

Need more information or support?

The new Royal Adelaide Hospital provides an Aboriginal Health Unit to support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander patients, their families and carers.

Our Aboriginal Health Team will support Aboriginal patients and their escorts with transport and temporary accommodation arrangements.

The Aboriginal Health Unit is centrally located within the hospital's main entrance area on level 3.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the Aboriginal Health Unit to help you or your family during your stay or visit to the Royal Adelaide Hospital.

Interpreters are available for Aboriginal languages.

Please feel free to ask about this service.

Visitor accommodation has been built into general inpatient rooms at the new Royal Adelaide Hospital (RAH), enabling a relative or carer to stay overnight when it is in the patient's best interests.

Each general inpatient room features a visitor bed with linen packs available to hire. Proceeds will go to the RAH Research Fund.

While these expanded provisions will enable more carers and family members to remain with their loved one, for those who need to stay offsite there are a range of options to consider.

These include staying with friends and family or utilising offsite subsidised accommodation facilities that cater specifically for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

The accommodation providers listed in this brochure offer Aboriginal people culturally appropriate and affordable accommodation in safe and comfortable environments.

Please note, if you decide to stay with friends or family, you will need to arrange your own transport to and from hospital.

Accommodation for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander patients and families

The Mulgunya, Luprina and Nindee hostels are operated by Aboriginal Hostels Limited.
