

A little bit of history...

The property now known as Adels Grove, located adjacent to Boodjamulla (Lawn Hill) National Park and close to the World Heritage listed Riversleigh Fossil deposits, was originally gazetted in 1904 as a Miners Homestead Lease.

In 1920 Albert de Lestang took up the property as an experimental Botanical Garden (hence the name "Adels" arose from Albert's initials).

By 1939 Albert had planted over 1000 species of exotic and native plants, shrubs and trees, and supplied the Botanical Gardens of the world with the seeds produced by his nursery.

The Botanical Gardens in Brisbane still has 536 different samples of seeds sent to them by Albert, held in their collection.

Rod and Michelle Low Mow along with their partners Gary, Alan and staff welcome all visitors to our piece of paradise and look forward to sharing our experiences in the Lawn Hill - Riversleigh area with you.
