SCRIPT

ACT ONE

A busy Shopping Centre in your town. Enter Narrator.

Narrator: A hot and dusty street in the middle of town. It is Christmas 2009. There have been several reported sightings of one Mister S. Claus. Up until now no-one has any inkling of where to start looking for that big, jovial bringer of Christmas joy.

SONG 1 It's Christmas Time Again

Enter Robbie with a shoulder bag of newspapers. He waves one around as he shouts.

Robbie: Read all about it! Read all about it!
Big guy dressed in red and white overalls seen at local shopping mall!
Answers to the name of, 'Santa'. Seven reindeer booked in 'No Parking Zone'.
Read all about it! Read all about it!

Enter our five Santas. They move in a line rhythmically to their signature music across the stage. They are all wearing cool sunglasses to 'disguise' themselves.

Narrator: So....Who we gonna' call? Santa Busters! That's who!
Our two intrepid private investigators, Dan B. Nosey, and his sturdy side-kick, Minnie, 'The Snoop', are entering the mall, as we speak.

Enter Dan and Snoop. They approach the newspaper boy.

Dan: Give me one of them there papers son – and make it snappy!

Snoop: (aside, to the audience)
That Dan is always so forceful!

Narrator: Unfortunately, Dan is also clumsy. He makes an absolute mess of trying to open and read the newspaper.

Dan tries in vain to fold and read the paper, but ends up with pages flying everywhere. Snoop buys his own paper and has no trouble reading the headline.

Narrator: In exasperation, Snoop buys one and reads the headline.

Snoop: Hey Boss! Someone's seen Santa!
