

Piano Practice Blogging

Your challenge is to produce a weekly blog post sharing the highs and the lows of your piano practice.

Your audience is most likely to be other piano students. Your blog could provide encouragement and advice to them.

When writing, think about what would entertain, interest and inform you.

Tell your audience:

- the names of the pieces you are learning
- which bits of the pieces you are finding difficult, and why
- which bits of the pieces you really enjoy playing
- what practice strategies you are using
- which technical exercises you are practising
- how much practice (length of time or number of repeats)
- what you hope to achieve or improve next week

You could also include:

- You Tube clips
- relevant pictures
