Shareclarity and NZX collaborate on equity research

Under a new arrangement with NZX, Shareclarity will provide the New Zealand market with increased access to equity research.

Shareclarity is a fintech equity research firm that covers New Zealand, Australia and Hong Kong listed companies. This arrangement with NZX will allow Shareclarity to access market data so it can extend the companies it provides research on in the New Zealand market.

Shareclarity Managing Director Daniel Kieser commented: "We are excited to be working with the NZX and see this as the first of many opportunities to help increase investor and issuer participation in the New Zealand share market."

NZX Head of Issuer Relationships Joanna Lawn commented: "The NZX is keen to support new and innovative businesses that educate investors and improve their access to relevant information. This arrangement with Shareclarity will assist in facilitating broader access to company research in the New Zealand market, particularly for smaller companies and those looking to list."

NZX has stepped up the service offering in its core markets business over the last 12 months and is increasingly looking for opportunities to support the broader market. In addition to this initiative, NZX will shortly be releasing its updated listing rules which will accommodate the listing of a wider range of equity, debt and fund products.
