FROM STUDENT TO MENTOR

HOW ONE WOMAN REDISCOVERED HERSELF AND NOW INSPIRES OTHERS

When Casey first walked into SGSCC as a student during the uncertainty of COVID, the idea of returning to study as an adult was daunting. With decades spent in the workforce and time at home raising young twins, her confidence was at an all-time low. But what she found at SGSCC was more than just a classroom, it was a turning point.

Supported by an inspiring trainer and surrounded by classmates all seeking their next chapter, Casey rediscovered how to learn, how to ask questions, and how to believe in herself again. Through hard work and encouragement, she not only earned her qualification but reignited her curiosity, her courage, and her sense of purpose. "She's back," her husband said - and indeed she was.

SGSCC didn't just help Casey rebuild her confidence - they offered her a chance to give back. She was invited to become a digital skills tutor, teaching others the very skills she had gained. From helping seniors send their first text messages to guiding students back into the workforce, Casey found joy in helping others fall in love with learning, just as she had.

Her journey continued as she was nominated - and went on to win - NSW Vocational Student of the Year. This recognition opened doors to opportunities Casey never imagined: speaking in Parliament, addressing school groups, and advocating for lifelong learning and vocational education.

From a nervous student to a trainer, a board member, and a passionate voice for community education, Casey's story is a powerful example of how SGSCC empowers individuals to grow, lead, and inspire - no matter where they begin.
