

TIGERAIR AUSTRALIA PUTS ON ADDITIONAL SUMMER PEAK TRAVEL PERIOD SERVICES TO MEET EXTRA DEMAND ACROSS FOUR POPULAR ROUTES

Wednesday 14 September 2016: Tigerair Australia has added over 25,000 additional seats to meet increased demand across four popular domestic routes over the upcoming summer peak travel period.

The additional services have been added to the following routes for travel in December 2016 and January 2017 as listed below:

Route (both ways)	Additional services available on selected dates between	Total number of additional services	Total Seats
Melbourne<->Gold Coast	9 December 2016- 29 January 2017	76	13,680
Hobart<->Melbourne	9 December 2016- 29 January 2017	54	9,720
Cairns<->Melbourne	17 December 2016- 11 January 2017	16	2,880
Perth<-> Sydney	21 December 2016- 4 January 2017	6	1,080

Tigerair Australia Commercial Director Adam Rowe says the airline continues to evolve based on consumer demand and that the additional services will allow more people to travel over the peak Australian summer period.

“These additional services are in direct response to increased demand over the summer holiday period and will give more people the opportunity to get away to some of Australia’s most popular leisure destinations and soak up some much needed sun.

“The majority of services have been added to our popular Melbourne-Gold Coast and Hobart-Melbourne routes, with an additional 76 and 54 services added on each route respectively. Sixteen additional services have been added between Melbourne and Cairns and six additional flights between Perth and Sydney.

Customers are encouraged to plan ahead and book early to secure the best value fares with Tigerair Australia. The additional fares for these additional summer peak services are now available at tigerair.com.au.
