Introduction

About the RSL Virtual War Memorial

“Comprehensive coverage of the communities and of the men and women that they gave up to write history in our name”

The RSL Virtual War Memorial is a unique endeavour designed to combine the power of digital technologies with public and private collections to enable unparalleled access to the stories, photographs, audio-visual sources of those who have served Australia since 1899.

The RSL Virtual War Memorial aims to be the definitive resource and repository for anyone wanting to research, study or contribute to the commemoration of South Australia's and the Northern Territory's socio-military history, from the Boer War to the present day.

Founding principles:

Education - local context for school students studying under the National Curriculum

Commemoration - give greater depth of meaning to our memorial infrastructure

Community Engagement - crowd sourcing of community family and personal information

Accessibility – connect 24/7 anywhere with internet access via mobile devices

This site is unique in its ambition, scope and reach. It complements and will interact with others sites such as the Australian War Memorial and National Archive of Australia sites with whom we are actively collaborating. The Virtual War Memorial is both a repository and a resource for students, family, researchers, teachers, historians, genealogists and communities. It is the research project that will never end, as we strive to make stories as complete as we can.

Our “Virtual Memorials” provide a digital home for all who served, whether or not they are recorded on physical memorials. We also have a feature which, when enabled through mobile devices, will provide relevant streaming digital content triggered by geo-spatial proximity to physical memorials.

About this document

This document is intended to support teachers interested in using the RSL Virtual War Memorial as a resource for teaching the Year 10 Depth Study on World War II. It outlines the links between the Australian Curriculum: History and the RSL Virtual War Memorial. It also includes opportunities for learning outside of the classroom and a number of support resources. The RSL Virtual War Memorial aims to cater, as much as possible for the needs of teachers, so all feedback and suggestions would be gratefully appreciated.

The RSL Virtual War Memorial and the Year 10 WWII Depth Study

The RSL Virtual War Memorial lends itself particularly well to the Australian Curriculum: History depth study on World War II and effective use of the RSL Virtual War Memorial can help teachers to foster in students each of the historical skills expected of students at the Year 10 level. The following pages highlight where and how explicit links can be made between the RSL Virtual War Memorial and the Australian Curriculum.

Historical Knowledge and Understanding

Overview of the causes and course of World War II

- Identifying key events in the European theatre of war
- Identifying key events in the Asia-Pacific theatre of war

Through the RSL Virtual War Memorial Schools Program, students:

- Use sources generated from and about those who were directly involved in key events in the European and Asian-Pacific theatres of war.
- Are exposed to the war as seen through the eyes of their individual, families, comrades, commanding officers etc.

The experiences of Australians during World War II

- Prisoners of War
- The Battle of Britain
- Kokoda – its significance and role in fostering the ANZAC legend
- The Fall of Singapore

Through their research into an individual, students:

- Develop a deeper understanding of the experiences of individuals involved in significant campaigns.
- Who profile a Prisoner of War will also develop a greater understanding of the conditions they faced in battle and internment and, for those who survived, their lives after the war.

RSL Virtual War Memorial TEACHER RESOURCE

The impact of World War II, with a particular emphasis on the Australian home front

- The bombing of Darwin
- The Japanese submarine attack on Sydney
- The sinking of ships off the Australian coast
- The 'Battle of Brisbane'
- The Cowra breakout
- The Brisbane Line
- Changing roles of women
- Wartime government controls – conscription, manpower controls, rationing, censorship

1 Darwin Raids - Casualty Lists and Enquiries, NAA: F1, 1942/364

The RSL Virtual War Memorial attempts to illuminate the lives behind the names and service numbers. By developing a profile, composing a biography and discovering the personal stories of the men and women who have served Australia. Students are able to:

- Develop their understanding of Australia in the mid-twentieth century and how it was changed by the conflict.
- Investigate individuals involved in events that significantly affected Australia at home, such as the air raids on Darwin in 1942
- Make a real contribution to our understanding of Australia's wartime history by compiling a profile which reflects the personal experience of service men and women and their families and communities World War II.

Historical Skills

Chronology, terms & concepts

Students develop their understanding of World War II chronology, terms & concepts

- compiling individual timelines of life and service
- developing familiarity with conflict timelines and the chronology of campaigns
- interpreting military terminology from a range of primary sources
- examine contemporary perspectives of a number of contested concepts specific to conflict studies including invasion and remembrance
- key historical concepts covered include:
 - o significance
 - o evidence
 - o continuity & change – at personal, communal and global levels
 - o cause & consequence – as seen through the perspective of individuals
 - o ethical understanding – developing historical empathy

Historical questions & research

The process of developing a profile of a service man or woman enables students to develop their research skills through:

- Encouraging & supporting students to develop their own questions of historical inquiry
- Evaluating & developing these questions
- Identifying and locating a range of primary and secondary sources through the resources provided by the Education Portal and links to digital and physical collections, archives and museums.

Analysis and use of sources

In order to build a successful profile, students:

- Analyse a wide range of primary and secondary sources on or through the RSL Virtual War Memorial website to help them contextualise the life of a service man or woman
- Use these sources as evidence and synthesise information about an individual
- Evaluate the reliability and usefulness of these sources in developing a biography.

Perspectives & interpretations

Students are introduced to multiple, and sometimes competing, perspectives from varied sources. Through their research and development of an individual's profile, students:

- Investigate the role of human agency in the course of war
- May also be led to investigate the role of human agency in technological, social and political developments on the front and at home
- May be introduced to a range of differing accounts of events and can analyse these in the context of differing historical interpretations.

Explanation & Communication

As part of their involvement in the Schools Program, students communicate their research through the profile they compile and enter onto the RSL Virtual War Memorial website. Students:

Biography

This biography thanks to Steve Lewis, Bob's biographer in "Chasing Shadows"

Born in Broken Hill in June 1922, from an early age Bob enjoyed a semi-rural upbringing north of Adelaide, where his father, Henry Cowper, worked at Roseworthy Agricultural College. Bob's Father, himself a veteran of World War 1, was one of thousands who suffered horrendous gas burns on the Western Front, and was no doubt an inspiration to the young Bob Cowper.

On the day of his eighteenth birthday, Bob cycled from the family home north of Adelaide to North Terrace in Adelaide City, signalling his intentions to enlist at Number 5 Recruiting Depot of the RAAF.

He was accepted for basic air force training in December 1940 alongside other South Australian volunteers who would ultimately contribute to Australia's reinforcement of the RAF.

Before his nineteenth birthday, Bob graduated from EATS (Empire Air Training Scheme) which he undertook in Western Australia and Canada, and with the extra bonus of a commission (Pilot Officer) was on his way to Scotland for further assessment and ultimately for training as a night fighter.

Decades later, he describes this Atlantic crossing as one of the most harrowing experiences of his eventful wartime career, with freezing weather, overcrowding and the constant fear of attack from German U-boats.

- Construct a biography of an individual who served in World War One evidence from a range of sources to support their interpretation.
- May also present "personal stories" related to the life of the individual in variety of communications forms, including audio-visual formats.

Writing a Biography

When adding a biography, try to tell a story of a life and not repeat data that is already known. Avoid a string of dot points or date related information that is already on the record. A narrative is always easier to read. Readers will want you to 'tell the story'.

What did the person like, and dislike? What did others think of them, what was important to them? Why did they sign up for service?

Letters, diary notes and oral histories / interviews all add a personal dimension and, if you can, they should be included. First-hand accounts are a lot more compelling than retrospective speculation. Personal impressions of the situation they were in add to the depth and substance of the narrative.

The aim of this site is to be more than a presentation of data.
We want to tell a story and give life to the name...

Process

- Assemble your sources and collate the information.
- Prepare an outline and use headings if it helps.
- Write it in Word. Check the spelling and grammar before uploading to the site.
- Try and tell a story - use prose rather than dot points but keep paragraphs short.

What information should I include?

1. A timeline based narrative is probably the best. There is usually a typed chronology of the soldier's service in their service record – it is a basis to work from.
2. It is always useful to start from the beginning! Birth, parents, siblings and residence. Relationships to others who served Australia are also good to include. A clue is to search the National Archive service record by entering the name of next of kin.
3. Growing up - school records are terrific if you can find them – check out Arthur Harris' school cadets photo!
4. Pre enlistment employment and /or service in the cadets or militia etc adds context to life before conflict.
5. Enlistment, embarkation, re-assignment (where and when it took place). Many soldiers embarked with one unit and ended up in another. Working out whether they were involved in particular campaigns is a bit more difficult.

RSL Virtual War Memorial

TEACHER RESOURCE

6. Absences such as illness, courses / training and detachment to other units is generally recorded in the service record. So before assuming they were in, it is best to see if they were definitely 'out'.
7. Decorations are often best treated as "stories" – what they were awarded for – action place date, are more important than when they were gazetted or actually presented.
8. As far as post service life, that is where family records or perhaps "Trove" kicks in.

Writing Tips

More detail can be added as a Resource in your individual's profile, eg. a standalone document such as memoir.

1. Keep it concise – if it's too long, people won't stick with it.
2. If there is a lot of information, look for key or quirky events - they serve as the 'hook' to keep people reading
3. An appropriate point of focus might be a particular incident or some distinguishing characteristic of his/her service.

Added Extras

1. Photos with multiple people - those people who are help us to build biographies and stories of other men and women who served - and yours might be the only photo that exists of them!
2. Quotations are great evidence of your individual's life and service – but one or two are generally enough, so pick the best ones.

5 Malaya, an A.I.F. anti-tank gun crew, 03/1941, AWM 006372

Don't Forget

Additional quotes can be added as stories. We found an absolute gem - a letter from WWI Private Max Allan's Platoon Commander Sergeant John Ponton, addressed to none other than Miss Vera Deakin - the founder of the Red Cross Missing investigations.

1. Captions and attributions are necessary for any images - respect Copyright and acknowledge the source.
2. Tell us if photos are from a personal collection.

Personal Stories

6 Tom Tobin after he was commissioned with the rank of Pilot Officer, probably August 1944, Jane Eblen (nee Tobin) private collection

Tom Tobin's Log Book

Tom kept an exquisitely detailed log book of his flying career, together with memorabilia such as maps, photographs and the like.

His log book is now in the possession of his daughter, Jane. He recorded in great detail and in very fine neat hand writing every mission he flew.

These will be recorded progressively on this site.

He also kept track of the tail numbers of the aircraft he flew and their eventual fate. Lancaster 642 was the aircraft in which he flew most of his missions.

One evening in March 1945, he and his crew were due to fly but his navigator called in sick and rather than split the crew, they were stood down and another crew took 642. It didn't return. No wonder flight crews had a reputation for being superstitious.

He is mentioned repeatedly in the 153 Squadron website as one of the characters (and survivors) of the Squadron.

At war's end his grateful crew (he had brought them home safely 30 times) presented him with a beautiful scale replica of their aircraft. On its base is inscribed the targets of the 30 missions he 'skipped'. It is now in the possession of his grandson Heath Eblen.

From information provided by Jane Eblen, Tom's daughter.

What is the difference between a personal story and a biography?

A personal story can be anything that gives us a glimpse into the life and character of an individual who served.

While a biography narrates the events of a person's life, a personal story allows you more freedom to help us understand your individual. A personal story could include a story passed down through generations, a poem or, as in the case of Flying Officer Tom Tobin, it could come from their own personal records of service, in which their individual character shines through.

Personal stories:

- Can be found in anything from letters to diaries to official reports.
- Do not need to be very long to give us a sense of the person they are about
- Can be added to at any time. The more stories about an individual, the easier it is for us to begin to understand who they were.
