13.4 Employee Contact

When there is a requirement to discuss Association business with or give instructions to staff of the Association, the Director should communicate through or in the presence of the CEO. To do otherwise, is to undermine the authority of the CEO and will destroy the line of authority which is so essential to the proper day to day management of the Association. Directors must remember that they do not individually have the right to direct employees, unless the authority is specifically delegated to one Director to handle staff affairs, no individual Director should assume the right to interfere.

It is the CEO that has responsibility for staff and it is the responsibility of the Board to ensure that the CEO fulfils their duties to in relation to staff.

The Board shall not receive complaints from staff. Any complaint from staff shall be represented via the agreed Association Grievance Policy and there shall be no discretionary alternative to this process, unless any complaint is of such a magnitude that warrants the complaint's direct representation to the President. In such a circumstance, an agreed protocol shall be developed to manage the complaint that maintains the order of procedural fairness.

13.5 Political Comment

The Board shall refrain from making comments that support or promotes any political party, organisation or entity. The Board shall remain apolitical unless directed by the Association's membership.

The Board will review the Constitution, at least every three years to determine whether the Constitution and its objectives is reflective of the way the Association and the Board operates. This review should look to innovation that permits the Association to adopt new approaches, practices, technologies that permit the Association to become more efficient.

15 COMPLIANCE

The Board is charged with overseeing, reviewing and ensuring the integrity and effectiveness of the Association's compliance systems and processes, legal and other.

16 RISK MANAGEMENT

Since risk management is a complex and critical component of the Association's governance, the Board will charge the CEO with implementing appropriate risk systems within the Association. Aspects of this process may be delegated. The risk management system should be based on the Australian Standard AS/NZS 4360:2004 "Risk Management".

Risk management is considered a key governance and management process. It is not an exercise merely to ensure business compliance. The primary objectives of the risk management system at the Association are to ensure:

- a. All major sources of potential opportunity for adverse events and harm to the association (both existing and potential) are identified, analysed and treated appropriately; and
- b. Business decisions throughout the Association appropriately balance risk and reward trade off.

Any risk management system should review all major strategies and purchases for their impact on the risk facing the Association and makes appropriate recommendations to the Board. The Board should undertake an annual review of the Association's operations to update its Risk Profile. This normally occurs in conjunction with the strategic planning process.

17 DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY

Directors are responsible for any delegation of their responsibilities with regard to Association operations. As such, they decide as a Board what Association matters are delegated to either specific Directors or Officers. In addition, they outline what controls are in place to oversee the operation of these delegated powers. Delegations will be in accordance with Constitution of the Association Section 23 as amended from time to time.

As a consequence, individual Directors have no individual authority to participate in the day-to-day management of the Association, including making representations or agreements with member companies, suppliers, customers, employees or other parties or organisations. The exception to this principle occurs where the Board, through resolution, explicitly delegates an authority to the Director individually. It is recognised that the CEO will carry significant delegated authority by virtue of their management position as outlined in a relevant Board resolution.

17.1 General Delegations

General delegations of authority should be in accordance with the Delegations of Authority Policy, Procedure and Schedule. In general, the Board will delegate all powers and authorities required to effectively and efficiently carry out the Association's business. Listed below are the exceptions to these delegations, whereby the Board or appropriate Committee reserves the power as indicated.

As appropriate, the Association will undertake to provide personal development training that is compatible with the induction of new Directors, as their appointment to the Board occurs from time to time.
