The Art & Science of Building Connections Before Content

Practical one-day training for experiential educators, teachers & program leaders who want to engage & strengthen the relationships of the people in their programs

QORF / Sports House
Brisbane, QLD

Tue 13 Aug
8:30am to 4:30pm

Research clearly shows that programs which intentionally develop trusting & healthy relationships out-perform all other programs on so many levels - greater participation, stronger communities & improved performance.

If this is what you want for your classroom, staff or camp, this one-day professional development workshop is for you.

Fun group games & activities are one of the most powerful (and attractive) ways to help people connect, and strong relationships amplify the results of whatever you're trying to get done (no matter your content.)

This NEW, highly-interactive workshop will guide you through a sequence of presentations, discussions & incredibly fun group activities to learn:

- The three universal truths of programming & the impact these have on the success of your program;
- The latest research which proves that inviting people to play, share, trust & build connections is the most powerful pathway to their success & wellbeing;
- Dozens of new, innovative & highly enjoyable activities which you can immediately integrate into your setting to connect people to one another & build strong communities;
- Simple, yet powerful, four-step sequential framework that is proven to create remarkably fun programs; and
- Critical program leadership skills to help you inspire, equip & empower your group to be the best it can be.
