under-11s soccer club and then become a sports trainer for a community soccer team."

Rikki says the industry experience during his degree will help him set up his own sports business one day.

The dream of becoming a commercial pilot led Charlotte to travel to Adelaide to study aviation.

The highlight of her studies has been the practical nature of the courses offered.

“We were able to learn how to control aircrafts in a simulator before we actually flew a plane which really boosts your confidence.

“The navigation courses were also useful – we learned how to do flight plans with and without computers.

“There was also the opportunity to undertake courses in airport and airline management to learn about the business side of the industry.”

HOW TO BECOME A STUDENT AT THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA

UNDERGRADUATE ADMISSION

For undergraduate admission, you'll need to have completed one of the following programs:

- An Australian Year 12 or equivalent international program; or
- A recognised Foundation Studies program; or
- A SAIBT, Eynesbury, TAFE or other recognised pathway program.

Bachelor degrees range from three to five years of study. Specific information about your choice of program can be found in the program section of this guide, or online.

unisa.edu.au/international/apply

AUSTRALIAN TERTIARY ADMISSION RANK (ATAR)

If you are an international student studying the Australian Year 12 curriculum in Australia or offshore, entry to the University's undergraduate programs is determined by a Selection Rank, which is provided for each program. The Selection Rank is your Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR) including any adjustment factors. Adjustment factors include all ATAR-related adjustments (eg additional points) commonly available for degrees in an institution. If you do not have an ATAR we will convert your results from your international qualification – if it is equivalent to Australian Year 12 standard – to determine your equivalent ATAR and Selection Rank. If you are an international student studying Year 12 in Australia or offshore, you will need to apply for admission through the South Australian Tertiary Admissions Centre (SATAC).

satac.edu.au

CREDIT TRANSFER

If you have completed previous studies at university, in a diploma program or equivalent post-secondary qualification, you may receive credit, exemptions or advanced standing towards your degree at the University of South Australia. You can also be considered for credit if you have work experience in an area relevant to your studies. Check our Credit Assessor database to see if your qualification is listed. If it is not, send in an application anyway and we'll check it for you.

creditassessor.unisa.edu.au

MINIMUM ENGLISH LANGUAGE ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

The table below sets out the minimum English language requirements for entry into programs at the University of South Australia and is provided as a guide only. Many programs require higher international English language proficiency scores than those below, so you'll need to check the specific score for your preferred program in the charts on pages 95–98.

Applicants from countries where English is an official language or who have recent study experience in an English setting may be able to use this study to meet the English language proficiency requirement. If you have completed previous study in English you must send certified documentation from the educational institution stating that the language of instruction was English. The University will consider all applications on a case-by-case basis.
