About Many Rivers

Inspired by Christian values, Many Rivers exists to help Indigenous and other Australians in disadvantaged circumstances to improve their situations through the provision of microenterprise and community economic development support and access to core business products and services, including microfinance.

Many Rivers' clients are seeking to move from welfare dependency to self-reliance and to making a valuable contribution to their communities and to the broader economy. When people impacted by disadvantage are not able to participate in the real economy, they remain disadvantaged.

In many of the regional and remote communities where we work there are limited job opportunities. Therefore, to create real economic growth and increase the opportunities for those in disadvantaged situations to overcome multiple economic and social challenges, Many Rivers enables enterprise creation and connection to mainstream economies. This in turn creates sustainable employment where often there are limited opportunities. Benefits accrue to the individual and their family, the community and the nation:

- Empowering individuals through business coaching to create new and diverse businesses, thereby increasing household income and assets and providing greater certainty and stability for families;
- Enabling increased availability of locally provided goods and services in remote, regional and urban locations, helping to build sustainable local economies; and
- Contributing to Australia's economic growth through supporting a reduced reliance on welfare and improvement in economic and social outcomes.

Many Rivers supports people to start in business, stay in business and thrive in business. We support clients to start enterprise and then journey with them as they develop their businesses, their business skills and coach towards a sustainable/thriving business.
