Netball in Australia has never been so well-organised, resourced, as visible across all media platforms and, even more importantly, providing such a wonderful physical outlet for hundreds of thousands of young girls and women to play a team sport in every community. 2011 began with the exciting news that Sydney had been selected to host the next World Netball Championships in 2015. Australia last hosted this prestigious event in 1991, so a new generation of netball fans and players will have the chance to experience the delights of the world’s best netball on home soil. The preparations and planning have begun.

The Queensland Firebirds completed the ANZ Championship season undefeated and became the fourth Australian team to win the trophy by defeating the LG Mystics 57 – 44 in a thrilling display of netball. Later in the year, Norma Plummer was awarded the inaugural Spirit of Netball Award in recognition of her phenomenal coaching achievement at the World Championships and for the highlights of a career that has captured the hearts of Australian netballers, fans and the general public, and form part of our history.

Lisa Alexander was appointed to the national coaching position in August and hit the ground running with two major competitions to finish the year. In October, the Holden Netball Test Series afforded the trans-Tasman arch-rivals the opportunity to head to head against New Zealand Silver Ferns 58-57 in extra-time in a thrilling display of netball. The Fastnet Diamonds headed over to England for the World Netball Series, going through the rounds of the tournament undefeated, but lost the semi-final to England 27-17, before finishing the tournament on a positive note with a 32-24 win over Jamaica in the bronze medal match. The bronze medal equals Australia’s best result at the World Netball Series after having finished third in 2009 and fourth in 2010. England was crowned 2011 World Netball Series champions after defeating New Zealand 33-26 in the gold medal match.

At the Australian Netball Awards in November, the Liz Ellis Diamond was presented to Queensland Firebirds and Diamonds defender Laura Geitz for her outstanding year on court, Liz Ellis and Julie Francois were inducted into the Netball Hall of Fame and service awards were presented to journalists Linda Pearce from the Melbourne Age and Amanda Luhum from the Sydney Daily Telegraph.

On the eve of the awards dinner, a special presentation was made to the Member Organisations for their role in producing our world champion Diamonds. It is a long journey for a player to become a Diamond and the award recognises the coaching, competition and support that each of the Diamonds receive in their home states.

In January and February of 2011, the Netball family were saddened by the passing of Service Award holder Moira McGuinness MBE and former Australian player Maureen Kirsanov. Moira is fondly remembered for her work as the AA Secretary/ Treasurer from 1978-1984.

Kate Palmer, the Chief Executive of Netball Australia, has recruited and leads a wonderful team of people to assist her in managing all departments of the organisation. Kate and her staff have again lifted the bar in the administration, presentation of events, providing programs, education and leadership to the sport throughout 2011. They are all to be congratulated for their dedication and commitment. Finally, I would like to thank the hard working members of the Netball Australia Board; Marina Go, Andrew, Scott, Wilma Shakespear AM, Pam Smith, Jan Sutherland, Sue Taylor AM and Debra Tippett. Andrew retired and Wilma joined the Board in April. They are to be congratulated on their leadership and wise counsel in what was a very busy but very successful year for netball in Australia.

Nоеlеn Dix, President
This is an exciting and challenging time for Australian sport. The active lifestyle that has played a significant role in establishing our nation’s identity, culture and international reputation is being challenged. Demographic shifts and competition from other activities are challenging the market relevance and value of sport to many Australians, resulting in an increasingly sedentary lifestyle, particularly among our children.

It has become clear that in order to reinvigorate engagement in sport among our community and regain our competitive edge in the international sporting arena, there is a need to do things differently. A true sign that Australian sport is committed to this reform is the endorsement from the Commonwealth, State and Territory Governments of the National Sport and Active Recreation Policy Framework.

What this means is that for the first time all governments have agreed on priorities for sport. Underpinning the Framework is the new National Institutes System Intergovernmental Agreement which unites our National Institutes of Sport and national sporting organisations to work hand-in-hand to achieve common national high performance objectives to maximise resourcing and expertise in support of the development of world class athletes to achieve international success. This Framework is supported by significant additional investment in sport by the Australian Government. The 2011-12 Budget provides $300 million to support the full spectrum of sport from grass roots through to elite competition.

Support by the Australian Government will enable a more collaborative long term focus to drive reform within Australian sport and importantly make the connection between Australian’s standing on the podium and young Australians participating in sport.

The Australian Sports Commission looks forward to working with all sporting organisations, the state and territory institutes and academies of sport and state and territory departments of sport and recreation, to promote access to, and participation in, sport across the community and support Australia’s continued sporting success.

The Hon. Warwick Smith AM
Chairman
Board of the Australian Sports Commission
In 2011 Netball in Australia faced the challenge to identify a ‘game changer’ strategy that would transform the sport, differentiate the value proposition to all stakeholders and deliver more significant outcomes. This led to a review of the current strategic positioning of Netball in Australia.

The vision ‘Netball is more than a game – we lead social change, strengthen and build capacity in communities and empower women and girls’ will transform the perception of Netball Australia from ‘a sporting organisation’ to an ‘agent for social change’. This vision will more clearly articulate the unique position our organisation can take in the sport and community landscape and will guide our goals and strategies and assist us to achieve our strategic aspirations.

Netball’s current strategic priorities which are to redefine netball’s membership model, develop a dedicated on-line netball community, modernise the concept and practices around volunteers, embed netball into every school, future proof netball’s national facility blueprint and extend the reach of netball into diverse population settings fit within the framework. There has been increased government and corporate investment in netball. Of particular note is the support from major event companies around the world.

Netball is fortunate to have some wonderful corporate partners who contribute much more than their sponsorship investment. These companies recognise the value a sport like netball can bring to a partnership. Telstra, San Remo, Holden and ANZ Bank bring new ideas and new ways of doing business to the table and share their expertise willingly.

Fellows from both sides of government have been right behind netball, none more so than the Minister for Sport Mark Arbib. Minister Arbib sat in the stands in Singapore cheering our Diamonds on to victory but also played a major role in supporting Australia’s bid for the World Netball Championships in 2015.

Financial Results
It is pleasing to report a surplus of $388,020 for 2011 which exceeded budget by $183,179. The focus over the past four years has been to invest in the national strategic priorities. The 2011 budgeted surplus recognises the need for the organisation to ensure that the reserves grow to sustain increased investment in the future.

There are many stories in netball that remind us of the wonderful qualities and values that team sport promotes. The World Netball Championships in Singapore was an experience of a lifetime for everyone involved. As we celebrated our success, a story of mateship and selflessness started to surface. Caitlin Bassett played the game of her life in the final, pulling balls out of the air and playing with the confidence of a much more experienced athlete. Little did we know that Catherine Cox, one of our most experienced athletes and a member of the Diamonds’ leadership group had been working ‘one on one’ with her team mate during the pre Championship camps and tours. Catherine helped build the skills and confidence of a team mate who eventually would take her position on the court. Catherine Cox . . . a true Diamond.

On behalf of Netball Australia I would like to thank the Member Organisation Boards and management teams, ably led by the General Managers and Chief Executives. I am also indebted to our Board for their support and the strategic advice they have provided on so many matters during the year. Congratulations to the great team at Netball Australia on one of our most successful years. The Netball Australia Board of Directors and staff members share the same vision, have enormous respect for each other and form an unstoppable team.

Kate Palmer, CEO
Participation

Netball Australia recognises that sport contributes to the health and well-being of the entire community. Programs that address participation, inclusion, social responsibility and workforce development highlight the positive impact and influence that netball has on the social, political, economic, education and health status of women and girls.

NetSetGO!

The San Remo NetSetGO! program provides a fun and safe environment for more than 29,000 junior players to experience netball and develop their skills, fitness, social skills and sportsmanship.

The program actively promotes the relationship between sport participation and health, and, with a Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CaLD) NetSetGO! program being offered for the first time in 2011, strives to make the game even more accessible. An integral part of netball’s development pathway, and a highlight of the Holden Netball Test Series half time entertainment, the San Remo NSG! program continues to provide the breeding ground for our youngest players and fans.

Diamonds Community Clinics

The Australian Diamonds took time out to connect with netball communities around the country during the 2011 Holden Netball Test Series. Over 350 junior netballers took part in community clinics in Newcastle and Perth where the Diamonds spent two hours playing games, passing on skills, signing autographs and smiling for pictures with the aspiring netballers who were lucky enough to meet their heroes.

In Canberra, Rebecca Bulley and Chelsea Pitman dropped in to a San Remo NetSetGO! session ahead of the team’s second Test against England, playing a few games and signing autographs for the sport’s youngest stars.

Acting Diamonds captain Catherine Cox was joined by captains Laura Langman (New Zealand), Amanda Mynhardt (South Africa) and Beatrice Mpinganjira (Malawi) in visiting Balga Senior High School ahead of the international double-header as a part of the CHOGM festivities in Perth. The four captains, welcomed by a student guard of honour and traditional dance, joined the multicultural school’s netball team for some drills and passed on tips to the diverse group of players.

Students at Darling Ranges Sports College Stadium in Perth and Immanuel Sports Centre in Adelaide were invited to watch Diamonds’ training sessions after the team used the school’s facilities leading into the respective Tests.

Diamonds Community Clinics

The Australian Diamonds took time out to connect with netball communities around the country during the 2011 Holden Netball Test Series.

Over 330 junior netballers were part of community clinics in Newcastle and Perth where the Diamonds spent some time entertaining the crowd by taking part in half-time entertainment, the San Remo NetSetGO! session ahead of the team’s second Test against England, playing a few games and signing autographs for pictures with the aspiring netballers who were lucky enough to meet their heroes.

In Canberra, Rebecca Bulley and Chelsea Pitman stepped it to a San Remo NetSetGO! session ahead of the team’s second Test against England, playing a few games and signing autographs for the sport’s youngest stars.

In Melbourne, the Diamonds visited HWA Senior High School ahead of the international double-header as part of the CHOGM festivities in Perth. The four captains, welcomed by a student guard of honour and traditional dance, joined the multicultural school’s netball team for some drills and passed on tips to the diverse group of players.

Students at Darling Ranges Sports College Stadium in Perth and Immortal Sports Centre in Adelaide were invited to watch Diamonds’ training sessions after the team used the school’s facilities leading into the respective Tests.
In 2011, Netball Australia augmented its interaction with governments, their respective departments and members of parliament to highlight the positive impact and influence that netball has on the social, political, economic, education and health status of women and girls.

Throughout the year, Netball Australia was fortunate to receive significant funding from the Australian Government through the Australian Sports Commission, Department of Health and Ageing, and Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations that has enabled netball to deliver illicit substances and alcohol awareness programs, provide community development programs in India, Samoa, Tonga, PNG, Vanuatu and Cook Islands, and partner with the David Wirrpanda Foundation to deliver the No School No Play - Dare to Dream program.

The No School No Play program is an Australian Government initiative that aims to build strong partnerships between sporting organisations, parents and communities of secondary school students to improve school attendance and achievement. Netball Australia, in partnership with the David Wirrpanda Foundation, is delivering the Dare to Dream - Netball Program. Officially launched in Victoria on 1 April 2011, the program is designed to build self-esteem and confidence in young disadvantaged women as it engages, inspires and empowers them to become leaders in their families and communities. The program combines netball and ‘life skills’ while mentoring young women about how to improve their health, education and employment outcomes.

The Club Champions program is aligned to the national alcohol code of conduct. Netball Australia is a signatory to the code and places a particular emphasis on the dangers of binge drinking. Education and awareness sessions were delivered at all national team and squad camps (Diamonds, 21/U, 19/U, 17/U). Preliminary discussions commenced around developing an on-line educational resource for this area, with a plan to develop this through the first half of 2012, should funding be available.

India – The Goal Program

The Goal Program is part of the Australian Sports Outreach Program (ASOP) funded by the Australian Government. ASOP works with the Naz Foundation to increase use of netball as a tool to address the issue of increasing HIV infections among young women in India.

Set up by the International Federation of Netball Associations (IFNA) with a unique multi-partnership delivery model, the Goal Program is an empowerment program which uses netball and life skills education to transform the lives of young underprivileged girls in India, on and off the court.

Netball Australia, as a technical partner, has worked in partnership with the Naz Foundation during 2011 to develop a coach education program to build the capacity of the coaches working within the Goal program.

Pacific Netball Partnership

The Australian Government (AusAID) and the Australian Sports Commission, Netball Australia, Netball New Zealand and the Oceania Netball Federation have formed a partnership to build strong, well governed Pacific netball organisations that have the capacity to deliver quality, sustainable and enjoyable netball programs for the community.

Netball Australia worked with Netball Samoa and Netball Vanuatu throughout 2011 to establish good governance structures, employ development staff and establish netball programs in primary schools.

Health Partners

Netball’s partnerships with beyondblue and the National Breast Cancer Foundation (NBCF) continued in 2011 and were again the focus of fundraising efforts during the ANZ Championship Festival of the Stars celebrity game. A capacity crowd at the Sydney Olympic Park Sports Centre was treated to two fifteen minute halves of highly entertaining, if not quite textbook, netball.

Thanks to the support of event sponsors ANZ and Holden, the match raised $13,800. NBCF captain Adam Spencer lead the pink team to the narrowest of victories over Charlie Pickering’s beyondblue team, with the final score standing at 10-9.

The two health partners were also featured throughout the presentation of Holden Netball Test Series, with the Diamonds’ games against England nominated as ‘Blue Tests’ while the clashes with the Silver Ferns were designated ‘Pink Tests’.

Gambling

While gambling on netball is minor compared to other sports, protecting and maintaining the integrity of netball is paramount.

In 2011 Netball Australia welcomed the Australian and State/territory governments’ agreement to pursue nationally consistent legislative arrangements as part of the National Policy on Match-Fixing in Sport; and the development of a criminal offence of cheating in relation to sports betting.

During the course of the year, Netball Australia provided responses to several government consultations, community consultations and government roundtables, including the review of Interactive and online gambling and gambling advertising, the Interactive Gambling and Broadcasting Amendment (Online Transactions and Other Measures) Bill 2011 and contributed to a discussion paper for the review of the Interactive Gambling Act 2001 (including live odds during sporting events).

Illicit Drugs

Illicit Drugs in Sport education sand awareness sessions were conducted at the 17/U and 19/U National Netball Championships in Queensland, and at the 21/U camp at the AIS for athletes, coaches and support staff. The program aligns netball’s strategic plan and values with the Federal Government’s IDIS policy.

Delivery of an on-line learning resource was delayed, however it is expected that this will be rolled out in early 2012.
The netball footprint in Australia is vast. To deliver the broad ASC participation outcomes identified in the Australia Sport – The Pathways to Success report, the sport requires a large, well-resourced workforce that is appropriately trained, developed and supported.

Capacity of People

Workforce Development

Netball Australia, with the assistance of the Australian Sports Commission, Service Skills Australia and along with our Member Organisations, is working towards the development of a National Workforce Development Plan which will include leadership and governance, clarification of roles, responsibility and accountability, and workforce development strategies.

Coach Pathway

Netball Australia continues to provide targeted professional development for identified high performance coaches as part of its strategy to have a pool of world class coaches working in the Australian netball system.

The National Mentoring Program gives identified coaches the chance to experience a high performance coaching environment. In 2011 the program was conducted in Canberra alongside the Diamonds’ program and the second Diamonds v England Test match in October. Di Brown (NT), Kellie Tahiri (Tas), Bronwyn Bock-Jonathon (ACT), Melinda Clarke (ACT) and Kate Durham (ACT) all took part in the program.

The Coach Excellence Program is targeted to each individual. This year it included a mix of professional courses, mentoring and attending Australian trainings and games. A highlight of the program was a meeting Rachel Rawlins, a Principal Dancer of the Australian Ballet, and then attending one of her classes. The participants in 2011 were Lisa Alexander, Vicki Wilson and Jane Woodlands-Thompson.
Congratulations to Dianna Toppi and Tara Warner, who successfully obtained the All Australia (AA) badge. The pair was presented with their AA certificates at the Australian Netball Awards in November.

Four umpires were provided with National Officiating Scholarship Programs (NSOP) in 2011; Dianna Toppi (Vic), Tara Warner (NSW), Laura Hayes (SA) and Deanna Stainer (SA). The NSOP umpires attended Australian Sports Commission professional development workshops, were allocated to National Events (National Championships and ANL) and participated in a Development Camp concurrent with the 17 & 19 Underage Development Camp.

The Australian Diamonds took all before them in 2011, winning their 10th World Netball Championships title, retaining the Constellation Cup and, after a thrilling final Test match of the year, regaining the world number one position in the IFNA rankings.

It was an emphatic answer to the heartbreak of 2010, when the Diamonds were defeated by the Silver Ferns in the gold medal match of the Commonwealth Games.

The triumphs of 2011 were also achieved against some not inconsiderable obstacles, including the loss to injury of revered shooter and Diamonds captain Sharelle McMahon, and Diamonds mid-courter Lauren Nourse. Injury struck again after the World Netball Championship win with new captain Natalie von Bertouch unable to take the court during any of the Holden Netball Test matches. At the end of 2011, von Bertouch was yet to captain a match on home soil.

A smooth transition between two superb coaches, Norma Plummer (Jamaican tour, New World International Series and World Netball Championships) and Lisa Alexander (Holden Netball Test Series), ensured that the Diamonds march back to world number one in 2011 was a compelling and conclusive one.

To ensure ongoing success on the international stage, netball recognizes the need for a system that creates an environment where champions are inevitable. This environment will integrate world class programs and services to athletes and coaches that includes technical and tactical development, player wellbeing and physical preparation.

Gold Medal Match

10 July Singapore Diamonds 58 d New Zealand 57 Extra time
The Australian Diamonds took all before them in 2011, winning their 10th World Netball Championships title stunning final Test match of the year in the IFNA rankings. It was an emphatic answer to the heartbreak of 2010, when the Diamonds were defeated by the Silver Ferns in the gold medal match at the World Netball Championships title, retaining the Constellation Cup and, after a thrilling final Test match of the year, regaining the world number one position in the IFNA rankings.

To ensure ongoing success on the international stage, netball recognizes the need for a system that creates an environment where champions are inevitable. This environment will integrate world class programs and services to athletes and coaches that includes technical and tactical development, player wellbeing and physical preparation.

At the end of 2011, von Bertouch was yet to captain a match on home soil. Bertouch unable to take the court during any of the Holden Netball Test matches. Again after the World Netball Championship win with new captain Natalie von Bertouch, back to world number one in 2011 was a compelling and conclusive one.

The triumphs of 2011 were also achieved against some not inconsiderable obstacles, including the loss to injury of revered shooter and Diamonds captain Sharelle McMahon, and Diamonds missed again after the World Netball Championship win. Lisa Alexander (Holden Netball Test Series), ensured that the Diamonds march tour, New World International Series and World Netball Championships) and the Australian Diamonds took all before them in 2011, winning their 10th

The Australian Diamonds took all before them in 2011, winning their 10th World Netball Championships title, retaining the Constellation Cup and, after winning final Test match of the year, regaining the world number one position in the IFNA rankings.

It was an emphatic answer to the heartbreak of 2010, when the Diamonds were defeated by the Silver Ferns in the gold medal match of the Commonwealth Games.

A smooth transition between two superb coaches, Norma Plummer (Jamaican Test Series) and Lisa Alexander (Holden Netball Test Series), and back to world number one in 2011 was a complete success story. The Diamonds’ need for a system that creates an environment where champions are inevitable.

High Performance Strategic Plan

Netball in Australia recognizes the need for a system that creates an environment where champions are inevitable if we are to ensure ongoing success on the international stage. As such, the entire netball community was delighted to hear at the end of 2010 that the sport was to receive an additional $500,000 for high performance, with that funding earmarked to create just such an environment – one that integrates world class programs and services to athletes and coaches, including technical and tactical development, player well being and physical preparation.

Continuing Australian Government funding and support for netball is critical and it was therefore significant to receive acknowledgement and recognition in 2011 that the ASC Annual Sport Performance Review into Netball Australia concluded that the delivery of the four year High Performance Plan against performance is on track.

The High Performance strategic priorities for 2010 – 2014 have been identified as:

• One National High Performance plan.
• Targeted High Performance Coach Development.
• A National Talent Identification and Development Framework.
• Regular international exposure and experiences for athletes across the pathway.
• Performance Analysis integrated across the system.
• A Sport Science and Sport Medicine research and development strategy.
• An Athlete Wellbeing strategy.

SSSM Research

Sport science and sport medicine play a vital role in the training, performance and wellbeing of athletes and Netball Australia looks to establish and maintain a SSSM development strategy that will ensure closer relationships between coaches, athletes and sports science and sport medicine personnel. In 2011, NA engaged with Deakin University and the University of Queensland to conduct two research projects.

Aaron Fox, an Honours Sports Science student, completed a project titled ‘An investigation into the demands of elite level netball’ under the supervision of Dr Natalie Saunders and Assoc. Prof Leonie Otago. The research was conducted by analysing video of four recent Diamonds v Silver Ferns games and produced interesting outcomes, with the potential to influence the development and management of athletes.

Dr Daniel Gucciardi from the University of Queensland, a world authority on mental toughness in sport, conducted a preliminary project on developing a Metal Toughness Inventory for netball. Netball has partnered with Dr. Gucciardi to continue this work with our 21/U and 19/U athletes in 2012.

Netball Australia also reached agreement with The University of Queensland for a further project in 2012 on looking at ways of identifying injury risk, and is in discussion with Griffith University about a project looking at the role of Vitamin D deficiency in both bone stress injuries and the ability to maintain optimal muscle function in elite netballers.

A successful inaugural Netball Australia Research Forum saw participants from Netball Australia, all ANZ Championships teams, the SISSAS network and state MOs come together to hear and discuss the results of research that had been conducted through the year, and to participate in planning for research projects to be conducted in 2012.
Netball's Athlete Wellbeing Strategy addresses the management of athlete load and recovery in light of the increasing demands of the national and international competition environment and will ultimately enhance the ability to maintain athlete careers.

Diamonds

All Diamonds athletes now complete an on-line wellbeing survey on a daily basis when in camp and on tour. This survey is designed to help medical staff closely monitor player response to training load, injury status and general health and has proven to be effective in streamlining the management of players. Diamonds athletes now complete an end of camp and/or tour survey, which is designed to help monitor issues that may arise. Player response to this has been helpful in both planning and establishing clearer communication.

21/U

All 21/U athletes complete the same daily wellbeing survey as the Diamonds. Additionally, they are now completing this survey for a month leading into their team commitments. This has enabled their medical support staff to flag any potential issues early and ensure that they are managed appropriately leading into their Netball Australia commitments.

Commercial Growth

Headlined by the signing of a new national partnership with Telstra, destined to bring the sport to a wider audience than ever before, and the announcement that Sydney had successfully edged out Manchester for the right to host the 2015 World Netball Championships, 2011 heralded a year of significant achievements and activity in the commercial area. The Holden Netball Test Series raised the bar in all aspects of event delivery and the Diamonds’ success at the World Netball Championships in Singapore provided the impetus for strong sales in the licensing program. In another major positive for the sport, a three-Test series from Jamaica was shown on Australian TV for the first time on ONE HD.
Corporate Partnerships

A new two year partnership with Telstra, the first to be announced under the National Sponsorship Framework, delivers funding to Netball Australia, TTNL and the Member Organisations, and will be instrumental in taking the sport to new heights in the digital space with ANZ Championship and Diamonds Test matches streamed online, including on Telstra T-box and other IPTV services. The agreement also provides for grassroots support of netball through programs such as the Telstra Affinity Program, as well as partnerships with each of the five Australian teams in the ANZ Championship.

New partnerships with State events companies demonstrated the increasing commercial value of the international Test series. Fans in Adelaide and Newcastle have the opportunity to experience Diamonds Test matches from 2011 – 13 thanks to support from Events SA and the Hunter Sport Group. In WA, Eventscorp / CHOGM worked with Netball Australia to secure an international double header in Perth (Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Malawi) as part of the prestigious Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM) while the Melbourne Test had the support of Sport and Recreation Victoria.

Netball Australia’s relationship with Pacific Magazine was extended for a further two years, through to 2012. In a change of direction, Pacific Magazines’ New Idea was also extended for a further three years, while a new two year partnership with 2XU will provide a range of compression products for the Diamonds and 21/U program, along with the development of a new netball specific range of product in partnership with RMIT.

Both FIT Health Insurance and Gray Nicholls extended their partnerships with Netball Australia to include NetFest, the new netball mass participation event on the Gold Coast, providing sports medicine, physiotherapy and massage services, and the ‘Official Netball’ respectively.

Michael Wilson Jewellers, creators of the magnificent Constellation Cup, have increased their involvement with netball as an official partner of the Constellation Cup.”

Licensing Program

It was another successful year for the Netball Australia licensing program under the management of Velocity Brand Management (VBM). It capitalised on the Diamonds’ success at the 2011 World Netball Championships and the range continued to sell well across the range.

Licensees for 2011 included:

- Burley Sekem – scarves, beanies etc.
- Global Leisure Concepts – portable netball posts and Target kids range
- Gray-Nicholl Sports – netballs
- Kuki – replica apparel
- Lorraine Lea Linen – towels and bed linen
- Triumph – bras
- Trofe – pins, key rings, magnets, tattoos, lanyards
- Telstra – mobile phone related range

• Local Sports Venues – official Hobart site for the Diamonds

Netball Australia’s relationship with Asics was also extended for a further three years, while a new two year partnership with 2XU will provide a range of compression products for the Diamonds and 21/U program, along with the development of a new netball specific range of product in partnership with RMIT.

Licensing Program

It was another successful year for the Netball Australia licensing program under the management of Velocity Brand Management (VBM). Apparel supplier Kuki launched a refreshed Australian Netball Diamonds range to support the World Netball Championships and the range continued to sell well across the Holden Netball Test Series in October. New licensee YouBookz also capitalised on the Diamonds’ success in Singapore, introducing a new netball book that takes a look back on the
Passionate fan base

Netball Australia continues to focus on increasing the number of passionate Diamonds supporters and building the brand presence of the Diamonds in the community. In 2011, Diamonds Community Clinics in Perth and Newcastle not only extended the reach of the Diamonds’ brand and profile of individual players, but also provided a once in a lifetime experience for children aged 10-15 to meet their heroes. Several San Remo NetSetGO! centres around Australia also welcomed Diamonds team members as the result of a special ‘Win a Diamonds visit’ competition in the lead-up to the World Netball Championships.

Diamond Girl continues to provide the connection point between junior netball and the Australian Netball Diamonds, bringing the Diamonds brand alive in the junior space. She is a NetSetGO! Ambassador and become a regular fixture during the international series, much in demand with younger fans for autographs and photos.
Passionate fan base
Netball Australia continues to increase the number of passionate fan bases around the country. The Diamonds supported in the team's second Test against England, playing a few games and signing autographs for the sport's youngest stars.

Acting Diamonds captain Catherine Cox was joined by captains Laura Geitz (New Zealand), Amanda Mynhardt (South Africa) and Beatrice Langman (New Zealand) in visiting Balga Senior High School ahead of the international double-header as a part of the CHOGM festivities in Perth. The four captains, welcomed by a student guard of honour and traditional dance, joined the multicultural school's netball team for some drills and passed on tips to the diverse group of players.

Students at Darling Ranges Sports College Stadium in Perth and Immanuel Sports Centre in Adelaide were invited to watch Diamonds’ training sessions after the team used the school’s facilities leading into the respective Tests.

The Australian Diamonds took time out to connect with netball communities around the country during the 2011 Holden Netball Test Series.

Over 350 junior netballers took part in community clinics in Newcastle and Perth where the Diamonds spent two hours playing games, passing on skills, signing autographs and smiling for pictures with the aspiring netballers who were lucky enough to meet their heroes.

2011 Liz Ellis Diamond winner Laura Geitz is a fan of getting back to grass roots.

"When we play Test matches, the communities are our fan base with the little girls and their families," defender Laura Geitz said.

"It’s nice for us to mix with them, pass on some words of wisdom and teach them a few things, hopefully there were some future Diamonds running around out there.

"We get the girls who just look at us and their face lights up, it means a lot to us. There are some gorgeous little kids out there with great personalities and skills so it’s really enjoyable.”

In Canberra, Rebecca Bulley and Chelsea Pitman dropped in to a San Remo NetSetGo! session ahead of the team's second Test against England, playing a few games and signing autographs for the sport’s youngest stars.

Acting Diamonds captain Catherine Cox was joined by captains Laura Langman (New Zealand), Amanda Mynhardt (South Africa) and Beatrice Langman (New Zealand) in visiting Balga Senior High School ahead of the international double-header as a part of the CHOGM festivities in Perth. The four captains, welcomed by a student guard of honour and traditional dance, joined the multicultural school's netball team for some drills and passed on tips to the diverse group of players.

Students at Darling Ranges Sports College Stadium in Perth and Immanuel Sports Centre in Adelaide were invited to watch Diamonds’ training sessions after the team used the school’s facilities leading into the respective Tests.
Test Series

The 2011 Holden Netball Test Series was an overwhelming success on and off the court, raising the bar in all aspects of event delivery, and notable for unprecedented support from state and federal governments, sell-out crowds in four of the six venues, and increased engagement with netball fans through the Diamonds Community Clinics. The series was the longest in the history of the Australian netball team and logistically the largest event that Netball Australia has delivered; seven Test matches in six cities over 22 days.

While England did not live up to the promise of recent performances during the first two matches, the third and final Test in Sydney did not disappoint, with the visitors almost turning the tables in front of the biggest crowd in Australian netball history to attend an Australia v England Test match.

The matches against New Zealand were trademark classic contests, with thrilling, final second victories that continue to shape the head-to-head record of both nations.

NetFest

The inaugural NetFest was held on the Gold Coast from 8-11 September 2011. Presented by Netball Australia with the support of Events Queensland, this was the first mass participation netball event of its kind, offering a selection of indoor, outdoor and beach netball competitions. In between and after matches, participants were able to enjoy the many attractions and experiences which make the Gold Coast the ideal holiday destination.

A dedicated NetFest mobile app (iPhone version) was developed to create a virtual hub for NetFest. The app featured fixtures, results, news feeds and general event information. Approximately 50% of participants downloaded the app.

Australian Diamond netballers Sharelle McMahon and Lauren Nourse were fan favourites at the event, bringing some star power to the opening night party and throughout the competition, along with NetFest Ambassadors Summer Burke, Lauren Phillips and Shannon Eckstein.

The inaugural NetFest event also enjoyed the support of Tourism Queensland, Tourism Gold Coast and the Gold Coast City Council’s, all of whom worked with Netball Australia to deliver a successful event.

A condensed 2011 ANZ Championship season, adapted to accommodate the demands of the World Netball Championships in Singapore in July, served up plenty of treats for netball fans and was notable for several highlights.

While maintaining the traditional roster of 65 regular round games followed by a four-match Finals Series, the 2011 draw included several new features including three ‘double rounds’, in which seven or eight games were played, rather than the traditional four or five, the removal of the ‘bye’ rounds and the introduction of Thursday night matches for five of the regular rounds.

For the third consecutive year, the ANZ Championship Grand Final was played before a capacity crowd, with tickets for the season-decider at the Brisbane Convention and Exhibition Centre (BCEC) selling out in less than 20 minutes. The match was contested by the unbeaten Mission Queensland Firebirds and newly crowned number one New Zealand side, the LG Mystics, both appearing in their first Finals Series. In taking the title with a 13-goal winning margin, the largest in the history of the four year competition, the Firebirds became the first team to go through the competition unbeaten while also becoming the fourth winner of the Championship.

Network Ten’s broadcast of the Championship continues to showcase the spectacle of the sport, and the skill and athleticism of the athletes in the world’s best netball league. Following the devastating February earthquake in Christchurch, the rescheduled Round 3 match between Mercury Energy Tactix and LG Mystics was well supported by the people of Auckland. While the crowd were treated to free entry courtesy of Vector Arena, they dug deep in support of the re-development of netball in Christchurch, donating a total of $20,309 towards the Tactix and Canterbury Netball.

In Australia, a capacity crowd at the Sydney Olympic Park Sports Centre was treated to two fifteen minute halves of highly entertaining, if not quite textbook, netball during the annual Festival of the Stars match. Thanks to the support of event sponsors ANZ and Holden, the match raised $13,800 for netball’s health partners beyondblue and the National Breast Cancer Foundation.
Launched in 2010, the Constellation Cup provides a focus for the now epic matches that continue to shape the head to head records of Australia and New Zealand.

The right to claim the Cup in 2011 was determined by five Test matches: two in New Zealand prior to the World Netball Championships in Singapore, and three in Australia in October. The series provided another worthy chapter in the intense rivalry between the two nations, with the right to claim the Cup dependent on the result of the final international match of the year. The Australian Diamonds held out in a thriller, defeating the Silver Ferns by three goals in front of a sold out crowd at Hisense Arena in Melbourne. Acting captain Catherine Cox received the trophy from Australian Governor-General, Ms Quentin Bryce AC who was on hand to view the match with her New Zealand counterpart Lt Gen Rt Hon Sir Jerry Mateparae.

Awards

Australian Diamonds defender Laura Geitz capped off a remarkable twelve months by winning the coveted Liz Ellis Diamond and ANZ Championship Player of the Year honours at the 2011 Australian Netball Awards in Melbourne.

The 24 year old added the prestigious individual awards to her 2011 ANZ Championship premiership, Network Ten’s 2011 ANZ Championship Player of the Year and 2011 World Netball Championship winner’s medallion.

The highest individual honour in Australian netball is named after former captain and most capped Australian player of all-time, Liz Ellis, who was on hand to present Geitz with a $5000 cheque and a superb one carat diamond from Michael Wilson Jewellers.

Geitz continues a defenders’ dominance of the award, becoming the third to take home the coveted prize (Mo’onia Gerrard ‘08, Julie Corletto ‘09) with Natalie von Bertouch (‘10) the only winner not to come from the defensive end of the court.

Kimberlee Green was named Holden Australian International Player of the Year recognising her outstanding performance during the Holden Netball Test Series, when she stepped in to centre following an injury to captain Natalie von Bertouch.

Diamonds shooter Catherine Cox was named New Idea’s Favourite Diamond by the publication’s readers.

Established in 2008, the Australian Netball Hall of Fame honours an individual for their outstanding contribution to the sport of netball, recognising achievement both on and off the court.

Each year, some of the sport’s most respected and celebrated champions are honoured, each having made a significant contribution to Australian netball and achieved excellence at the highest level.

Liz Ellis and Julie Francou, both World Netball Championship winning captains, were inducted into the Australian Netball Hall of Fame in 2011. Ellis, the Diamonds’ most capped player with 122 Tests to her name, achieved every individual and team accomplishment in the sport including three World Championship titles, two Commonwealth Games gold medals, four national league MVP awards and four national league titles with the Sydney TAB Swifts.

Renowned as a fearless, tenacious and inspirational defender, she became one of the most respected players in the game. Since retiring, Ellis has established a career in the media and continues to be a contributor and ambassador to the sport.

South Australian Julie Francou enjoyed an international career spanning over a decade and was considered one of the country’s finest centre court players, renowned for her superb level of fitness and skill, and boasting incredible speed and agility. Francou, who has gone on to become a highly successful coach and selector, retired with 32 Test caps to her name and the honour of never having lost a game as captain.

Both players overcame significant knee injuries to feature in World Championship winning teams.

Service Awards

Service Awards are presented to those who have rendered outstanding service to Netball Australia on a national level over a period of years. In 2011, two Service Awards were presented, recognising the importance of the media’s support for netball.

Linda Pearce

Linda’s first netball story was a 1985 profile on Sue Hawkins, written while she was still a copygirl (and very keen netballer herself), and published in The Weekly Times. She began covering netball regularly at The Sun as a cadet from about 1987, with her first major event the 1991 World Championships in Sydney.

Linda has continued to write about netball - on and off, but mostly on - for more than 25 years, including covering four World Netball Championships (91, 99, 2007, 2011) and two Commonwealth Games (98, 2006).

Amanda Lulham

Amanda has been covering netball for 20 years after playing rep and state level as a teenager and earning her C-badge as an umpire. She is a former Netball Australia media award winner, taking out the ‘top’ media prize when there was more than one category.

Amanda’s employer, The Daily Telegraph, was the first paper to ever run a weekly netball column – as opposed to a women’s sport column – and the first paper to have a netball front and back page during and post-WNC 1991. Through Amanda’s reporting, it continues to provide coverage of all aspects of the game, as does its Sunday paper.
Hall of Fame

Established in 2008, the Australian Netball Hall of Fame honours an individual for their outstanding contribution to the sport of netball.

Service Awards are presented to those who have rendered outstanding service to Netball Australia on a national level over a period of years. In 2011, two Service Awards were presented, recognising the importance of the media's support for netball.

Linda Pearce
Linda Lulham, who was a long-time media proponent of netball in Australia, has received the Service Award for Media. Her contributions as a reporter and writer have been instrumental in advancing the sport and ensuring it receives the recognition it deserves.
The Spirit of Netball Award was introduced in 2011 and presented at the Australian Netball Awards. It acknowledges extraordinary achievements and sporting performances that have captured the hearts of Australian netballers, fans and the general public. This award is not intended to be given annually but to be granted at the sole discretion of Netball Australia for achievements that are very special and form part of Netball's sporting history.

The inaugural recipient of the Spirit of Netball Award was coach Norma Plummer who led the Australian Diamonds to a tenth World Netball Championship title in 2011 – beating archrivals the New Zealand Silver Ferns 58-57 in extra-time.

In presenting the award, Netball Australia CEO Kate Palmer noted that the preparation of the team, including officials, was carefully planned with nothing left to chance.

“Norma understood every small detail about the athletes and their abilities, had researched every competitor and not only knew their strengths and weaknesses but understood very clearly how to exploit their weaknesses and combat their strengths.

“It is a win that celebrated Norma’s extraordinary career and makes Norma eminently qualified and deserving to receive the inaugural Spirit of Netball Award.”

Spirit of Netball
This country girl combines playing netball for Australia with a day job as a school teacher. If her time wasn’t stretched enough, Julie and husband, Daryl – a professional basketballer - also run sports coaching clinics during the holidays. Family and friends are her reason for being, but netball is her passion.

OBSTACLES DON'T HAVE TO STOP YOU.

If you run into a wall, don’t turn around and give up. Figure out how to climb it, go through it or walk around it.

Netball has embraced the use of online social media as a way to strengthen fan engagement and engender a sense of community. All of Netball Australia’s key social media platforms exhibited strong growth in 2011, encouraging a vibrant, participatory, social and conversational environment for netball fans. In total there were over one million digital interactions online with the netball community across various digital platforms. New technologies were explored, including the launch of an iPhone App for NetFest, and FanCam, a high resolution, gigapixel photo taken at a game which allows spectators to find and tag themselves, then share the results with friends through Facebook and Twitter.

Fans continued to enjoy world class broadcasts of the ANZ Championship and the Holden Netball Test Series on Network Ten and one HD. The three-Test series from Jamaica in January was shown on Australian television for the first time, representing a significant win for netball fans and a big step forward for the game. The broadcast of the Holden Netball Test series was enhanced by a greater focus on in-game interviews with players and coaches, and the use of injured Diamonds players in the commentary box.

Telstra streamed ANZ Championship matches and Diamonds Test matches online, along with pre- and post-game commentary and a netball presence in the BigPond Weekend Sports show. Mainstream media coverage in 2011 reflected the growing popularity of the ANZ Championship and the success of the Diamonds in Singapore and in the Holden Netball Test Series. The announcement of the World Netball Championships team at a special function at The Lodge in Canberra, hosted by Tim Mathieson, was a highlight of media calls throughout the year.

A new media kit was released to coincide with the World Netball Championships. In an array of beautiful imagery, Facets of a Gem gave an insightful look into the multi-dimensional lives of the Australian Netball Diamonds, showcasing the personalities and passions of Australia’s netball stars.

New Idea continued its support of netball through the publication of the New Idea Guide to Netball and other editorial initiatives.

The strategic expansion of our media relationships and a focus on broadening the profile and appeal of our athletes remains a key priority.
Federated Structure

2011 was notable for an increased engagement with the Member Organisations as many of netball’s programs and activities were implemented and project plans developed on the back of increased Australian Sports Commission sport development funding, the Technology Master Plan and National Sponsorship Framework.

In the spirit of ongoing and open communication, Netball Australia convened Presidents’ teleconferences; CEO/GM teleconferences, strategic forums; engagement with the National Sponsorship Advisory Group, National Sport Development Group, National High Performance Planning Group and National Umpire Strategic Planning Group; and investigated a national approach to natural disasters.

In 2011, Netball Australia augmented its interaction with governments, their respective departments and Members of Parliament to highlight the positive impact and influence that netball has on the social, political, economic, education and health status of women and girls.

Netball Australia continued to cultivate ongoing parliamentary relationships to address Indigenous disadvantage; improve women’s health and wellbeing; reduce violence and foster respect; advance equality in leadership and representation; promote the relationship between sport participation and health; improve community mental health; reform the not-for-profit sector; progress the importance of a culturally diverse and socially cohesive community; and address overseas community development through sport.

Building our Networks
As a member of the Asian Region, Australia is responsible for providing support and guidance to member countries in this region. Singapore Netball Association delivered a highly successful World Netball Championships that saw over 75 nations represented at Congress. It was a wonderful opportunity for Delegates around the world to share ideas and discuss the future of netball.

Key appointments during 2011 included Australia’s Sue Taylor’s election as Vice President of IFNA and Kate Palmer’s appointment to the IFNA Board as Asian representative.

Netball Australia is also working with IFNA in two key areas: Commercial Frameworks and International Development. Projects are progressing well under the guidance of a working party that consists of Kate Palmer NA CEO, Raelene Castle NNZ CEO Marne Fechner Head of Commercial and Kereyn Smith CEO of NZOC.

The Netball Australia Board has an Audit and Risk Committee, consisting of Pam Smith (Chair) and Marina Go, that oversees the budget and financial reporting processes. The Committee also assists the Board in monitoring assets, managing funds, and evaluating and monitoring the risk factors within the financial environment.

In 2011 the Committee considered the legislation introduced into Parliament to increase the level of Superannuation Guarantee contributions and proposals to remove the age limit on contributions altogether; the model Work Health and Safety Act; netball’s National Insurance Program; financial modelling to implement the Technology Master Plan; strategy for a ‘Home for Netball’, and enabling services required to deliver the 2015 World Netball Championship in Sydney.
