THE NQ FAMILY LAW PATHWAYS NETWORK PRESENTS

A WORKSHOP WITH DR SAM HARDY
“CONFLICT COACHING IN A POST SEPARATION CONTEXT”

Conflict coaching involves a conflict management specialist providing one-on-one support to a person enabling them to constructively deal with conflict. This support may be provided in relation to a specific conflict, or to assist the client to develop their conflict management skills more generally. Sam will adapt the training to suit a post separation context.

This workshop will be very relevant to legal practitioners, social workers and mediators.

About the speaker:

Sam has been described as both a practical thinker and a thinking practitioner. Sam has advanced postgraduate qualifications including a PhD in conflict resolution as well as many years of international experience as a conflict resolution practitioner. In addition to offering conflict coaching and mediation services, Sam is also a well-known trainer, university educator and writer in the field of conflict management and resolution. Sam has been mediating and conflict coaching since 1997. She practices primarily in the workplace context, and in the university sector. She is an experienced conflict coach and the founder of the REAL Conflict Coaching System. Sam has a range of postgraduate qualifications in law, conflict resolution and teaching.
